Fear Cramer Down on Denmark Hop.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 10.—[Monday.]—Radio messages have been flashed to all ships and coast guard stations on the North sea during the night to attempt to locate Parker D. Cramer, who started in his monoplane from Lerwick, Shetland island, at 9:14 a. m. 4:14 a. m. Chicago time] yesterday to fly to Copenhagen on the last stage of his journey across the Atlantic by the northern air route.

He was due to arrive at the Kastrup airdrome here at 4 p. m. yesterday, but as hour after hour passed without any news of his whereabouts, officials began to grow anxious. At 3:30 a. m. [Chicago daylight saving time], today Copenhagen was still without news.

Gale Raging at Sea.

Reports from the weather bureau yesterday said that a strong wind which would have helped Cramer on the early part of his flight had, around midday, veered around and later in the afternoon was blowing almost at gale force. Cramer and his companion would have had to battle against this wind as they neared the Norwegian coast.

Requests to ships from the American coast guard stations, North Winship, brought scanty information. The radio operator of one vessel reported he had heard Cramer's call sign "up to 8 p. m. Greenwich time," but could give no estimate of the airman's position. The code sign according to this operator, was not accompanied by any message.

Hear Cramer's Signals.

The Danish coast guard station at Skagen at 12:30 p. m. had picked up a radio from Cramer that he was then flying in the direction of Stavanger, Norway, and intended to fly directly to Copenhagen. He gave no position, but it is believed he must have been near the Norwegian coast.

There is a possibility that Cramer, in making his passage slowed up by a strong head wind, turned eastward toward Norway and landed in one of the many fjords which abound on this rocky coast. In this case it is likely that he would have some difficulty in communicating with friends in Copenhagen, as telegraph offices are few and the majority are closed on Sundays.

LINOTS HELD IN ALASKA

A heavy rain and falling barometer at Nome, their next stop, 532 miles southwest of here, delayed their takeoff. Nearly an inch of rain had fallen there in the 24 hour period ended at 5 a. m., and a 20 mile an hour wind was blowing from the southwest. It was cloudy here with a 10 mile northeast wind.

The Lindberghs brought their plane down here yesterday at 5 a. m. [Chicago time] after a 536 mile flight from Aklavik, N. W. T.

The white residents of Point Barrow, who have had no mail for four months and are literally starved for news from the outside, are getting "an earful" and the Lindberghs, as a result of their stay, are seeing much of the life of this settlement.

Anne Gets Homesick.

Mrs. Lindbergh made much over the smallest white resident—the eight months old Barrow Morgan, daughter of the United States signal corps operator and his wife. Mrs. Lindbergh said sight of the child made her homesick for her own baby.

After a long rest yesterday, the flying couple rose much refreshed and following breakfast, accompanied by half the children of the village, took a short walk on the arctic ice pack.

Col. Lindbergh seemed to take a personal interest in the food problem and asked what would be done if supply boats, which are blocked by ice 150 miles southwest of here, were unable to get through. He was told it would be necessary to haul supplies by dog team to get the food and fuel necessary to sustain life during the coming winter.

Suggests Air Food Service.

He could hardly believe, he said, that dog teams could handle the situation, and asked why airplanes could not be used. He was told the cost was prohibitive.

Mrs. Lindbergh toured the village and visited the Presbyterian hospital.

SIX ARE KILLED AS A TRI-MOTOR PLANE CRASHES

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Six persons, five men and one woman, were killed today when the Cincinnati-Atlanta airplane of the Embrey-Riddle division of American Airways crashed on the bank of the Little Miami river one minute after its take-off.

Those who were killed were:

Baum, V. B., 1795 Foster avenue, Memphis.

Brimberry, W. H., 393 Peachtree street, Atlanta.

Hughes, Miss Wrenna D., Fort Thomas, Ky.

Keith, William E., 196 Rumson avenue, Atlanta.

Odell, M. T., pilot, Cincinnati.

A broken hub of the propeller on the right hand motor of the Ford trimotor plane caused the tragedy, airport officials said. The plane was in charge of Odell, who was transferred to the Cincinnati division of the American Airways on Aug. 1 with Dewald.

Motor Follows Propeller.

In the minute which elapsed between the take-off and the crash Odell staged a dramatic struggle with the controls. He was less than 500 feet in the air when the propeller was torn loose and fell from the plane. This lightened the load of the motor and caused it to revolve at such a terrific speed that it, too, was torn loose. With one propeller, Odell experienced difficulty in managing the machine, and apparently made for a sand bar in the Little Miami river near the airport.

He was unable to make the plane hold its altitude, however, and it fell on the sand and nosed over, killing the occupants instantly.

Cabin Crushed Like Shell.

The passenger cabin was crushed like a shell when the plane turned over completely.

Gasoline was sprayed all over the wreckage, but Odell had shut off his motors before he died and there was no fire.

Allen Neff, 19, who lives near the scene of the accident, was fishing nearby with Howard Tucker, a friend. The young men jumped into the river when they saw the plane coming down and swam across. Neff tried to remove the bodies and other nearby residents sounded a fire alarm which brought life saving apparatus and firemen. All that was saved from the wreckage was the battered baggage of the passengers and the mail which also was carried by the plane.

The coroner immediately gave permission for removal of the bodies and efforts were made at once to notify relatives of those killed.

The mail was dispatched on a special train a short time later.

Investigation Under Way.

The usual inspection of the plane was made before the takeoff, airport officials said, and everything appeared to be in good condition. The United States department of commerce immediately began an investigation.

Inspectors removed the hub of the propeller when it was found in a field nearly 2,000 feet from the wreckage. The detached motor, to which the loosened propeller had been attached, was found 1,500 feet from the smashup.

The inspectors said their report would be made to Washington officials, although they said they agreed with American Airways officials here that the crash was caused by a broken hub on the propeller.

Odell was a native of St. Francis, Kas. He was 23 years old and considered one of the most experienced pilots in the country, airport officials said. He learned to fly at Oberlin, Kas., in 1926. He had nearly 3,900 hours in the air, of which 1,100 were at night.

Youth Killed in Crash.

Marshalltown, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Edwin Mendenhall, 15, was fatally injured and two others were badly hurt in an airplane crash near here today. Clifford Young, 38, pilot and owner of the plane, suffered injuries from which he is expected to die. Walter Hannum, 20, suffered broken bones and shock, but may recover.

Texas Flyer Killed.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Herman Carrier, 19, of Port Arthur, was killed and Alfred L. Light, 32, of Denver, Colo., was injured, probably fatally, late today when their plane crashed at Port Arthur.

Havana Under Martial Law; Revolt Breaks

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Aug. 9.—A state of siege [martial law] was declared in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio this morning because of alleged open revolutionary activities. The state of siege probably will be extended to other provinces.

MARIO G. MENOCAL

In Luyano, a suburb of Cuba, three persons were killed and fourteen wounded in a one hour battle of police with supposed revolutionists. In Pinar del Rio seventeen prominent Cubans were seized as leaders of a revolutionary movement. Among the seventeen were Fausto and Guatimon Menocal, brothers of former President Mario G. Menocal; Mayito Menocal, a son of the general; Dr. Ricardo Dolz, dean of law at the National university, and Santiago Veroesja, former speaker of the house of representatives.

Arrested on Coast.

They were arrested as they were disembarking from the yacht Coral, owned by Julio Cadenas, a retired army captain. Officials believe the yacht was being used for the distribution of regional leaders, arms, and ammunition for a rebellion.

The battle of Luyano took place when police attempted to search a stocking factory. Information having been received that a quantity of munitions was concealed in the factory, Lieut. Calvo, chief of the secret police, and assistants demanded entrance, but were met by rifle and pistol fire.

Police efforts to rush the building failed, in face of steady fire from the occupants of the building, and reserves were called to the scene. Two machine guns were set up and the factory was riddled with bullets.

Girl Is Killed.

Assault after assault by the police was repelled. In the fighting fourteen policemen were wounded and a girl was killed in attempting to flee from the vicinity.

The return fire from the building finally slackened, and the police discovered that only one person in it remained alive. He kept off the attackers for some time by rushing from one point to another and firing as rapidly as possible.

Advancing in extended order and using trees and building columns for protection, the police entered the building and found the building proprietor, Pino Ramirez, and the caretaker dead. A search of the building revealed a veritable arsenal of hand grenades, rifles, revolvers, shotguns, and ammunition, which were seized.

CHURCH WOMEN ROBBED OF $200 BY BANDIT TRIO

Three bandits held up the woman officers of a church society yesterday in the parish hall of St. Anne's Roman Catholic church, 1814 South Leavitt street, took $200, and escaped before several hundred members of the congregation who were attending a carnival a block away knew of the robbery.

The funds belonged to Local No. 98 of St. Barbara's society. The organization had held its monthly meeting, and Mrs. Mary Ciesla, 2007 South Leavitt street, was counting the dues which had been paid to her as treasurer.

"Give us that dough," demanded the leader of the trio. "We need it to bail out a pal."

They seized the money and fled. The women, including three nuns, gathered their wits and followed, screaming, but by the time they had reached the street the bandits had entered an automobile and driven away.

Railroad Head Comes Out for Traylor for President

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Daniel Upthegrove, president of the St. Louis Southwestern railroad, announced tonight he will support Melvin Alvah Traylor, Chicago banker, for the Democratic nomination for President.

Upthegrove said a committee now is being formed to further Traylor's candidacy. A movement in behalf of Traylor was recently launched at Malone and Hillsboro, Tex.

Gary 'Bootleg' King Kidnaped or 'Ride' Victim

Henry ["Hank"] Le Boeuf, reputed king of bootleggers of the Calumet region and northern Indiana, was either kidnaped or taken for a "ride" early this morning, according to the theory of Gary police who are working on his mysterious disappearance. At 2:30 o'clock his costly automobile was found in a lonely spot at 5th avenue and Bell street, on a road between Hammond and Gary, with the lights on and the engine running. His cap lay beside the machine and marks on his car indicated that he had been forced to the side of the road by another automobile. There were also signs of a struggle.

The machine was found by Lawrence G. Bennett, constable of Calumet township, and Rufus East, a Gary real estate man. They had passed the spot 20 minutes before, and the machine was not there. They took the car to Gary and reported the matter to the police, who began an investigation and announced that they believed Le Boeuf had been taken for a ride. However, in view of the kidnaping and holding for ransom of William C. Flanigan, "czar" of Gary gamblers, last Friday night, they admitted that it was possible Le Boeuf also is in the hands of kidnapers.

At the Olympic hotel in Gary, where Le Boeuf makes his home, it was said he had not been there during the night. From the report of Bennett and East, the police expressed the belief that he had been driving alone when his car was forced to the curb, and that he was then seized and thrown into another car, which speeded away.

Le Boeuf is an ally of Ralph Bradford, Gary real estate operator and Republican politician in northern Indiana. Both Bradford and Le Boeuf are under indictment returned last year by the federal grand jury at South Bend on charges of conspiracy to violate the Harrison anti-narcotic act and the prohibition laws.

107 Chicago Movies Close in Union Fight

Lockout orders were effective last night at 107 motion picture theaters in the Chicago area and it was estimated that 5,000 persons were thrown out of employment. The theater owners decided upon this move as a means of resisting the demand of the motion picture operators' union that two operators instead of one be employed at each show-house.

THEODORE LEVIN, Attorney for Movie Owners.

As soon as the last reels were run off at the 107 theaters the operators, ushers, ticket sellers and takers, janitors and stage hands were paid off and told they need not come back until further notice. Where a week's advance notice had not been given the union operators received extra pay, but most of them had been told a week ago they would be out of jobs unless their union officials yielded.

Larger Theaters Not Affected.

No word of a change in the union stand had been received by the exhibitors last night from Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union, and therefore the shutdown order was sent to all the theaters from the headquarters of Aaron Saperstein, president of the Chicago branch of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors. The larger theaters, about 150 of them, are not involved in the dispute and they with others not affiliated with the allied association will remain open.

Maloy had been in New York in conference with William Canavan, international president of the union, who is said to uphold Maloy in his refusal to reduce the number of operators.

Although direct negotiations between Maloy and the exhibitors appeared to be at a standstill, B. M. Marshman, a Chicago labor conciliator for the federal department of labor, said he had been assigned to try to effect a settlement of the dispute. He said he planned to interview Maloy and the exhibitors' representatives this morning.

Paid $95 to $175 a Week.

The union membership is said to consist of 550 men who hold cards and about 400 operators known as permit men who pay 10 per cent of their earnings into the union coffers for the privilege of working. The pay scale ranges from $90 a week to $175, depending on the number of hours of work.

Many of those discharged last night were "card" men and under union rules they are to be given preference in employment. Therefore, several operators said, many "permit" men employed at the theaters remaining open will be ousted in favor of the "card" men.

The union will therefore stand to lose revenue of $2,000 to $3,000 a week during the idleness of 214 operators whose pay averaged more than $100 a week and who have been paying 10 per cent of their wages to the union.

Explains Exhibitors' Stand.

Attorney Theodore Levin, representing the exhibitors, said it was impossible to predict how long the 107 movie houses will be closed. Back of the decision to lock out the unionists there is the possibility of a reopening with nonunion operators, he intimated.

The National Association of Exhibitors has reached the conclusion, it was stated, that the time has come to refuse longer to submit to union dictation and that Chicago was as good a starting place as any for the "readjustments" that are to come. The Chicago exhibitors said they are facing ruin because the depression

The Incident of the Czar's Pelts and Today's Fur Prices

"Twenty-five years ago the czar of Russia paid $1,865 apiece for a pair of fox furs at one of the big London auctions," a veteran of the Chicago fur industry recently told a representative of the Chicago Tribune. "This year," the fur man continued, "you could buy a pair of the same kind of furs, of the very same quality, for less than $200."

Not all furs, as the speaker pointed out, have suffered such drastic declines in price. But this incident serves to emphasize the fact that fur prices in general are down. Many men who have been engaged in the fur industry all their lives will tell you that they can't remember when fur prices in general were so low as they are today. Any woman who has recently inspected the offerings of Chicago stores that sell furs should be able to cite numerous detailed examples of the increased buying power of the fur coat dollar.

Reductions in the less expensive furs under last year's prices are appreciable. And in the costlier garments you can get a coat at prices that are 25%, and more in some cases, below the prices that were asked for coats of similar quality last year.

This refers, of course, to the offerings at the August sales. When cold weather sets in, the indications are, prices will be adjusted upward. Now is a good time to buy.

MASSED POLICE FIRED UPON BY MOB ON ROOFS

Move to Dissolve Prussia Diet Fails.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Disheartened by the failure of the plebiscite, by which extreme radicals had hoped to dissolve the Prussian diet, communist rioters, ambushed on house tops, tonight and without warning poured rifle and pistol shots into the ranks of policemen in mass formation in Buelow Platz square. Two police captains fell dead and in the pitched battle that followed two more policemen and twelve communists were killed.

Many others, including a child, who was caught in the cross fire, were wounded. Several are expected to die. The exact toll of dead and wounded has not been determined because the fleeing Reds carried both dead and wounded with them.

Police Captains Fall Dead.

The attack occurred while a detachment of police were drawn up in front of the Karl Liebknecht house, where the headquarters of the communist newspaper Rote Fahne (Red Flag) are located. From positions high on roofs a sudden volley burst. The two police captains fell to the pavement and their companions deployed as skirmishers and returned the fire.

Within a few minutes police had killed twelve of the communist mob and driven most of the others from their positions. Desultory firing and sniping, however, continued for several hours.

After the first clash police reformed their ranks and threw a cordon about the area. A large crowd witnessed the shooting, but quickly fled in panic when bullets spattered on walls near by. Police searched all pedestrians and all nearby houses, and rushed the wounded to hospitals.

Bullets Rain into Office.

While the fighting was at its height a telephone call to the Red newspaper office brought the following statement from Werner Hirsch, communist leader.

"We are absolutely besieged. Fifty men, working on the morning paper, dare not leave the house because the police have surrounded it and are firing with pistols and carbines at our shuttered windows. It is a one sided civil war."

The communists declared that the men in the office were unarmed. Hirsch said the front offices were vacated because "police shots are coming through the shutters shoulder high. The inhabitants of houses near by are in danger of flying shots."

Communists and Hitlerites also clashed in Wilmersdorff, another section of Berlin, while minor clashes between Fascists and communists occurred in scattered parts of the city.

City Heavily Patrolled.

Throughout the crowded Kurfuerstendamm area police were active all day in attempts to prevent outbreaks which were expected among disgruntled radicals as the result of the plebiscite's failure.

Buelow plats late tonight resembled a military camp. Armored cars and heavily armed police patrolled the entire area by the light of huge searchlights.

Other riots were reported at Breslau, Halle, Osnabrueck, Eckernforde, Kiel, Altona, Harburg, Isehof and Meldorf. In several of the cities police were forced to use their pistols to quell clashes between communists and Fascists, or Fascists and republican Reichsbanner men.

PRUSSIAN DIET STAYS

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The attempt of leftist and rightist opposition forces to dissolve the Prussian diet by a plebiscite failed today by more than 3,500,000 votes.

The Nationalists, National Socialists, Fascists, communists, and other parties backing the dissolution vote polled only 9,793,000 votes, according to the final official tabulation, as against the 13,440,000 votes which would have been required to carry the proposal. A majority of all the qualified voters in Prussia was necessary to carry.

Thus the combined onslaught of the opposition on the regime of Chancellor Bruening in Germany — on the principle that "he who controls Prussia controls the reich" — was definitely turned back at the polls.

The same parties which supported today's plebiscite polled an aggregate of 12,420,000 votes at the famous "Hitler" reichstag election on Sept. 14 last year. They fell far below their last year's mark today.

What percentage of the "yes" votes were communist and what National Socialist, Nationalist, or other was difficult to determine, since no party affiliation was involved in the voting. The question was merely "yes" or "no" on the dissolution of the diet.

For this reason, political circles tonight insisted that it was too early to say, for example, that Adolf Hitler's National Socialists have lost ground in Prussia. But it was admitted by most commentators that the fact was clear that the National Socialists and Nationalists, even with Communist help, failed in their attempt to legally drive out the present Prussian régime by the ballot.

Plead for World Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBLENZ, Germany, Aug. 9.—Forty thousand Reichsbanner men, celebrating the 12th anniversary of the German republic and 20,000 civilians joined today in an appeal for world peace at a spectacular Reichsbanner convention here today.

"It is folly to think of war when modern science has made it possible to wipe out mankind like rats," Gen. von Deiming declared, in an address.

He then offered the hand of friendship to France, saying:

"To you, our French comrades, we extend our hand for mutual cooperation in creating understanding and peace between our nations."

Boasts of "Peace Army."

Karl Severing, Prussian minister of interior, known to communists as "Bloody" Severing because of his organization of Prussian police, declared:

"Our big army of peace, composed of 3,000,000 Reichsbanner men, should show the world that there are infinitely more people in Germany crying for peace than for revenge. It is our conviction that the way to protect the German border is by a will to peace, and not by a steel helmet organization."

The 40,000 Reichsbanner men paraded in a brilliant pageant at the conclusion of the celebration.

BANDIT IS SHOT, TWO CAPTURED IN CHASE BY POLICE

A detective squad chased two bandits, fleeing in a taxicab, for a mile on North Clark street yesterday, wounded one of the men, and captured both. The prisoners, Harry Howard, 45 years old, and Howard Warner, 25 years old, both of 357 North Clark street, have records as robbers, police said.

Howard and Warner robbed William Barker, a Yellow cab chauffeur, of $50 at Thome and Ridge avenues, and Sergt. August Ptacek and his squad set out to find the pair.

They were found just as they entered another cab, driven by Edward Clesius, at Devon avenue and Clark street. The bandits placed guns at Clesius' back and ordered him to drive northward. The squad pursued, firing at the bandits, who returned the fire.

The squad car crowded the cab to the curb at Howard street, and there found that Howard has a flesh wound in the back.

ROB COUPLE IN AUTO.

Two bandits held up George Fortier, 3122 West 39th street, and Miss Lucille Kurtz, 3157 West 38th street, as they were parked in Marquette park early yesterday in Fortier's automobile.

SUICIDE PACT WIPES OUT KIN OF DEAD ACTOR

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Fortune and home swept away by a series of financial and legal entanglements, Mrs. Florine Williams, widow of the motion picture actor, Earle Williams, was found fatally poisoned in her apartment today.

In the room beside her, dead, were her mother, Mrs. Clarisse Walz, 80, and her two children, Joan Constance, 7, and Earle Jr., 4. Police described it as a suicide and a murder pact. Mrs. Williams died in Emergency hospital.

Attendants in the apartment house discovered the tragedy when a neighbor missed the laughter of the children and saw a light burning. They found each of the four had large pads of cotton, saturated with chloroform, over their faces.

Four Letters on Table.

On a table were four letters, two in the handwriting of Mrs. Williams, written on black edged mourning paper she had used since the death of her husband several years ago. The others were penciled in the infirm scrawl of the aged mother.

Two of Mrs. Williams' letters, one to a Mr. McKenzie, and the other to Mrs. Madge Fisk, follow:

"My Dear Mrs. McKenzie:

"You have been goodness itself to me and I can't go without saying how sincerely grateful and appreciative I am. I am taking my mother and the babies, as I am all they have, and I can't leave them behind. I can't go on any longer, and if I am wrong, let God be my judge. Please send my bond to Mrs. Fish. I have left a letter to her care of everything necessary, and that will help a bit. I thank you for everyahing you have done for me, and may God bless you all."

Letter to Mrs. Fish.

["To Mrs. Madge Fish.]

"My Dear, Dear Mrs. Fish:

"Please forgive me for being a burden to you to the end. I cannot go on any longer, and as the babies have only me I feel I have to take them with me. It may be a cowardly way out, who knows, but God may forgive me and be my judge. I am enclosing for you my pawn tickets. The actual value of the things is about $1,500, and they are pawned for less than $200. I am leaving everything I have, including my clothes and all my personal belongings, also a check made payable to you for $170.

"Will you take the money and realize what more you can on my things, and have the babies and myself cremated, our ashes put in one urn, and have them shipped to my mother's plot at Cypress Hill cemetery, Jamaica avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.? Mother wants not to be cremated, but wants her body shipped in a casket to the same place. You and Mr. Fish are the two finest people I have ever known, and may God bless you for the wonderful way you have treated me and mine. I wouldn't trouble you, but I know I can go in peace and know I will reach my final resting place with my babies and not have to go to the potter's field. My mother has a plot for fourteen, and only my father is there.

Tells Her to Keep Sables.

"The plot is under the name of Walz. Keep the sables and fox and the best coats and the three good evening coats I had in the bag down here, my novelty jewelery, my make-up box, and Joan's miniature, as well as the pawn tickets, for the balance of my indebtedness to you here. Use the money and advance whatever is necessary for expenses and sell my dresses, hats, underwear, blankets, bags, shoes, and everything I have, and I can only pray you will get enough to cover everything.

"Please have them put Joan's little lavender dress on her and a lavender dress for her hair. It is hanging up in the closet in her room. Put on Sonny's rompers—yellow rompers. They are in his drawer. I want just a black dress, and please tell them to leave on my wedding ring. Knowing you and loving you, those have been the only happiness the past years have brought. And, believe me, I am going with a heart full of gratitude and love and appreciation. May God bless you both always. Forgive me.

"FLORINE WILLIAMS."

A series of financial difficulties, said by friends to be due to ignorance of business and bad advice of acquaintances, cost Mrs. Williams most of her fortune. Sale of her home in the Los Angeles movie colony after a mortgage had been placed on it led to her arrest on a charge of grand theft.

She pleaded guilty and was granted five years probation on promise to make good the loss. Police said other actions on checks, issued without funds, had been settled through sale of jewels and furs and most of her wardrobe. The last of her fortune—$180,000—was lost in a single stock transaction recently.

Accused a Promoter.

At a probation hearing in Los Angeles, Mrs. Williams' story of an infatuation with Wallace Harvey, promoter, was reported to the court by probation officers.

It was related that Mrs. Williams said she gave him various sums of money to invest, fell "completely under his domination, and was deeply in love with him."

Six days before her son was born, Harvey left for New York, after asking her for more money, it was alleged.

Mrs. Williams had been working here in a film exchange as a clerk and had been attempting to sell her remaining treasures, friends said, to meet outstanding obligations.

Kidnapers Ask $10,000 for Release of Gary Gambler

Negotiations yesterday for the release of William C. [Cully] Flanigan, kidnaped "czar" of the Gary gambling syndicate, were reported to have brought a demand for a ransom of $10,000. It was indicated that the family and friends of Flanigan would pay this amount and that he would be restored to them soon—possibly this morning.

Complications developed when J. Glenn Harris, attorney for the kidnaped man's wife, received four calls from persons representing themselves as the captors. As all were from different persons or sets of persons, it was suspected that at least three of the calls were from fakers.

From reliable sources, however, it was learned that Mr. Harris actually talked to Flanigan on the telephone and that they arranged a code that would enable the attorney to be sure he was dealing with the real kidnapers.

Late Saturday night Mr. Harris left the Hotel Gary, where Flanigan lived, and followed orders by driving south on U. S. Highway No. 41 to the vicinity of Morocco, Ind. At the appointed rendesvous he was reported to have waited for two hours without any one appearing.

Last night the attorney made another trip to meet the kidnapers, but returned before midnight with a report that he was again unable to get in touch with them.

Flanigan was seized by three armed men as he was walking in Gary, a few blocks from his home, early Friday morning.

MEXICAN TOWN IS WASHED AWAY; 350 FLEE TO HILLS

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Floods have washed away a Mexican village, filled the Santa Cruz river bed to flood mark, stopped all traffic between Tucson and Nogales, and tied up the Southern Pacific main line with a washout near Willcox.

A report from Ajo, Ariz., said that ranchers swam their horses across the swollen Sonoyta river to find that all but one of the adobe structures of Sonoyta, Sonora, had been melted down and that the 350 inhabitants had fled to high ground.

The river ordinarily is dry and tourists usually visited the town by driving across the sand of the river bed.

There was no known loss of life. On the main Tucson-Nogales highway the storm waters rose to a depth of three feet, marooning many cars.

MASSED NEGRO VOICES LIFTED IN FESTIVAL SONGS

Chorus Rehearses for Event Aug. 22.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Twilight across the aisles of a vast church. Dusky faces lifted to follow the rhythmic beat of a leader's hands. Resonant voices crooning the words of melodies that were old before the slaves were born. Music that lifts and swells and quivers in the shadowy aisles like the tones of a giant organ touched by master hands.

Something of religious, and much of racial intensity characterized this initial rehearsal of the Negro chorus of 1,500 voices that will weave its spell at Soldiers' field on Aug. 22, at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S second annual music festival. The singers, gathered in the Metropolitan Community church at 41st street and South Park way, have scant need for practice, for each individual in the massed chorus has known every inflection of these hymns and spirituals since they were toddlers.

No Music or Instruments.

There isn't a sheet of music in evidence. There isn't an instrument—not even a tuning fork—except the vocal chords of hundreds of throats, every one blending in that volume of sound that moves easily, effortlessly to and down the arched recesses of the auditorium like lazily rolling waves. It is soothing, mesmerizing, natural harmony that defies imitation; genuine Negro music sung by genuine Negro voices.

Down among the first few rows of the semicircular pews, a little to the left of the rostrum, a young woman stands singing the solo parts of that most familiar of all spirituals, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

Response from Many Voices.

Rich and clear and full, the lyric soprano wafted the words up and up to the vaulted roof. Rolling deep and strong, but softly, from the seated ranks came the chanted response:

"Comin' for to carry me home."

Lower and lower sinks the volume until it threads away into silence.

That glorious voice belongs to Irene Jackson, who was singled out for honors at the initial music festival last year, as one of the winners from the south side. There are other soloists whose participation with these choruses helps to make their rendition of the Hallelujah from Handel's "Messiah" the outstanding achievement of the organization.

Prof. Mundy Leads Chorus.

As one of the moving spirits of yesterday's rehearsal, Prof. James A. Mundy of the Mundy Choristers, wields the baton for the foregoing spiritual, then calls for another of the ancient hymns of this people. With the confidence borne of long training and countless repetition, the chorus drifts into the plaintive cadence of:

"De old ark's a-movin',
Children won't you come along,
De old ark's a-movin',
I thank God."

Sometimes Walter Gossette, assistant director, takes charge. Sometimes the group is led by George R. Garner Jr., of the National Jubilee Singers. Always the voices rise readily, smoothly. Singing is no effort to these people. It is a joy and a recreation.

They tried the "Hallelujah," and "Go Down, Moses." They sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," again and again. And then they sang what is probably the most universal hymn among Negroes throughout this country:

"When I feels the Spirit in my heart."

It is fervid and fast, lacking the low beat and the muted strains of the other songs. Loud, exhilarating, brilliant, it crashes through the church like the spirit of salvation let loose. It tears along rapidly and then suddenly drops to a whisper of sound, and is gone.

"Wherever the Negro has set up a church, you can depend upon it that song is sung," the auditors are informed. "Whether it's in a clapboard cabin in the Kentucky mountains, or on an Alabama plantation, or in the swamps of Florida, this is the one song that is always used at Negro religious services. Some of us don't know the other familiar spirituals, but here is one that every one of our race knows."

Way You Will Hear It.

That's the way they sang it yesterday—the way they sang it when you probably heard it last, as you passed on the road a little church set down in the middle of broad fields, and the voices of the congregation rose through the lighted windows and the open doorway, telling what the worshippers felt.

And before they finished, though we didn't wait to see, they undoubtedly got around to that ballad of future glory peculiarly their own:

President to Work Today on 57th Birthday

Luray, Va., Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Hoover probably will observe his 57th birthday tomorrow at his desk, working. No plans have been made for any type of celebration at the White House, and he was expected to spend a large part of the day in the executive offices.

Cool breezes in the Rapidan camp retreat of the chief executive refreshed him over the week-end. Early this morning he took a long walk. Mrs. Hoover, who returned to Washington early today from Akron, where she christened the navy's new dirigible, sped on to camp to escape the heat of the capital.

The President and Mrs. Hoover plan to return to Washington tomorrow morning. Most of the guests left today, but Senator Hebert of Rhode Island, Mrs. Hebert, and Henry M. Robinson, the Los Angeles financier, remained.

Theodore Holtz, 45 years old, was shot and seriously wounded last night by his wife, Leona, 39 years old, during a quarrel in their home at 2244 Fremont street. According to the wife, Holtz upbraided her daughter Elsie, the child of a former marriage, for making a dish of fudge.

WIFE SOUGHT ON WRIT AS INVALID MATE'S KIDNAPER

Mrs. Alice K. Smith, 40 years old, 2000 Lincoln Park West, and her business associate, John Dempsey, 1812 North Clark street, who are alleged to have kidnaped the woman's estranged husband, Hugo Smith, 41 years old, a paralytic, on Thursday night, were being sought yesterday by deputy sheriffs on a writ of habeas corpus demanding that the couple produce Smith in Superior Judge James J. Kelly's court today.

The petition for the writ was filed Saturday by Attorney Robert E. Kinnare, who charged that Mrs. Smith and Dempsey were holding Smith a prisoner to escape proceedings pending in the Probate court where a petition to remove her as conservatrix of her husband's $50,000 estate is set for hearing this week.

His client, according to Attorney Kinnare, was kidnaped from his home at 3732 Pine Grove avenue late Thursday night.

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—John Kline of Dayton, O., and his mother and 85 year old grandmother escaped death in Farwell lake, near here, today when their speed boat made too sharp a turn and capsized. Kline brought his mother and grandmother to the overturned boat, then sank from exhaustion. Rescuers brought Kline to shore, where the spark of life was revived after a long time.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Famous as the city of steel, Sheffield is now turning its attention to the production of artificial gold.

Successful experiments have been made in casting a nonferrous alloy of aluminum and copper which has the appearance of gold, and this alloy is being made to imitate various carats of gold in color. The new metal is stainless and can be washed with alkali solutions, resisting very severe tests.

The city administrators hope the boom in the new industry will absorb thousands of skilled workers now jobless. Already a full dinner service in the new metal has been made.

HOOVER TO WORK WITH CABINET ON RELIEF PROGRAM

President Promised Aid of Many Agencies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The task of organizing a nationwide relief organization capable of coping with the distress due to come this winter in the areas where unemployment is most serious will engage the attention of President Hoover and his cabinet during the next month. Thus far the President has discussed the problem with leaders of charitable organizations, officials of his immediate family, and business men. During the next two or three weeks other conferences of this nature are to be held.

All indications now are that the President will attempt to arrange for the organization of a national organization which will coördinate the efforts of all groups, federal, state, local, and charitable, so that no section of the country will be neglected. Just what form this organization will take has not been determined, according to White House officials.

Coöperation Is Pledged.

The President has been promised the fullest coöperation from the Red Cross and national and community relief agencies. The President's emergency relief committee, the Red Cross, the association of community chests, and the family welfare association of America are among the organizations whose leaders have taken part in the formulation of a coördinated program. Many state organizations may be reached through the emergency relief committee.

In the next few weeks the President's aids will get in touch with state executives, municipal officials, and leaders of other units which deal with relief work. It is considered probable that the President will call in several Republican leaders to sound them out on the prospects for the passage of such enabling legislation as he thinks should be passed this winter to assist unemployment relief.

The fear that unless adequate machinery is set up to cope with the relief problem adherents of "dole" legislation will secure sufficient strength to push legislation through congress has served to spur White House efforts. Silas Strawn of Chicago, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned the President as late as last Friday that the administration must solve the relief problem to the satisfaction of the country or see congress flooded with Socialist and "dole" measures providing for cash payments to the unemployed.

As a preparatory move all cabinet departments have been asked to submit lists showing all the buildings which they have planned for the next six years. The plan is to have each department work out a six year building program showing the buildings which should be built first. Certain items from these building programs will be included in the building authorization bill which will be submitted to congress this winter.

A drive to secure emergency funds for a horde of projects, many of them of slight economic value, is sure to begin as soon as congress opens.

Three Earth Tremors Are Felt in Kansas City Area

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Three distinct earth tremors were felt in Greater Kansas City early today, but a later check showed no damage other than broken dishes. Andrew M. Hamrick, head of the United States weather bureau, said the shocks undoubtedly were caused by a movement of the earth.

CITY COLLECTOR PREDICTS CUT IN LICENSE REVENUE

Reveals Falling Off in Many Lines.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

City Collector Edward J. Kaindl supplied another reason yesterday why city expenditures should be increased. Not only will the income from taxes this year be smaller, but Collector Kaindl believes the revenue from licenses will be substantially reduced.

E. T. KAINDL.

Aside from wearing apparel shops, which number 5,295 so far this year, as compared with 5,637 for 1930, there are relatively few lines where the number of establishments has increased.

Beverage Parlors Increase.

One exception is thirst parlors. Mr. Kaindl's figures show the "A" retail beverage dealers—which the police frequently refer to as saloons—now number 1,980 as compared with 1,978 for 1930. The number of bottle exchanges has increased from eight to eleven. Shooting galleries have increased from 16 to 37.

In nearly every other business licensed by the city, the number is less this year than in 1930.

The amusement licenses have dropped from 1,141 to 795. The theaters proper have decreased from 396 to 390. There does not appear to be the demand for auto repairs and the repair shops have decreased from 1,459 to 1,429. The brokers' licenses have decreased from 3,734 to 3,038, the cigarette dealers from 7,997 to 7,499, the bowling alleys from 166 to 140, the cartridge and shell dealers from 53 to 39, the manufacturing confectioners from 134 to 113, the tickers from 1,734 to 1,543, the wholesale tobacco dealers from 20 to 17, and the public garages from 1,371 to 1,022.

Contradicts Popular Belief.

This appears to contradict the popular impression that the public still patronize, as formerly, amusements and indulge in luxuries, because the race tracks and the ball parks seem to draw large crowds.

"I believe that the city will not get as much from licenses this year as it obtained in 1930," said Mr. Kaindl. "To that extent the city's income will be reduced.

"Two figures indicate the situation. This year there are 6,947 less autos licensed than last year, although the salesmen are attempting to sell because there are more demonstrator cars this year than last. The auto fees collected this year to Aug. 1 are $100,000 less than to the same date last year.

Transit Earnings Fall Off.

"In the first half of 1930 the street car companies paid the city $2,621,509 as 55 per cent of their net income. This year the sum is $424,357. Those two items are not classed as license fees for the corporate fund, but they indicate the trend."

Collector Kaindl's statistics comparing the licenses issued in 1930 with this year indicate that several thousand more women are baking their own bread and pies this year than last year, or that the people generally are eating less. The retail bakery stores have decreased from 1,704 to 1,622, and the wholesale bakers from 152 to 147. Even the men are doing their own toilet tasks, because the number of barber shops has decreased.

The billiard and pool rooms have slumped from 980 to 886, the bill posters from a dozen to nine, the bird and dog places from 101 to 89.

FALLS FROM PORCH, DIES.

Asriano Gonzales, 25 years old, 8910 Grey Bay avenue, died in the South Chicago hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when he fell frog a porch to the sidewalk at 8917 Buffalo avenue.

PRESENT NEW PLAN FOR COLLECTION OF DELINQUENT TAXES

A plan through which the county would collect within the next two months an estimated $5,000,000 in delinquent taxes, and through which thousands of complains on the assessments of 1927, 1928, and 1929 would be settled, was advanced yesterday by County Judge Jarecki and Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals for the board of assessors.

The plan involves the investigation by the assessors' office of the complaints now before the courts. Where errors are found the assessors would issue a writ of error giving the correct assessment. The correction made, the taxpayer would be ordered forthwith to pay his bill and the complaint in court would be thrown out.

No action on the plan is contemplated until 100 test cases now before the assessors have been examined. When this work is completed Judge Jarecki will call a conference of representatives of all the various tax spenending bodies and other officials.

The new plan would be applied to all complaints pending in the courts, Judge Jarecki said. Its use, he pointed out, would be an advantage to many of the delinquent taxpayers whose petitions would otherwise be denied on adverse rulings made during hearings on 1927 complaints.

LABOR TO FIGHT IN CONGRESS TO EASE DRY LAW

Leaders Insist It Would Restore Prosperity.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor tomorrow will discuss a report submitted by labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act expressing determination to win modification of the dry law during the coming session of congress.

"We are determined," says the report of the committee, of which Matthew Woll is chairman, "that no effort shall be spared to secure modification in the coming session of congress, and we hope to so press the issue as to secure for it consideration during the first weeks of the session.

Not Political Partisans.

"We are not partisan to political parties in any sense of the word, but we are not blind to partisan political events. It is our belief that the support just announced for a wet Republican candidate in the Cincinnati congressional district by the President is highly significant of a change of heart in most important places.

"In our opinion this breaking down of precedent is destined to go much further and to have a material effect upon the minds of members of congress and also on political leaders who are not members of congress, but whose advice is potent among congressmen.

"We know that one half of the states, and most of the larger industrial cities have entirely, or almost exhausted their financial resources and will be unable to care for their unemployed this winter, either through employment or charity. We know that every indication points to heavier unemployment this winter than last winter. And barring some enormous charity op the part of the federal government there seems little hope for anything short of vast destitution.

Sees Great Wrong Righted.

"We realize that the only way through which industrial relief can be made operative on any broad scale, and with sufficient speed is through the modification of the Volstead act. Not only would a great social, economic, and constitutional wrong be righted, not only would there be restoration of liberty and a restitution to an outraged people, but there would be the beginning of a vast readjustment through our economic structure.

"There would be a tremendous spending of money, not in charity, but in materials and in payment of wages. Fully sixty industries would feel the electric thrill of orders for materials and equipment, and through these sixty reviving industries money would be started on its way to grocery stores, to clothing stores, to banks, to hardware stores, to merchants of all kinds, for the necessities of life.

"Modification of the Volstead law, with its immediate revival of vast industries and its tremendous effect upon agriculture is the first step toward the remedy. Moreover, it is a long step that can this winter reduce the volume of unemployment to proportions that can be handled by the ordinary agencies of our social and economic organization."

INJURED BY COKE CRUSHER.

GERMAN EXPRESS TRAIN BOMBED ON CURVE; 100 HURT

Eight Coaches Wrecked; Hunt Dynamiters.

QUERBOG, Germany, Aug. 9.—(AP)—More than 100 passengers were more or less seriously injured late last night when dynamiters, with the slogan "Hoch revolution!" bombed and derailed the crowded Basel-Frankfort-Berlin express and sent eight cars plunging down a 20 foot embankment. The bomb was set off as the express rounded a curve. Two passengers were seriously injured, thirteen had to be treated in a hospital and 100 others suffered less severe cuts and bruises.

Reichsbahn officials said the derailment obviously was the work of men skilled in handling high explosives. The wreckers hid in bushes about 700 feet from where the charge was placed on the track and the blast was set off electrically.

Cut Telegraph Wires.

Five telegraph lines over which the news of the wreck might have been quickly flashed over the country were cut and on the telegraph poles were pinned copies of the Fascist newspaper Der Angriff with "Hoch revolution!" scrawled across the first page.

The train was due in Berlin at 2:23 a. m. It was traveling over one of the speediest stretches on the German railways and the engineer had opened the throttle to hit a clip of fifty miles an hour when suddenly, at 2:15 p. m., he heard an explosion "like a clap of thunder," he said.

He threw on the brakes, but the train already had left the rails. The locomotive stayed on the embankment, but eight cars, including the diner and baggage car, plunged downward and buried themselves in the soft sand.

Blast Heard 10 Miles Away.

The noise of the explosion was heard in villages 10 miles away and in the nearby village of Zinna the inhabitants were roused by the rattling of windows and crockery.

In the darkened, derailed coaches a panic broke out as the passengers fought to escape through windows. The passengers were assisted out of the wrecked train and were taken aboard a Munich-Berlin train, arriving in Berlin at 1 a. m.

Railway police this afternoon expressed the opinion the dynamiters had picked the Basel express as a particularly good train for their purpose because they had heard several prominent bankers, who had been at Basel attending the meeting of the Bank for International Settlements, were aboard.

SAYS LEGAL BEER WOULD GIVE 400 MILLION REVENUE

Cooperstown, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Asserting that legalizing the manufacture of beer would give employment to 1,250,000 persons, would yield the government an annual revenue of $400,000,000 and would provide a market for 80,000,000 bushels of grain annually, August A. Busch of St. Louis today attacked the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation, asserting that "instead of its being an organization endowed by business men for prohibition propaganda it is an organization of professional prohibition propagandists organized to solicit contributions from business men and others."

Mr. Busch declared in an open letter to Richard H. Scott, president of the Reo Motor company and of the foundation, that the dry group is "deceiving the public as to its origin and purposes."

Hold Up Cashier in Loop Restaurant and Get $250

Two bandits held up Miss Evelyn Demis, cashier of the Thompson restaurant at 7 South Wabah avenue and forced her to hand over $250 yesterday. So quiet were they that several patrons in the place were unaware that the robbery had taken place until the gunmen fled.

BOYS' JAUNT TO SEE WORLD ON DOUGHNUTS FAILS

Casper Matuscewski, 12 years old, of 1612 North Winchester avenue, and Floyd Dominick, 13, of 2202 Rice street, returned to their homes early this morning, juvenile failures as world tourists and doughnut venders.

They had started out Saturday with a supply of crullers, their objective being "to see the world." The "sinkers" were to be sold for expenses.

But Casper and Floyd got as far only as Kenosha, Wis. Their doughnuts were only half sold, and, besides, their feet were tired. So they started back. Sergt. George R. Dalton, veterinary division, picked them up in his car and took them to the South State street station, where their parents called for them.

YOUTH IS SWEPT FROM YACHT IN STORM; DROWNS

Hunt Body of Chicagoan Off Michigan City.

Efforts were being made yesterday to find the body of Laurence Frerk, 20 years old, who was drowned Saturday night when he was swept from the deck of a sailboat three miles out in the lake off Michigan City.

Frerk was a graduate of the New Mexico military academy and was for a time a student at Northwestern university. He was the son of Otto Frerk, 3656 North Avers avenue, president of Henry Frerk Sons, contractors and dealers in building material.

Four Others on Boat.

With Frerk on the 72 foot yawl Siest were Bud Mesker, Assistant City Prosecutor Si Ellison, Attorney Julius Reznik, the host, and David Fisher, a son of Judge Harry Fisher. All had left Chicago Saturday afternoon for the cruise to Michigan City.

When a heavy storm blew up, accompanied by rain, Mesker, acting as skipper, made for port. Young Frerk was taking in canvas when the squall struck. Parts of the rigging to which he was clinging were carried overboard. A life preserver was tossed to him, but he failed to reach it.

Members of the sailing party remained in the vicinity for three hours, hoping to find Frerk or at least to recover his body. Later an appeal was made to the coast guards at Michigan City and they spent the day searching, but without results.

Another Chicagoan Drowned.

Another drowning in the vicinity of Michigan City was that of Merrill E. Christy, 42 years old, 152 East Superior street, an agent in the leasing office of the Merchandise Mart. He was caught in the undertow while swimming at Beverly Shores, Porter county, with his wife and a party of friends. Swept far out in the lake, he tired while trying to make his way back and sank. The body was recovered a few hours later by coast guards.

Members of the family of George Hupfer, 5111 Wellington avenue, and other relatives gathered yesterday at a picnic at Crystal lake, in McHenry county. Following an afternoon luncheon, all went swimming. Among them was George Hupfer, Jr., 8 years old. After a while the picknickers returned to shore. Then it was noticed the boy was missing. Other bathers were summoned to help search for him, and about fifty men and women, all joining hands, waded into the lake until one of them came upon George's body, 25 feet from the beach.

James Bell, 3 years old, 10324 Loomis street, lost his life yesterday when he was seized with cramps while swimming with several other small boys in the Sauk Trail lake near Chicago Heights.

Fred Mierhofer, 24 years old, 2624 Floral avenue, Niles Center, an expressman, was drowned last evening when he fell off a raft in Lake Marie, just west of Antioch. The body was not recovered.

The body of a man about 40 years old, clad in a bathing suit, was recovered from the lake at the foot of 55th street yesterday by the Jackson Park coast guard and taken to the County morgue.

Kills Policeman and Is Slain by Another Officer

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A policeman trailing a bandit suspect was shot and killed by the latter today, and the suspect in turn was fatally wounded an hour later by another officer. A newsboy, who witnessed the shooting, pointed out the suspect to another patrolman, who brought him down with a shotgun charge.

In the hot weather your natural inclination is not to stir yourself any more than you have to. In fact, medical men advise the older person to go lightly on exercise at this particular time of year.

And we all know that any person with a constitutional disorder should exercise only under the doctor's advice. But many of us here let's who could afford to do our exercises in the cooler weather with particular advantage. I'll name them.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

1,400 BOULDER DAM STRIKERS TOLD TO DEPART

Other Men Are Available, Superintendent Says.

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Machinery at the site of the huge Hoover dam project, largest similar undertaking ever planned by the government, was idle today because of labor differences.

FRANK CROWE.

Frank Crowe, superintendent of Six Companies, Inc., holders of the construction contract, today flatly refused demands of 14,000 striking workmen.

The men, through a committee which called on Crowe were told that three days' pay awaited them and that they were expected to pack their belongings and leave the workings immediately.

"Ahead of Schedule."

"We are six months ahead of schedule on the work now, and we can afford to refuse concessions which would cost $2,000 daily or $3,000,000 during the seven years we are allowed to finish the work," Crowe explained.

A maximum average temperature of 119.9 degrees and a minimum average of 98 has prevailed at the dam in the last thirty days. The workers claimed that heat prostrations, with a total of thirteen deaths, had been common.

The chief demand of the men was for a minimum wage of $8 daily in all branches, tunnel workers to draw $8.50 and miners and carpenters $6.

"New Men Available."

Crowe said labor agencies in Las Vegas had assured him plenty of men were available.

There has been no hint of disorder, but official concern is indicated. Walker Young, construction engineer for the federal bureau of reclamation, said troops would be summoned from Fort Douglas, Utah, at the first threat of danger.

The walkout began Friday night, when 125 workers laid down their tools.

Shoots Self in Head, Leaps from 23d Story Window

New York, Aug. 10 (Monday).—(AP)—Dressed in an aviator's helmet and leather togs, a man identified as Lawrence H. Keyes, 32, of Ridgefield, Conn., early today shot himself through the head and then jumped out of a twenty-third floor window of a Brooklyn hotel to his death.

A note in his hotel room asked that his attorney, F. T. Warburton of New York, be notified.

He gave no reason for taking his life, but apologized for causing any inconveniences to the hotel management.

MERCHANT BATTLES BANDITS.

107 CHICAGO MOVIES CLOSE IN UNION WAR

has reduced their receipts but their expenses remain the same.

"We would rather continue on friendly terms with the union," Attorney Levin explained, "but the average picture theater does not need two operators and can't afford to pay them. We have received many messages assuring us we are right in our stand and promising us support."

Union Leaders Adamant.

It was learned that John Fitzpatrick and Ald. Oscar Nelson, president and vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Victor Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and Maloy had held a conference during the week with State's Attorney Swanson and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows in an effort to avert the lockout. The labor leaders, however, were not willing to recede from their position.

An indictment voted against Maloy and his brother, Joseph, who is city examiner of applicants for motion picture operators' licenses, was reported to have been involved in the discussion. Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury, who conducted the investigation which resulted in the indictment, has been recalled from his vacation to act as an intermediary in discussions which might lead to a settlement of the dispute.

It was understood by the prosecutors that the members of Maloy's union did not have a voice in the decision to oppose the theater owners, and Lounsbury previously has suggested that Maloy call a meeting of his union and submit the question to the membership.

The union recently voted its entire fund of $250,000 for Maloy to use for his defense in his trial on the indictment and for the conduct of the battle with the theater owners. The National Association of Exhibitors countered by assuring its Chicago members that it would give them any financial assistance needed and by announcing that if State's Attorney Swanson needed money to carry on the prosecution of Maloy and the others who are charged with a conspiracy to injure the business of the owners, as well as with fraud, it will be given to him.

8 DIE, 16 MISSING AS STORMS LASH MEDITERRANEAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOULON, France, Aug. 9.—Hurricane and cloud bursts, which have whipped Europe for ten days, lashed the usually placid Mediterranean into a fury today, casting small boats on the beaches and drowning eight persons. Sixteen fishermen are missing.

Fears are felt for the safety of a number of pleasure yachts which left Nice this morning and failed to return at a late hour tonight.

GEN. ABEL DAVIS HITS COMMUNISM IN CAMP SPEECH

Tells State Troops Reds Face Defeat.

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Abel Davis of Chicago, senior commander of the fifth brigade, Illinois National Guard, came to Camp Grant today to deliver an address to his former command, now in camp at the close of the thirty-third division, now encamped here. The 12,000 troops and civilian visitors cheered as Gen. Davis, in discussing the machinations of the communists in the present depression, declared that "If they [the communists] persist in their activities and bring on conflict among our people, we shall know the means to restrain or get rid of them." The commander in chief of the state forces, Gov. Emmerson, joined in the applause.

Hits at Communism.

"In times like these some of our dissatisfied and disaffected people become an easy prey to agitators preaching a doctrine foreign to our fundamental conceptions," said Gen. Davis. "Communism has no place in our scheme of things.

"We are shocked to learn that in some of the thickly populated sections of our largest cities, communistic groups have succeeded in stirring up distrust with the form of government under which we have become the happiest and most properous nation in the world.

"If a portion of our population is suffering there may be some consolation in the thought that this suffering cannot be attributed to our form of government. Our task is to indicate by appeal to reason a means of restoring peace of mind and sanity of thought to that small portion of our population who, in their extremity, may be influenced by political doctrines and remedies repugnant to us.

"It has been the policy of our republic to give free access to our shores to people of all countries on the assurance that they will subscribe to our form of government and in the conviction that, as they become acquainted with our institutions and conception of freedom, liberty, and justice they would become an integral part of our nation. For the most part they have.

Knows Way to Keep Peace.

"However, some of our newcomers remain aliens. By individual and group action they attempt to force upon us political views which have no place in our conception of government. We shall be patient so long as they observe our laws, but if they persist in their activities and bring on conflict among our own people we shall know the means with which to restrain them or get rid of them."

The general's address was broadcast on a national radio hookup. Following an inspection of the camp by him the 66th infantry brigade, led by Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity, passed in review before Gen. Davis, who was its wartime commander.

CHARLIE DIDN'T KILL THE BULL, BUT WINS EAR JUST THE SAME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 9.—When a bull fighter is really good he gets the critter's ear. Some of the performers in the brick red arena boast of a couple dozen, which their admirers often make up for them in silver replicas on elegant plaques.

Charlie Chaplin got his first ear today. Marcial Lalanda gave it to him—a real ear, blood and all. Marcial, the best all around matador in Spain, got the ear by public acclaim after one of those intimate death dances with the toro [bull].

The torero solemnly handed it over to Charlie, who had driven over from Biarritz to see his first corrida. The movie comedian and director, however, did not seem so happy during the séance, which included the killing of eight bulls and the maiming of twice as many horses, but sat with his head down and eyes turned away. He took Marcial's glory offering, wrapped in the torero's silk handkerchief, with good grace.

Ellery Walter, U. S. Writer, Injured in Train Wreck

ISIUM, Russia, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Ellery Walter, young American writer and lecturer, of Seattle, Wash., was slightly injured today when the Kharkov-Rostov passenger train crashed into the rear end of a freight train standing in the station here. A number of Russian passengers suffered injuries.

SHOT BY HOODLUMS IN AUTO.

SWANSON TO ASK RULING IN DOG RACE TEST CASE

With the arrest of two dog track employes at the Thornton Coursing club, 175th and Halsted streets, laying the foundation for a test case in two years of litigation over dog racing, State's Attorney Swanson today will petition Judge William V. Brothers of the Circuit court for an interpretation of the temporary injunction under which the track opened Saturday evening.

WM. V. BROTHERS. [Tribune Photo.]

Nine races already had been run Saturday evening under the protection of the order issued by Judge Brothers when the detectives who had waited at the track all evening made the arrests. The men arrested were: Thomas Healy, the manager of the track, and Charles Huey, 1527 Vincennes avenue, Chicago Heights, the cashier at the $5 mutuel window.

The two men were charged with being keepers of a gambling resort and released on bond by Justice of the Peace Frank Synakiewicz of Blue Island. No effort was made to stop the betting at the other mutuel windows.

The arrests were made for the purpose of testing the scope of the injunction. As the court order is interpreted by law enforcing agencies, the injunction permits the dogs to race but does not protect betting.

Cramer Long Overdue on Hop to Denmark.

She seemed much interested in the ice collars and both she and her husband went down into one of the largest.

"It would be a great thing to have one of these on hot days in New York," he commented.

Later they were taken in a small motor boat to a reindeer camp, a mile and a half up the lagoon, where natives were slaughtering deer for food and clothing. Women of the village furnished Mrs. Lindbergh with the necessary warm clothing—a pair of sealskin boots, squirrel parka, and reindeer fur cap. She said she was most comfortable. Lindbergh bore wed an overcoat, but wore no hat and admittedly grew cold before the trip was over.

At camp they saw their first dog team, which was hauling reindeer meat, and their first reindeer herd—about 3,000 animals. They were keenly interested in the crude methods of slaughter, and remembering the large reindeer steaks they had eaten yesterday and pronounced "most delicious," they expressed wonder that a market could not be found "for such good meat."

On the return trip the boat struck a sand bar and every one had to help—even Mrs. Lindbergh took an oar to free the craft. Later she attempted to communicate with New York with the plane's short wave radio transmitter, but was unsuccessful.

German Reaches Island.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, who is flying to America over the same route taken toward Europe by Parker Cramer, American aviator, arrived here at 7:10 p. m. today.

Turkey Flyers in France.

MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Russell Boardman and John Polando, American aviators who flew from New York to Turkey, landed at the airport at Marignane at 5:20 p. m. today on a flight from Istanbul. They will sail for the United States on Wednesday.

DO-X Held in Para.

PARA, Brazil, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The giant German seaplane DO-X was held here today because of a broken crankcase in one of its motors. Commander Schildhauer said the ship would remain here until another motor is received from Natal. The ship is bound for New York.

GIRL SAYS SHE WAS KIDNAPED IN LOOP, HELD 2 DAYS

Cecelia Pavlik, 19 years old, 1606 Blue Island avenue, appeared yesterday at the detective bureau with a strange tale of having been kidnaped in the loop last Thursday, carried to a point near St. Louis, and there released.

She had been sent downtown on an errand by her employers, and at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning, was forced into an automobile at Van Buren and State streets by two men, she asserted. They drove all that day and night, finally reaching a shack, where she was left a prisoner with an old woman.

"The next day," she said, "the two men returned with a man they called 'Boss.' He looked at me and then cursed them, saying: 'You got the wrong girl.' They drove me into a town and gave me $5. I asked a man where I was, and he said it was St. Louis."

Cecelia returned to Chicago on a bus, she said.

FLYERS TAKE ON THE AIRS OF GOLF AND TENNIS FOLK

Plan to Separate "Goats and Sheep" of Sky.

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A movement has begun to separate the sheep from the goats in the cloud swept meadows of the sky.

In other words, a group of aeronautical sportsmen have set themselves the task of tracing a delicate line separating the amateurs from the professionals in aviation.

Formation was announced today of the United States Amateur Air Pilots association, and the announcement included definitions of just what an amateur aviator is and what sort of actions turn him into a professional flying man.

Under the new rules, for instance, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is a former professional who is now an amateur. Ruth Nichols, on the other hand, is a former amateur who is now a professional.

Hillig an Amateur.

Otto Hillig of Liberty, N. Y., who flew to Germany, is an amateur, but Holger Hoiriis, who went in the same plane, is a professional.

Frank Hawks, who has set air speed records between almost every hamlet and town, is a professional. James Goodwin Hall, who has been flying here and there lately attempting to smash some of the Hawks marks, is an amateur.

The new organization already has 25 members, including Elliott White Springs, Roger Wolfe Kahn, A. Felix du Pont, Jr., and W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., and a committee the identity of whose members is and will remain a secret, are hard at work deciding how many of the 2,500 private plane owners in the country are eligible to amateur ranking.

Must Own Plane.

The first qualification for listing as an amateur with the new organization, which is headed by John S. Reeves, is ownership of an aerostat [plane, autogyro or balloon] which is used solely for purposes of pleasure.

Then the pilot must refrain from accepting pay "directly or indirectly" for flying that plane or any other, he must not teach any one to fly for money, he must not engage in selling planes or accessories, and he must not accept pecuniary reward for using any commercial product.

Lindbergh an Amateur.

Executives of aviation companies who have personal planes which they use solely for pleasure, however, are included as amateurs, letting in under this rating such people as Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart. People who actually pilot planes for pay, though, like Colonel Clarence D. Chamberlin, will be classed as professionals no matter how many planes they have for private use.

"It's a very difficult matter," Reeves acknowledged, "and in the last analysis each case must be judged individually, so much depends on the point of view."

Evers in Command

The Great Lakes fleet, five gunboats and two submarine chasers, sailed out of Chicago yesterday with 1,000 naval reservists aboard for a two weeks' training cruise on Lake Michigan. The boats of the fleet are the Wilmetta of Chicago, Dubuque of Detroit, Paducah of Duluth, Wilmington of Cleveland, Hawk of Michigan City, and subchasers 412 of Milwaukee and 432 of Green Bay. Capt. Edward A. Evers of Chicago commands the fleet, which is making its third practice cruise of the summer.

JAPAN ENDS QUIZ AND U. S. FLYERS PREPARE FOR HOP

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Police examination of Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn was concluded today. The American flyers are accused of photographing fortified zones on their flight over Japan from Siberia. Both signed police reports and were told they were at liberty, but were not to leave Tokio without informing the police.

They were given permission to prepare their Bellanca monoplane for a proposed Pacific flight and hope to have mechanics at work tomorrow getting new tanks in.

Development of their films revealed that, though the majority of the pictures are harmless, views taken included part of the fortified area of Hakodate, officials stated. They were unaware of having photographed Hakodate, they said, but on being shown the picture they remembered passing over the place at an altitude of 4,000 feet. They declared its picturesque appearance was all they observed.

CITY COURTS FAIL TO ENFORCE BAIL LAW, IS CHARGE

Swanson Aid Says New Statute Is Ignored.

The municipal courts are making no effort to enforce the new bail bond law, which went into effect on July 1, according to charges made yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, who has charge of the prosecutor's bond department. The Municipal court is the "professional bondsmen's paradise," the prosecutor said.

A. C. DE WITT.

Dozens of professional bondsmen, against whom the law was aimed, still are operating despite the fact that the law has been in effect for more than one month. The prosecutor yesterday displayed numerous bonds signed by these professionals since the new law was enacted.

Law Provides for License.

The new law provides that every professional bondsman must be licensed by the court and must deposit $5,000 worth of security with the state finance department to assure payment of forfeited bonds. The first step in obtaining a license is for a professional to go before a Criminal court judge and get a certificate of good reputation and character. He then deposits the necessary security with the state and after that a license is issued on payment of a $15 fee.

"The judges of the Municipal courts continue to accept bonds from these professionals even though they are not licensed. They have not even made a pretense of complying with the new law," said Prosecutor De Witt.

Bondsmen Still Active.

"Copies of the law have been furnished to each judge of the Municipal court. The judges have been fully advised of the contents of the law, yet the records show that dozens of professionals are still giving bonds in the Municipal courts."

Prosecutor De Witt said that the Criminal court was not much bothered with the professional bondsmen because they are unable to schedule bonds under the stringent rules which he has set up.

RAID THREE BEER FLATS.

'LITTLE MOTHER' OF FOUR ORPHANS SHOOTS BURGLAR

Helen Wolnik, 18 years old, the "little mother" of four younger orphan sisters, was hailed as a heroine by her neighbors yesterday after she shot a burglar from a window in her home, at 1309 West Superior street. The wounded burglar and a confederate escaped.

Helen's father has been dead for five years and her mother died five months ago. Since the death of a sister, Evelyn, a month ago, she has supported her sisters, Victoria, 16; Adeline, 14; Lottie, 8, and Stella, 5 years old, out of her wages of $16 a week as a bindery girl.

Early yesterday she was awakened by a noise in the passageway between her home and that of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Turner, next door. She looked out a window and saw a man prying a screen off a window of the Turner home.

"I got a revolver that had been daddy's off the top shelf in the pantry," said the girl. "I stuck it out the window, aimed it at the man, and pulled the trigger. He fell down, and then got up and ran away."

HURT IN FALL, DIES.

Robert Weber, 32 years old, colored, 4004 Vincennes avenue, died yesterday of injuries suffered several days before when he fell down a flight of stairs at his home.

HICKORY CORNERS GOES TO CHURCH; SQUATTER OUSTED

Members of the Hickory Corners M. E. church, northeast of Antioch, yesterday held their first service in the building since Clarence Spiering, who occupied it as a squatter, gave up his tenancy at the order of the Lake county Circuit court.

The service was conducted by the Rev. S. E. Pollock, assisted by two other ministers. A total of 105 attended. In the past the church building has been used for worship only at rare intervals.

Spiering moved in last January, after his home on an adjoining farm had burned. He was arrested and freed, but an ouster suit before a justice of the peace resulted in his being commanded to move. Appeal to the Circuit court brought the same decision.

POISON PROVES FATAL.

Elmer Daly, 28 years old, 929 Edgecomb place, a cook, died yesterday at the American hospital of poison which he took Saturday evening, declaring he was "tired of living."

Armenian Archbishop Fired Upon by Beggar

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Seven shots were fired at the Armenian archbishop, Vramd Cha Bouh, in the Armenian church here shortly before noon, none of the bullets touching him. One bullet wounded slightly Brother Partogh Takendjian as he descended from the altar to intercept the attacker, who was identified as Alexander Abrahamian, a beggar.

WHEAT, COTTON IF SOLD ABROAD MAY BE '31 CROP

Farmers Are Expected to Make Demands.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Low prices, enormous crops and a scarcity of markets today lent added importance to German wheat and cotton offers.

Purchase of sizable amounts from farm board stabilization supplies would mean removal of part of much condemned surpluses. Before such deals are consummated, however, farmers, particularly in the south, may insist upon their right to sell from current harvests in any available markets.

The board was awaiting receipt of the German proposal to buy 600,000 tons, or about 22,000,000 bushels, of wheat and held itself open for further negotiations with that government on the cotton offer rejected because of unacceptable terms.

Nearly Half of Surplus.

In turning down the proposal for 600,000 bales of cotton with an option of 200,000 more on a three-year credit arrangement, the board lost an opportunity of disposing of almost half of its 1,300,000-bale surplus. Sale of 22,000,000 bushels of wheat would hardly make a dent in the surplus of 200,000,000 or more bushels controlled by the board.

Southern Democrats in congress protested vigorously against selling stabilization cotton, contending any sales should be made out of this year's harvest estimated yesterday at 15,534,000 bales, more than 1,500,000 bales larger than last year.

Predictions that farm belt senators may assume the same position on the prospective wheat sale have been heard in the capital. This group, including Vice President Curtis, was aroused when the board refused to withhold its surplus absolutely from domestic markets a month ago.

Depends on Terms.

Whether the board will accept the German wheat proposal, it was said, depends entirely on its terms. If they are the same as for cotton it is conceivable the offer will also be rejected, but no official would comment pending its presentation.

Oklahoma and Texas wheat growers last week called upon President Hoover to recommend appropriation of another $500,000,000 to the board for stabilization operations. Yesterday's cotton report forecasting the largest crops since 1926 was seen as a forerunner of new demand from that section for relief.

Attention today also was centered on the promised board statement on its sales policy for cotton during this crop year. The 1930 agreement not to sell for a year expired July 31.

Crop Size May Decide.

Carl Williams, cotton member, at that time said its preparation was not completed, but in the meantime no supplies would be disposed of. The prospective huge crop may have an important bearing upon it, and whether southern demands will be met by not making any sales remains in the balance.

The board, in rejecting the German cotton offer, suggested means of German interests buying direct from the cotton trade from the 1931 crop with payments due under war time seizure claims.

The treasury said today approximately $20,000,000 would be available to Germany within a short time if final awards are made by the mixed claims commission.

LESS LAND FARMED, VALUE REDUCED IN ILLINOIS, U. S. SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The value of farm land in Illinois declined again, during the five years from 1925 and 1930, figures published by the census bureau disclosed today. A bulletin showing the agricultural situation in Illinois set forth the value of farm land and buildings at $3,338,049,828 in 1930, compared with slightly more than 4 billions in 1925 and 6 billions in round numbers for 1920.

According to the report, crops were harvested from 18,958,357 acres in 1929, as compared with 19,755,447 acres in 1924. Of the 214,487 farms in the state, 119,892 were operated by owners, 2,123 by managers, and 92,482 by tenants.

The total number of horses and colts and mules on farms in 1930 showed a marked decrease from the numbers found by census tabulators in 1925 and 1920. Increases were shown for hogs and cattle.

Onions, asparagus, sweet corn, and tomatoes were listed as the four most important vegetables harvested in 1929.

Statistics showed that Illinois in 1930 had 820,850 horses and colts, compared with 1,029,000 in 1925; 133,457 mules in 1930, compared with 167,760 for 1925; a total of 2,342,125 cattle in 1930, compared with 2,305,073 in 1925; and 4,851,772 hogs in 1930, compared with 4,249,191 in 1925.

HIGH TAXES MAY FORCE GOULD TO CLOSE CASINO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Aug. 9.—Following on the heels of a joint appeal by all casino owners in France for a tax moratorium, it was reported tonight that Frank J. Gould's Palais de la Mediterranee will close this season unless the government grants a radical reduction in gambling taxes.

It was learned on reliable authority that the gambling palace's receipts last year amounted to almost $1,000,000, of which the government took 75 per cent. Other attractions, including the enormous pleasure palace, were operated at a loss.

Todays' news created a real sensation in gambling circles here, as the Palais de la Mediterranee is one of the very few casinos in France which showed an increase of profits in 1930 over 1929.

Three Seized as 2 Women Charge Them with Attack

Tony Martino, 21 years old, 2327 West 121st street; Frank Ladkowski, 12417 Parnell avenue, and Adam Rapka, 19 years old, 2034 Union street, were arrested yesterday by county highway police on charges of rape made by two women who accepted a ride in their automobile on Saturday night.

ROB AND LOCK UP STORE MANAGER.

Two men held up Irving Walker, manager of Lee's army goods store, 4021 North avenue, robbed him of $200 and locked him in a closet yesterday.

U. S. REFUSES TO DEPORT RUSSIANS TO CERTAIN DEATH

500 of These Aliens Now Under Arrest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband stated today there are at least 500 Russians in this country, many of them communists, who have been arrested for illegal entry or for crime, but who have not been deported. He admitted that, despite the communistic propaganda spread by agents of the soviet, this government is not deporting Russian aliens who came from Russia.

W. W. HUSBAND. [Harris & Ewing.]

"We are not deporting them," Mr. Husband said, "and we cannot deport them because we have no diplomatic relations with Russia. The present policy is not to deport aliens to Russia regardless of whether they are pro or anti-soviet."

Most Perplexing Problems.

Commenting on the same problem Secretary of Labor Doak said that one of the department's most perplexing problems is that of the Russian alien who has been arrested for some deportable offense.

"I suppose," Mr. Husband said today, "that there are certain classes of these Russians we could send back to Russia if we went at it in a roundabout way. We would be glad to get rid of the bad ones, but under the present situation we cannot deport them directly back to Russia. The soviet would be glad to receive some of the anti-soviet Russians, but we will not send these undesirables back to certain death."

Would be Exposed to Death.

Thus far the department of labor has refused to permit communists to be deported to Russia by choice if they happened to have to come to this county from another nation. Two cases in point are in the courts at this time. One is that of Tao-Hsiuan Li, a Chinese student at New York univerity, a communist, and Guido Serio, an Italian anti fascist and a communist whose fight to escape deportation to Italy is being led by William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general of the United States.

In both instances counsel for the alien introduced evidence to show that if he was deported to the country of nativity he would be exposed to punishment and possibly death as a communist. Thus far the department of labor has refused to permit these communists to go to Russia.

BREAD AND WATER PLUS HARD WORK, CHILE'S NEW DIET

Acting Head Urges Frugality to Restore Nation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 9.—"We Chileans will have to live on bread and water for many months, perhaps years, to pay our way back to normalcy and remedy the evils of the dictatorship," declared Vice President Juan Esteban Montero, who has taken charge of the government since the overthrow of President Carlos Ibanes in a civil war two weeks ago, in an interview today.

ESTEBAN MONTERO [A. P. Photo.]

The new chief executive of the provisional government, a dapperish, middle aged lawyer who made a fortune in litigation, sitting in his office in the battle scarred Moneda government palace, talked at some length on the change of affairs in Chile.

"There is no use hiding the true state of affairs," he said, "for we Chileans have got to get back to a simple mode of living to win back better times.

"It was a hard blow to our prestige to have to ask for a breathing space on our foreign debt, but if we had continued to pay I am afraid the exchange would have collapsed. I think American and other foreign bond holders will sympathize with us and appreciate our attitude in placing the stability of our currency before anything else." In any case, we have already placed enough local currency to one side to satisfy foreign debt obligations. For the present, however, we cannot convert it into dollars and sterling."

Senor Montero admitted that the present congress is not truly representative of the people, but declared that arrangements are being made for free elections as soon as possible under the terms of the constitution. He was of the opinion that the elections would be over and a new congress in session before the middle of October. Meanwhile, he said, the government must concentrate on finances.

May Not Prosecute Ibanes.

"Will there be any congressional action against former President Ibanez?" he was asked.

"No, I do not think so, although it is up to the legislature to take what action it thinks right. Most Chileans are anxious to avoid the mistake of other South American states in probing too deeply past administrative policies."

Asked if the status of foreign newspaper correspondents who, under the dictatorship's stern censorship, were subject to deportation without trial, Senor Montero replied:

"I am well aware of the difficulties under which you foreign correspondents worked, but I can assure you that these have virtually ended. The government has already given instructions to lift cable censorship. The law regarding the deportation of a foreign correspondent who sends anything out of the country that the government deems imprudent, still exists; but it will be rescinded as soon as congress has disposed of economy measures and the urgent business arising out of the change of regime."

Meanwhile, Senor Montero said, he gave his personal assurance that foreign correspondents would be free to write or cable anything they liked without fear of punishment.

CLAIMS INSECTS WILL CONQUER MAN AND WORLD

Briton Warns of Danger in Future.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Insects are conquering in a mass attack on humanity. This is the view of A. Moore Hogarth, chairman of the College of Pestology, who has made a life study of insects.

"Insects are establishing such a stronghold that one day man will wake up to find that he has met his master," Mr. Hogarth said. "The trouble is that men in their ignorance take no well organized steps to fight the insect menace, and they don't realize that insects have brains. Before the war mosquitoes were unknown in England. Today every fourth or fifth person has been bitten by one.

Says People Are Ignorant.

"I am not a scaremonger. That eminent scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge, for example, has said that the end of the world will not be caused by such a calamity as an earthquake or flood, but by the ascendancy of the insect world over man.

"Some simple minded local authorities imagine that they are destroying mosquitoes when they solemnly spray ponds with paraffin. In their ignorance they leave alone large tracts of ground where mosquitoes breed in shoals. As for cockroaches, there are cases where you could not get them out of a building without pulling it down.

Must End Menace.

"Why are insects defeating man? Because all of their brains are devoted to the main things of life, to satisfying hunger and the welfare of the species, while man's brain is dissipated in various other interests. Thus the insects, concentrating on vital interests, are more than a match for man. If matters go on as they are at present man will eventually be wiped out by the insect world. Not until man realises the great menace will he take practical and adequate steps to defeat it."

"2500 FORD COMMERCIAL UNITS play important daily part in nation-wide delivery service" says STANDARD BRANDS INC.

IT IS significant that Standard Brands Inc. should select Ford trucks and light-delivery cars for their daily delivery service, encompassing the entire country. It is graphic testimony of the reliable strength, versatile performance, and lasting service built into Ford units that they are giving complete satisfaction under the greatly different operating conditions they meet in this widespread use.

Of equal importance is the record of economy made by these Ford units. Standard Brands Inc. have found Fords particularly adapted for their service on account of uniformly low cost of operation and maintenance, long life, and excellent performance.

In every line of business, Ford units are serving fleet owners and small operators alike. There is a standard Ford type for every hauling need. More than forty different bodies are available. With the 1½-ton truck, there is a choice of 131½-inch or 157-inch wheelbase, open or closed cabs, high or low rear-axle gear-ratios, and single or dual rear wheels. In addition, there is the Ford light-delivery car, offering speedy, alert performance, reliability, long life, and economy, for every light-hauling purpose.

There is a Ford unit for the specific needs of your business, available in a choice of thirty-eight different color-combinations. You may purchase a Ford unit on economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

LEGISLATORS TO WOO MEXICO ON A $5,000 JUNKET

Good Will Tour to Start When Winter Comes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In addition to the exensive tour of Europe which is being taken now by Illinois legislators, a junket to Mexico has been arranged. When this will be started has not been announced, but it will probably be deferred until cold weather, it was learned yesterday.

The official legislative digest says that the law, passed by the last legislature authorizing the Mexican trip, provides for the "Illinois Mexican Friendship commission" of nine members.

$5,000 Set Aside for Trip.

"Such commission shall visit Mexico," continues the digest, "study its industrial, labor, agricultural and commercial problems and endeavor to create a friendly attitude toward Illinois and its products." For this purpose $5,000 was appropriated. The trip will be shorter than the one to Europe, for which $25,000 was appropriated.

Gov. Emmerson on Saturday completed the membership of another commission of 11 members to study taxation and expenditures. This commission has an appropriation of $25,000.

Revenue Board Already Busy.

The commission on taxation is not required to report before Jan. 15, 1933. In the meantime the governor's revenue commission, headed by Joseph K. Brennan, has been appointed and has been delving into "taxation and expenditures"—without cost to the taxpayers—so that it can make recommendations to the proposed special session of the legislature this winter.

The Brittain commission is scheduled to meet tomorrow evening. And it is understood that it will discuss whether the brakes shall be put on its inquiry into what Gov. Emmerson characterized as "the enormous growth of local governmental expenditures." Also it is reported that the question of funding the 1930 taxes will be considered.

SAVES PENNIES FOR YEAR; TAKES VACATION TRIP

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—H. Lumbeck and family of Oquawka are starting on the second of their penny vacations. Lumbeck is a golfer, and he places all pennies in tobacco cans, reserving them for the family vacation. Last year, the first of their penny vacations, they visited his parents, paying all expenses with pennies put of the tobacco cans in which they were saved. This year they are starting out with $700, all in pennies, and are planning a longer trip than the one last summer.

"I never miss the pennies, and it is lots of fun to see the filling station attendant scan and others open their eyes at our penny cans," Lumbeck said.

Wins Fight to Stay

Mme. Anastasia Tchakovsky, who claims to be the Grand Duchess Anastasia, daughter of the late Czar Nicholas II., will not be deported by the United States, although her temporary permit to remain here has expired.

TAKES GIRL HOME, ENDS LIFE AFTER TRIP OF MONTH

Richard Hubelkamp, 40 years old, who left his family and his work among the flowers of an estate near Libertyville a month ago to run away with a girl half his age, took the girl, Amy Allison, 19 years old, back to her home early yesterday. A few hours later he was found dead in his automobile beside a nearby road, a suicide.

His had fired a single shot through his temple. Beside his body he left a letter blaming his wife for his failure to find romance in the elopement. During his absence the wife had obtained a warrant charging him with the abandonment of herself and their three children.

The Allison girl is the daughter of Frank Allison, caretaker on Oakwood farm, two miles southwest of Libertyville. She and Hubelkamp ran away together on July 14 and went to El Paso, Tex.

Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county was told that while they were in Texas Hubelkamp tried unsuccessfully to obtain a divorce that he might marry the girl.

Man, 70, Slays Rival, 38; He and Woman, 30, Held

William Fuclis, 38 years old, of 4727 South Laflin street, was shot and fatally wounded last night by Casimir Gutt, 70 years old, in the latter's home at 4644 Bishop street. The shooting, police said, occurred during a quarrel between the men over Miss Victoria Zillins, 30 years old, of the Laflin street address, who was present at the time. Fuclis was taken to the county hospital, where he died early this morning of two bullet wounds. Gutt and Miss Zillins are being held.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Mrs. Helena Darvas, 65 years old, 2837 North Western avenue, took poison and died yesterday after writing a note in which she stated that she was taking her life because of ill health.

OPEN BIDS TODAY ON NEW CHICAGO POSTOFFICE

Forty Expected; Follows Years of Delay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Bids for the construction of the new Chicago postoffice and the installation of machinery will be opened at the treasury tomorrow in the presence of postoffice and treasury officials. It is anticipated that as many as forty bids will be received.

Immediately after the bids are opened they will be analyzed by department officials. The treasury expects to award the contract within not more than two weeks in event a bid is received which is satisfactory. Should the bids be too high or the low bids come from irresponsible bidders, it is possible the postoffice project will have to be placed on the market again.

After the contract is awarded, the successful bidder must arrange bond and have it approved at Washington before any arrangements can be made for beginning operations. This step usually takes a week or ten days, according to the treasury officials.

Awarding of a contract for the building and the approval of the contractor's bond will culminate years of procrastination and delay on the part of government officials charged with the task of arranging for the construction of public buildings authorized and appropriated for by congress in its 700 million dollar building program.

The first building authorization was approved in 1926. As early as 1926 arrangements for acquisition of a site for the proposed Chicago building were under way. Hoover administration officials, however, were not satisfied with the so-called "Marshall Field" site selected by officials of the Coolidge administration and a long delay ensued when Postmaster General Walter F. Brown demanded that a new site be obtained.

ILEANA AND HER HUSBAND MAY FLY TO AMERICA

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Reports current in Austrian air circles today said that there was a possibility that Archduke Anton of Hapsburg and Princess Ileana of Rumania, who were married two weeks ago, might use the airplane which King Carol gave the princess as a wedding present to fly to the United States.

The airplane is still in England, where it was made, and the couple expect to pick it up when they go there at the close of their honeymoon.

OPENS DRASTIC QUIZ OF ELECTRIC POWER INDUSTRY

Ask Full Accounting of Securities.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The power commission embarked today upon an investigation of the entire electric power industry of the United States, going far beyond the companies which are under federal regulation.

This broad study was disclosed with an announcement by Vice Chairman Williamson that questionnaires had been mailed to all licensees of the commission and to the holding companies with which they are related, to determine the management, control and financing of the licensed concerns.

Hitherto Unexercised Power.

Previously the investigation had been indicated in a less sweeping form. Using a hitherto unexercised power, the commission will seek to clear the relations of companies not only within the electric industry but with other lines of business. It will seek to determine the economic relation of fuel produced power to the hydro-electric energy which alone, and in limited fashion, comes under government supervision.

Other studies, as yet unannounced, are in prospect. The new questionnaires demand a full accounting of the securities of every electric utility concern connected with a company holding federal license on a water-power plant. They are to develop what issues carry voting power and in what individuals or corporations large voting power is vested. The terms of all agreements for management, supervision or service between licensed and unlicensed companies must be shown. The links each company has with other concerns through overlapping directorates and executives must be shown.

15 Pages of Questions.

At the same time the operating companies are asked to submit a list of all hydro or steam plants they operate which are not federally licensed. They must submit the names of the biggest commercial customers of their licensed plants, together with the gross revenue from these non-utility purchasers. Fifteen pages of questions are submitted, and the requests for information are arranged so as to trace inter-corporate relationship even in cases wher absolute control is not shown.

The corporate structure study is being conducted by Dr. W. M. Splawn, educator, who last winter reported on railroad holding company systems for the house interstate commerce committee.

The study of power economics is to be conducted by the commission's own engineering staff. This is to disclose just how power is transmitted and sold both generally and as restricted to geographical divisions. The relationship of industrial rates to domestic differences between classes of industrial customers also may be disclosed.

SLEEPING TOWN OF 70,000 SAVED FROM GAS DEATH

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Aug. 9.—(AP)—For three hours early today the danger of death by gas poisoning hung over the 70,000 inhabitants of the Brussels suburb, Molenbeek. Prompt action by firemen and police only averted a disaster.

While residents of the city slept, the gas pressure, by some unexplained accident, went so low that all lights in the streets and houses went out. Then, almost as suddenly, the pressure rose again and gas rushed from thousands of unlit jets.

Every available policeman and fireman rushed through the streets sounding warnings and turning off street jets.

5 ARCTIC ISLES ARE DISCOVERED BY ICEBREAKER

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD THE SOVIET ICEBREAKER MALYGIN [via Murmansk Radio] Aug. 9.—The Malygin has discovered five islands southwest of Jacobsen Island, the largest of them being about 1¼ miles long. Two of the islands adjoin Alexandra Land.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

VOLSTEAD AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

Attorney General Mitchell in Chicago said that the federal government is willing to do what it can to aid communities in handling gang problems, but cannot be expected to assume local responsibilities. "In fact, it would be the worst thing which could happen. It would upset the whole scheme of our government."

This is true, but the conditions which produce some present day gang crimes are out of the control of the great cities in which they are committed. Responsibility should include authority, and the United States with the Volstead act has taken authority away from the communities. Federal law imposes prohibition. Gangs are organized to operate under prohibition. It offers the profits which they seek. It is their reason for being. When a city intelligently undertakes to rid itself of a thing which has become undesirable or intolerable, it tries to get at the source of its troubles.

The United States government is responsible for criminals produced under the Volstead act, and the various communities which should not be permitted to shirk any of their own responsibilities may properly ask federal authority to take care of its own. Prohibition gangsters are the concern of the central government so long as its laws furnish the cause for them. Volsteadism itself is an upset of the whole scheme of our government."

Otherwise, Mr. Mitchell is entirely sound. The states are to be held responsible for their own enforcement of their own laws, and when they are unequal to it the sign will be one of political degeneration.

INTERNATIONAL MISCHIEF MAKING.

While we are getting better acquainted with the activities of communist mischief making in the United States, news of what is going on in this line on the other side of the world takes a new interest. From the China Weekly Review we learn that the recent arrest at Singapore of a French communist, with several European and Chinese agents, has resulted in the breaking up of a widespread plot which was apparently being engineered by the Third [communist] Internationale for the purpose of stirring up Red uprisings throughout the far east, including the important cities of Singapore, Manila, Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow and Tientsin."

The Frenchman, Joseph Ducroux, a notorious Red, had been denied a passport by the French government, but had succeeded in getting one under the name of Serge Lefrance. He went first to Moscow, presumably to consult his superiors and perfect his plans, and then east by way of the Trans-Siberian railway, stopping in Manchuria where he is believed to have organized cells among Chinese and Corean students. He then proceeded southward, stopping at Dairen, Tientsin, Peiping, Shanghai, Hankow, and Hongkong. In April he landed at Singapore, hired an office ostensibly for selling French merchandise and began his real work under this cover. Attention of the Singapore criminal investigation department was drawn to him by the visit to his office of Chinese students, young Malays, and Javanese. When his mail was intercepted and his office searched the scope and nature of his activities were discovered. A notebook was found containing the names and addresses of many known communist agitators throughout the far east, chiefly Russians and Chinese, also a plan for organizing communist groups in British India. He was tried for sedition and given a surprisingly moderate sentence by the British court—eighteen months in prison—but the information obtained resulted in a general roundup of communist agents and agitators, one of whom, known as the Chinese Stalin, was promptly executed by the Chinese authorities.

This incident gives only a specimen of the world-wide activities of the communist internationals at Moscow. The soviet government has disclaimed any responsibility for this organization, but the disclaimer is a fraud which even its authors cannot expect any one to swallow. The internationale is run by the communist party which runs the soviet government and would amount to little without the latter's support. Russia, in fact, under its present régime is engaged in war upon western civilization, including American democracy, which it rightly considers its most formidable opponent. It is only common sense for us to recognize that war for what it is. We are invited by some of our public men and of our so called intelligentsia to ignore it, to enter into friendly intercourse with the enemy which is carrying it on. The actual result of following this advice would be to greatly add to the prestige and influence of communist propaganda, especially among the backward or disordered countries where its chief hopes lie. It would weaken the defenses of civilized order in all these countries, and we are invited to assist on the theory that we will thus get more trade from Russia. The theory is not only ignoble but demonstrably false. The countries which have restored diplomatic relations with Russia have not increased their trade thereby and have found that communist plotting against their domestic peace has not only not been checked but has tried to take advantage of diplomatic immunities to extend its scope. The British government, though it granted formal recognition to the bolshevik government, has been compelled to protest more than once against the activities of the internationale in Great Britain, India and elsewhere in the empire, but with no important result. Meanwhile American trade with Russia has increased.

The communist philosophy gives no ground for any self-respecting relations with the Russian régime. Bolshevism has only the code of ruthless war, and our American policy and course of action should conform to that fact. When Russia is done with bolshevism, its principles and methods, there can be restoration of friendly intercourse, but not until then. Meanwhile our defense from its war upon us should be made more efficient.

THE BIRTHDAY AT YORKTOWN.

If the tidewater Virginians in local charge of the Yorktown celebration have their way and cut the surrender scene from the pageantry they will not only give "Hamlet" without him but they will delete the real national significance from the historic scene. Although Americans were derided as an inferior people after they gained their independence as well as before they never suffered from a disturbing self-consciousness that they might be. The reason was that twice they had herded the king's men off as prisoners of war after the surrender of British armies.

In their colonial origin they were nearly all beaten men, fleeing from conditions they could not tolerate and domination to which they could not submit. England in their day was not a bad place for the people on top, but it was uncomfortable for the people underneath. The latter preferred the wilderness, the rockbound coast. New England was settled by Archbishop Laud trying to drive all Englishmen into the Church of England. The nonconformists who later were the backbone of the Cromwellian revolution furnished the founders of Massachusetts Bay. Virginia got many indentured men and many other settlers forced into the ships by press gangs. The Pennsylvania Quakers wanted a refuge from persecution. The Scotch-Irish were driven from home by religious intolerance and by trade laws. The harassed sects of Europe turned to the forests of America as relief from their persecutors.

The colonials were nearly all at the time of their migration people abused by authority at home, deprived of privileges and consequently regarded as inferior in their time and place. As colonials they were considered inferior to the people from whom they had separated themselves in intellect, in courage and culture. If, when they wanted their independence, they had been allowed to depart in peace by an indifferent or tolerant home government, the consciousness that they were an inferior breed might have remained with them. They had to fight for what they got. In years of war they had to withstand everything a military power sent against them and to win, in spite of their own disintegrating tendencies and their mone. poverty. They not only won but twice they received the surrender of the king's armies. The British officer in the revolutionary war was an arrogant man in his relations to the Americans he was fighting. It was all the more gratifying to see him on foot leading troops to stack their arms. The sight at Saratoga and at Yorktown destroyed pretensions of superiority. Cornwallis avoided personal participation in the event by sending Gen. O'Hara, but Washington did not receive the sword, but gave that compensation to Gen. Lincoln for the humiliation he had suffered at Charleston. The British band, required by the articles of capitulation to play a British air for the march of the surrendered troops, played "The World Turned Upside Down." As, indeed, it seemed to be.

The surrender had a moral effect. It answered the assumptions of superiority. It fixed confidence in American character. The status of Americans was not something granted them from above, as in the case of Canada and other British dominions, but a work of their own hands. When Virginia omits the surrender scene it makes the celebration futile. It is a birthday without a birth, the cake and the cake eater, but not the American. The original birthday cake was cut with a sword.

THE BOMB THROWERS.

In virtually every bombing the motive is plain and it indicates the source of the outrage. An explosive is not tossed at a cleaner's shop because of the kind of fish he buys nor is acid thrown on goods because he does not go to the movies. Each bomb or act of terrorism identifies its racket. Its purpose is to injure and to terrify. If its meaning were not plain it would not serve its purpose. It is to make the victim submit to demands on his pocketbook.

The category of rackets is well known to the police. They know the headquarters of violence, intimidation and extortion. No bombing is a mystery. Nearly every one is an open book. The extortionists have to be known to do business. The victim has to deal with them and the police must know who they are. In such circumstances the continuance of such crimes has no acceptable explanation.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO NEXT JUNE.

[Grand Rapids Herald.]

All of the middle west should join THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in urging that the next national political conventions be held in Chicago. No other city combines as many political convention advantages as Chicago. While Atlantic City may have adequate hotel facilities and cool ocean breezes and Kansas City an excellent convention hall, Chicago can match these claims and exceed them.

The best handled conventions of the past have been those held in Chicago. Other cities have done their best, but one after another they have failed to come up to the standard set by the Illinois metropolis. It is ideally situated. Its June weather is temperate. Its convention hall capacity is ample. Its hotels are numerous, varied, and well appointed.

So long as "Big Bill" Thompson was mayor the Republican party might have had reason for shying away from Chicago. "Big Bill's" clowning was not a national asset. But Thompson now is out of the picture and all of Chicago's assets endure. Michigan should favor Chicago, by all odds.

METHODS AGAINST POISON IVY.

R. writes his experience with poison ivy. He was exposed on Sunday and broke out on Wednesday. He went to several physicians. On Thursday a doctor said he did not know what it was, but it was not poison ivy; that poison ivy eruption always came at once after exposure. On Friday another doctor said it was a food rash and prescribed bathing it with a cold solution of bicarbonate of soda. A third called it pompholyx and changed the dressing to warm bicarbonate solution. On Monday, eight days after exposure, a skin specialist diagnosed poison ivy. The original place was nearly well one week later, when the rash developed on the body.

I have been told of many remedies, from gasoline to salt water.

L. S. J. wrote of getting a bad dose of it. After trying several treatments he became desperate and resorted to hot water and strong yellow kitchen soap. He applied the soap solution to the affected spots with a soft cloth, washing them gently with solution as hot as could be borne. Relief was immediate and cure followed within 36 hours.

Mrs. C. A. writes that she has found that hot solution of sugar of lead gave quick relief. Cold solution was no good.

The poison of poison ivy is a resin which produces an eruption when it touches. The period of latency may be no longer than twelve hours, or it may be as long as ten days.

The first effort of prevention after exposure should be to wash the poison off. For this purpose a strong solution of kitchen soap in water is good, but it must be used with thoroughness. McNair [who has written the best book on the subject] recommends a five per cent mixture of ferric chloride in a watery solution of glycerol, or in water and alcohol equal parts.

If the eruption has appeared the time has come for cures rather than prevention. The McNair iron solution stands at the head of the cures. Some prefer washing with gasoline; some use soap solution as a cure. The recommendation, based on many experiences, is that if soap solution or sugar of lead solution be used they give relief more promptly if they are used hot. McNair lists many hundred remedies for poison ivy, each with its advocates. As a rule, a man with a poison ivy remedy, like the man with a remedy for horse colic, is ready to swear by his method and to back it with money, marbles, or chalk.

In bad cases after the blisters have broken and a raw, itchy, inflamed oozing surface is left behind, treatment with tannic acid solution as in burns is worth trying. It is a self-limited disease and, as such, always ends regardless of the treatment used. Therefore, the only standards are: Was the itching stopped and how long did the eruption last?

COUNTS HIS CALORIES.

J. W. writes: Please tell me how many calories there are in the following foods:

1. An average helping of canned vegetable soup.
2. One slice brown bread.
3. One orange.
4. One egg.
5. One head lettuce.
6. One slice chocolate cake.
7. One slice lemon pie.
8. One glass of milk.

REPLY.

1. ¾ cup will supply about 21 calories.
2. About 65.
3. About 113.
4. About 74.
5. About 11.
6. About 141.
7. About 217.
8. About 125.

MOISTURE IN LUNGS.

J. M. O. writes:

1. What foods should one eat to build up and strengthen the lungs after an attack of bronchial flu?
2. What is meant by "moisture on the lung"?

REPLY:

1. An ordinary, wholesome, nutritious diet is all you need in that line.
2. Moisture in the lungs often means infection with tubercle bacilli.

COOKING ODORS.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Cooking smells from a restaurant located adjacent to and below my apartment waft in through my windows, and do not add to my summer comfort. This restaurant, I believe, has no ventilation stack, as is required by law. Will you please bring this to the attention of the proper authorities? H. M.

An inspector has been assigned to make an investigation and, if a violation coming within the jurisdiction of this department is found, prompt action will be taken to enforce the ordinance.

HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,
Commissioner of Health.

STREET SWEEPINGS REMOVED.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Friend of the People.]—One day every week the street cleaners dump street sweepings they collect over an area of several blocks in front of my house. This pile of rubbish is very unsightly and sometimes blows over on my lawn. Before it is removed there is enough to fill a big wagon. Please tell me what measures to take to stop this. E. H.

Report is made that street dirt complained of has been removed and neighborhood improvement association which cares for this street directed to instruct street cleaner to find another location for the temporary storage of street sweepings.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I married a widow some years ago who had two minor children. Both have since become of age. The boy has adopted my name but the girl has not. Neither is legally adopted by me. In case of the death of their mother [1] can they claim her share of the estate, she not having anything before our marriage? 2. In case of divorce is it necessary to have lawyers make a settlement of property where there is a mutual agreement? 3. If so, how long does it take? A. C.

1. Her share of what estate? They would share in property belonging to their mother, if that is what you mean to ask.
2. Not if the defendant is willing to let the case go by default.
3. Depends on facts that are not before us.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

TO A LITTLE GIRL.

She paints for me, in her childish way.
And always she pictures sapphire skies
With yellow suns, o'er emerald hills,
While dreamlight glows in her eager eyes.

But never the sketch of a factory,
Or a faded woman, with hope long dead,
And never a storm-tossed ship at sea,

With her I would hie to some far isle
Where days are languid the whole year through;
Where soft nights fall like a soft caress

And there she should blossom like a rose,
Forever ignorant of the strife
Which man has plotted against himself;
But who may choose the way of a life?

FAN C. SMITH.

WHEREVER ONE TURNS, we read of plans for the relief this winter of needy families brought to want by unemployment. That is one of the most hopeful signs of the situation. Predictions of better times to come and a gradual return to prosperity do not mean much to those without jobs and without money. Only concentrated effort will reduce the hardships of what possibly, even probably, will be the worst winter of our depression.

Business betterment, of which vicarious signs appear here and there, cannot happen fast enough to make this winter other than one of hardship to many families. The Wake-Line is an optimist on America in the long run. We are more of an optimist when we know that the best minds of the nation are at work this far in advance without waiting for the stark reality to find us totally unprepared.

OR "JUST A LITTLE BIT ADDED."

Wake-Line: I was thinking of suitable songs for the much-talked-of nudist cult, and it seems to me that "Just As I Am" would about do. What do you think? HALLIE.

COURSE RULES.

From a Wisconsin Helper comes the course rules of an adjacent golf course designed for summer visitors:

Threesomes and fivesomes have the same rights as twosomes and foursomes.

Dogs allowed on course at all times.

Balls driven out of bounds are out of bounds—that's all.

Players may be teed up if desired.

HOOT MON!

Wake-Line: A gadget is to be placed in New York taxicabs which will automatically start the meter when the fare sits down. But what I am wondering is how the drivers will get a Scotchman to sit down. BILL MORROW.

This Wake-Line Is Conducted By Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

THIS COLUMN RECEIVES many wheezes on the supposed closeness of the Scotch. Likewise many concerning the loquacity of the fair sex. On the same theory which prompts the old bromide that it is not news when a dog bites a man but is news when a man bites a dog, we suggest from Helpers any incidents recounting generosity of the Scotch or taciturnity of womankind.

"THE FIRST LIAR AIN'T GOT NO CHANCE."

Harvey: My husband, a traveling salesman by the way, says it was so hot in New Jersey that the farmers fed the hens cracked ice to keep them from laying hard boiled eggs. MARY KAY.

UNCERTAIN, COY, AND HARD TO PLEASE.

HTW: Miss Ina Claire of the chattering films was granted a divorce from John Gilbert, also of the talking tintypes, on grounds of cruelty. The lady says he told her "she had too much intellect." That made her angry and away she went to the divorce court. Now if he'd only had presence of mind enough to call her a "dumbdora" they'd have probably lived happily ever after. Aren't women the berries, Harve?

THE AGITATOR

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 10, 1915.

PETROGRAD.—An attack by a German fleet, composed of twenty-one warships of the first class and numerous auxiliary vessels, is described in an official report issued by the war office. It says: "A German fleet of nine battleships and twelve cruisers, with a large number of torpedo boat destroyers, persistently attacked the entrance to the Gulf of Riga Sunday but everywhere were repulsed. A cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers were damaged by mines near Dirben. None of our ships was lost."

WASHINGTON.—A policy for the restoration of order in Mexico has been decided upon by Secretary of State Lansing, approved by President Wilson, and assented to by the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay, and Guatemala. The details of the new Mexican policy will be made public following the adjournment of the Mexican conference, which will be resumed in New York on Wednesday.

LONDON. — The Austro-German armies made fresh progress in their campaign against the Russians. The occupation of Praga, reported by Berlin, brings to a dramatic climax the first phase of the drive at the Polish capital and the region of eastern Poland, of which Warsaw is the dominating center. Praga is essentially a part of the capital, with great railway stations on the roads running to Petrograd and Moscow.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 10, 1901.

CHICAGO.—State's Attorney Charles S. Deneen began quo warranto proceedings to deprive the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company of the right to do business under its charter. The proceedings attack the gas consolidation act passed by the legislature in 1897. The bill charges that the title of the act is misleading and that the law itself is unconstitutional.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Within twenty-four hours of the going into effect of President Shaffer's general strike order President Gompers of the Federation of Labor issued a statement pledging the moral and financial support of that order to the Amalgamated association. The official estimate of the mills that will close tomorrow increases the number of strikers to 125,000. This includes the 45,000 men now idle under the first strike called. The steel trust officials gave orders to dismantle the Dewees wood plant at McKeesport and move it away as a counter move against the union. It is also reported that the trust will purchase the Tennessee Coal and Iron company's plants and move them away from the Amalgamated association atmosphere wherever possible.

TOPEKA, Kas.—David Nation, a lawyer and an unobtrusive old man who wears a G. A. R. button, brought suit against his wife, Carrie Nation, the hatchet wielder on saloons, for divorce.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 10, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Favorable reports continue to come from the sickbed of President Garfield and predictions were made by his physicians that his fever will begin to recede very soon. Most of the fever is attributed to the second operation which the patient underwent yesterday. Dr. Bliss said that the bullet fired by Charles J. Guiteau struck and broke the tenth rib and cut a hole through the wall of the abdominal cavity. It bruised the liver, but whether it has broken through the covering of the liver or not he is not entirely certain. It lodged in the anterior wall of the abdomen.

BOSTON, Mass.—Judge James D. Colt, associate justice of the Massachusetts Supreme court, committed suicide in his private office at Pittsfield by shooting himself in the right temple. He was 65 years old and was one of the most eminent jurists in the state. He had been on the Supreme bench since 1865.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Pretoria says the cession of the Transvaal to the Boers has been formally effected and the Boer government has issued a proclamation announcing the establishment of the South African Republic. Mynheer Bok, the secretary of state, and other officials have been sworn in.

GOV. RITCHIE'S SPEECH TO THE SOUTH.

Executive Department, Annapolis, Md., Aug. 4.—I would not trespass upon you with this request were it not that my relations with THE TRIBUNE have been so uniformly pleasant, and your paper has in fact so often been generous to me beyond my deserts that in fairness to us both I do not want what I believe is a misunderstanding on your part to exist.

"Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has been regarded as one of the likely candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, but in a speech the other night he committed himself to Wilsonian internationalism. He said our era of isolation was over, and regardless of our traditions we were in the maelstrom of world economics with no chance of making a distinction between economics and politics."

The editorial then went on to comment vigorously and unfavorably upon the position you thus said I had taken. I presume this editorial was referring to the broadcast I made to the southern states over the Dixie network of the Columbia system on July 24, 1931. I think your editorial must have been based upon a newspaper account, which was necessarily abbreviated, and not upon a knowledge of the speech itself.

It may be quite true that my phrase, "our era of isolation is over," was not a very appropriate one, because in the sense your editorial comments upon it, and for the reasons it gives, this statement was not correct. That, however, was obviously no more than a phrase which sometimes gets into any prepared speech, and could not fairly be picked out as of much importance or as indicative of what I was saying. Naturally, I know that in the sense of your editorial our country never has had an era of isolation.

This aside, I do not believe there is anything in the speech as delivered with which THE TRIBUNE will disagree a great deal. Certainly with much of it I am sure you will agree—for instance, the views on prohibition which I expressed to the people of the south.

So far as the only thing discussed in the editorial, namely, the international situation, is concerned, after commenting upon our natural difficulties in understanding this correctly, the speech is simply a challenge to the American people to recognize certain considerations which I believe all thinking people realize, and most privately admit, have become facts from recent developments—namely, that if the allies do not get their reparations there is little likelihood that they will keep on paying their debts to us; that when the moratorium is over German reparations, in all likelihood, will not be resumed on the present basis, but will be extended or readjusted, and that this will affect correspondingly the foregin debts due us; and that while our government may say that in the international conferences we are present on economic questions only, yet really in the existing situation economic questions cannot be separated from political questions, and as a matter of fact, whether we like it or not, we are now actually in European affairs.

I assert that our right to collect the foreign debts is clear, and plans the possibility of readjusting them solely on the contingency that this be for the ultimate welfare of our own country, I close with a plea that we do not delude ourselves as to the realities of the situation we now find ourselves in, but that we meet and solve our future responsibilities with open eyes, and that the determination of just what these are must await future happenings and international developments during the moratorium. I repeat that in all this I believe there is little with which THE TRIBUNE does not agree.

I have found it necessary to write you at some length, although it is quite probable that you will consider this makes the publication of my letter impracticable.

In this event I will still feel the satisfaction of having explained fully the misinterpretation of my address which I think your editorial involves to one from whom I know the matter will receive fair and adequate consideration.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE,
Governor.

REFERRED TO DR. EVANS.

Chicago, July 29.—Quite often we read of dangerous cases of hiccoughs. In today's TRIBUNE I read of another.

Hoping to be of some help to others, I'll tell of my own experience. It happened ten or eleven years ago, while I was in Lorain, O. At first I didn't pay much attention to it, but, after two weeks of steady hiccoughs, a little alarmed, I went to see Dr. Stephens (now dead), who at first was very puzzled, then looked over several medical books and finally got what seemed to me a pair of flat tongs, put some gauze in between its jaws, then grabbed my tongue and pulled it out as far as it could come out (till then I never knew that my tongue could be that long), and held it for about five minutes. After that he gave me some white tablets to take every three hours. Inside of a few days the hiccoughs disappeared.

18TH CHAPTER OF FACTOR HEARING DUE TOMORROW

Commissioner May Rule on Plea for Delay.

John [Jake the Barber] Factor will appear before United States Commissioner Walker tomorrow for the eighteenth installment of his extradition proceedings, this time on a plea for an indefinite continuance that would mean at least six months and probably a year.

JOHN FACTOR. [Times Photo.]

Three months have elapsed since the former Halsted street tonic vendor was seized on behalf of the crown of Great Britain, which demands him for alleged stock swindles totaling more than $7,000,000. The alleged swindler's lawyers, including David D. Stansbury, United States Senator Otis F. Glenn and the Messrs. Swaine, Gilbert and Schwartz from the senator's firm, are seeking a suspension of all proceedings before the commissioner pending their appeal to the United States Supreme court on a habeas corpus action.

Expect Ruling Tomorrow.

Commissioner Walker is expected to rule on the motion tomorrow. If the motion to stay were granted, the latest corpus appeal would go first to the Circuit Court of Appeals and then to the Supreme court, which would have to reverse itself to grant the writ sought. Mr. Stansbury, however, has expressed confidence that the Supreme court will reverse itself, pointing the commissioner that the high tribunal "blundered" when it said [Kelly vs. Griffin] that the offense charged against Factor in Illinois is a crime in Illinois.

The alleged offense, "receiving money, knowing the same to have been feloniously obtained," must be a crime under Illinois law if Factor is to be extradited. Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry refused to set Factor free on a writ of habeas corpus, declaring: "It would be ridiculous for an inferior court to presume to overrule the most exalted tribunal in the land."

Fights Move for Delay.

"I have fought this move for further delay and will fight it again tomorrow," said Attorney Franklin L. Sturmyer, counsel for the British crown. "It would be outrageous to put off that case for such a length of time."

Attorney Overmyer, in commenting on the "dilatory" manner in which Factor's case has been handled, cited the fight with which Arthur J. Cox, one of Factor's associates, was resisted for extradition in New York.

BURKE'S INJURED PAL WANTED FOR PLANO ROBBERY

Kendall county officials will make a plea today for the custody of Gus Winkler, gangster and companion of the notorious Fred [Killer] Burke. Winkler now is in a hospital in Benton Harbor, Mich., near which he suffered serious injuries in an automobile accident several days ago. According to Sheriff Martin Hextell, Winkler has been identified as one of the participants in the robbery of the Plano, Ill., State bank on Dec. 19, 1930. The sheriff will go to the Michigan town to ask that Winkler be turned over to him for trial on this charge.

Reports from Benton Harbor last night indicated that it was still unknown whether the man accused as a killer would ever stand trial. Although his condition appeared slightly better than it had been on Saturday, physicians said that a slight relapse would cause his death. He is suffering from intercranial pressure and has lost the sight of his left eye.

Falls from Roof While Repairing Aerial, Killed

William Bauriess, 29 years old, fell from the roof of his home at 933 West Hill place yesterday afternoon and was fatally injured. His death occurred in St. Paul's hospital a few hours later. Bauriess had climbed to the roof to repair a radio aerial which was damaged in the rainstorm of Saturday evening.

BODY FOUND IN SLIP.

The body of a man known only as Kirby, who is said to have been an employe of a lake vessel, was recovered yesterday by coast guardsmen from the Ogden slip.

FIND HALF BILLION IN GOLD AND GEMS BENEATH A LAKE

Hidden Fortune Located by Indian Maharajah.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A secret underground treasure vault used by the ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, India, has been rediscovered with the aid of Sig. Mancini, an Italian architect. The utmost secrecy surrounds the finding of the treasure, "lost" for so many years near the artificial lake of Saugor.

Jewels and gold found in the vault are said to be worth about $500,000,000, but they are sacred relics, and the maharajah has not decided whether to reseal the vault or appropriate the treasure. Frequent attempts have been made in the past to discover the jewels, and huge sums were spent in searching for them.

The maharajah was once told by an astrologer that he would recover the lost fortune, and he destroyed four old palaces and then built new ones in the search.

Find Famous Crown.

The ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, who claims to descend from the mythological King Rama of Ajodhya, had been charged with the preservation of the historic imperial jewels of the last Hindu emperor, Rana Prithwiraj, who was defeated in the battle of Panipat in the 16th century. The famous crown of the Pandava emperors was said to have been found after the vault was opened.

To the Hindus the jewels have great mystic value, embodying the ruling principle of kingship among them. The possessor of the jewels, Hindus claim, hold the power to rule India in the future.

During the excavation for a huge irrigation reservoir engineers came upon the ruins of an ancient palace. A copper plate was found containing verses in Sanskrit, which indicated that the treasures of the Hindu emperors were carefully stored in vaults near the "lake in the hills."

Plate Gives Directions.

Sig. Mancini, who had been engaged to supervise the contraction of a new palace for the maharajah on Mount Abu, was asked to help in the hunt for the hidden cache. The "lake in the hills" was decided to be the beautiful Lake Saugor, and under the pretext of changing the water, it was drained dry. The lake's bed was cleaned out. In the center was discovered strong masonry work. On examining it an entrance was found behind a huge movable stone.

A tunnel under the lake led to the vault lying hidden deep in the rocky hills. After three months' work the searchers reached the walls of the vault. The door could not be found, and it was necessary to break through eight feet of stone between the end of the tunnel and the vault. In the first chamber was found a huge copper vessel. It bore the seal of the Lion-throne, which was seat of the Hindu emperors, called the Simhasan. Sandalwood paste and saffron still remained on the sides of the throne, although flowers and leaves had turned to dust.

Solid Mass of Gold.

Around the neck of the copper vessel, strung to strong coils of silver wire, hung a brass plate stating that the vessel was the embodiment of the spirit protecting the sacred relics left in trust in the hands of the house of Alwar. It also gave a list of the jewels.

On being opened, the vessel was found to be full of gold. It was one solid mass, apparently having been melted and poured into the vessel before it was placed in the vault. Tracks on the ground led to a corner in the wall where the second entrance to a second vault was located. There the $500,000,000 was found.

RAIDERS SEIZE THREE WOMEN.

County highway police under Lieut. Robert Seiter raided an alleged disorderly house at 177th street and Wentworth avenue, in Lansing early yesterday and arrested Patsy Ward, 28 years old, as the keeper and two other women and three men as inmates.

Wants to Quit Exile Isle; Craves Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Leon Trotzky, exiled on the island of Prinkipo, Sea of Marmora, and denied permission by every civilized power to land within its territories, has discovered a new field for action where he can serve soviet Russia without affronting its chiefs.

LEON TROTZKY.

According to his entourage the creator of the Red army has offered his services as commander-in-chief, or chief recruiting officer, of the army of Tashkent. This force is composed chiefly of malcontents from Turkey, Persia, Afghanistan and India and was formed four years ago to cooperate with any Indian revolutionary movement.

Show Signs of Mutiny.

No violent revolutionary movement has developed, and the Indian rank and file, led by Russian, Turkish or Persian officers, have been flitting across the border or showing signs of mutiny. Many have been shot, but discipline remains lax.

Trotzky thinks that if he is sent to Tashkent, where he will be virtually a prisoner, he can use his organizing genius and by the magic of his name secure more recruits from India. The Tashkent army is said to be an odd assortment of Turks, Persians and Afghans, real military material and brigaded with Indians of a high social order and intellectual standard.

The Indians, who have yielded land and position in order to join this "rebel" army, are anxious for actual warfare.

Instead of action, the Indians complain, they have been mistreated by their fierce comrades with the connivance of the officers, and have been given bad food as well as systematic training in communism. Several Bengali rajahs are among the Indians, and Russia fears their disillusionment.

Trotzky Itches for Action.

Trotzky, at this juncture when revolutionary activity is really raising its head in India, announces that he can make a suitable "impression" on the Kashmir frontier where the Tashkent army is stationed.

Whether President Mustapha Kemal will allow Trotzky to go is another matter. The official Turkish attitude is said to be that the various Russian armies are quite strong enough without any further inspiration from their creator Trotzky.

Use the PERSONAL COLUMN

If you want to trace a stolen car, find lost heirs, make a public declaration of intentions, or solve any other personal problem, use a want ad in the Tribune's Personal column!

Don't Experiment!

Approximately twice as much want advertising appears in the Tribune as in any other Chicago newspaper.

The Tribune Want Ad Section carries an average of 100 separate classifications, giving you a special market place for almost anything you want to buy, sell, or exchange.

No other Chicago newspaper can place your want ad before so many families in Chicago and suburbs as the Chicago Tribune. On weekdays the Tribune reaches 166,000 more families and on Sundays 176,000 more families than any other Chicago newspaper.

If You Have Lost Valuables, Call Superior 0100—ADTAKER

YOU will speed the recovery of your lost valuables if you will at once place a notice in the Tribune Want Ad Section under Lost & Found. Someone among the 815,000 families who read the Tribune daily, or among the 960,000 families who read it on Sundays, may have found your valuables and wants to find you.

Business School Days

The Fall school terms of most business and trade schools will begin within a few weeks. If you are planning to continue your education by taking special courses, look through the Instruction and Trade School columns in the Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section.

Actress Mourns Byronic Friend in This Novel

Ursula Parrott Adds to Her Series.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

A NEW book by Ursula Parrott is being published today. Its name is "Love Goes Past" (Cape & Smith), and it probably will be bought and read with avidity by all those who liked "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss."

URSULA PARROTT.

According to the blurb on the cover this novel begins where "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss" left off. "In the first the deserted wife finds her refuge in amorous adventures with many men; the second deals with a woman whose life is tortured by desire for a man who refuses to marry. The third is, in many ways, the most important of the trilogy."

It is most certainly an extremely subtle piece of work from the literary standpoint. Although the method Miss Parrott uses in narrating her story is as old, and probably older, than Browning's "The Ring and the Book," she gives it a fresh touch and a style that makes it all her own. The way in which she writes was, to this reader, as interesting as the plot itself.

The novel is divided into six parts, headed "Emma," "Entr' Acte," "Janice," "Hilary," "Entr' Acte," and "Emma." Emma is Janice's maid, and the first part of the story is all seen with Emma's eyes. Of course, we get not only an intimate picture of the mistress and her problems, but of the maid, too, and a more unselfish, sympathetic, and kindly person never came up from the fields of Georgia to see her living in Gotham. Emma is in fact friend Janice has.

The second division begins where Emma's recital leaves off and it is from the point of view of the author she sees, understands, and describes Janice. Then Ann, Janice's young aunt, and Hilary, her old friend and lover, take up the thread and go on with the narrative.

In some ways it reminds one a little of Hergesheimer's "The Bright Shawl" which also had a similar pattern, starting and ending with the same character, his thoughts and emotions. It is, however, a portrait done in soft tones, gray, violet and pink predominating, while "The Bright Shawl" was pitched in a much higher key: magenta, yellow, citron, vivid blue.

"Love Goes Past" is concerned with a popular and most successful actress, Janice, who is madly in love with a Byronic individual named Marcus. The latter is forever harping on the need for masculine freedom and man's inability to taste it once he is enslaved to a wife. Although Martin has his way about everything in their affair, he is still restless and roving and frequent violent quarrels are the result of his philandering with other women.

Finally he leaves Janice and goes off on a scientific expedition to the interior of Africa. Months later news comes that the entire party is wiped out in a fight with savage tribes. Immediately Janice forgets all Martin's faults, all his unkindnesses to her, his infidelities and his utter selfishness, and remembers only their love.

"She had loved him passionately, fiercely, had taken him and herself with desperate seriousness, and, since he was dead, had no passion and no devotion to give any one! and had lost, permanently, apparently, the capacity to take anything seriously, at all."

Hilary, her manager, who has loved her devotedly for years, and who has a very small opinion, indeed, of the late Jonathan Martin, stands by and begs on caring for Janice because "she is helpless against herself," and because she is the loveliest woman he has ever known.

The story takes a sudden and exciting turn toward the end.

I think you'll like "Love Goes Past," and I'm sure you will remember the picturesque Janice for a long while.

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

With Barbara Stanwyck starring in "Night Nurse," the film made from the sensational novel of the same title, it's not surprising that business is brisk at the Oriental this week.

In the comparatively short time since Barbara's magnetic personality first flashed across the screen, she has built up a staunch following of fans who can't see enough of her.

"Night Nurse," with its melodramatic and not very plausible story, might have been a flop had the leading rôle been entrusted to a less convincing actress, but this redheaded star rolls up her sleeves and plunges into her part with a forceful sincerity that gives life and drama to the slightly dizzy tale.

The heroine is Lora Hart, one of those hard boiled, level headed girls who make excellent nurses. Her first case brings her to a wealthy home to care for two languishing children. Before very long Lora finds out that there is a lot of unsavory undercurrents in that home. The youngsters are victims of starvation under an unethical doctor's orders. The mother, a giddy widow, indulges in continuous drinking sprees and lets her handsome chauffeur dictate to the household.

Things are in such a sad state that you sigh with relief, when, eventually, a bootlegger acquaintance of the nurse steps in and straightens out matters in his own efficient though ungentle way.

Miss Stanwyck carries most of the show on her own sturdy shoulders. Next to her the credit goes to Joan Blondell as Maloney, a blasé, wise-cracking nurse, and to Ben Lyon, who makes you feel that a bootlegger isn't necessarily the worst guy in the world. Charles Winninger injects a twinkling of wholesome humor into his brief rôle as the honest physician in the case, and Clark Gable, whom we will be seeing soon as Greta Garbo's leading man, is convincingly sinister as the plotting chauffeur.

Winnetka Postpones Water Festival; Lake Too Rough

Winnetka's annual water festival, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because high waves in Lake Michigan made it unsafe, in the minds of suburban residents, to allow children to compete in the swimming and boating events. One beach on the north shore, that at Glencoe, was closed on account of the unsafe conditions.

WORLD Y.M.C.A. VOTES, 201 TO 2, "NATIONS SHARE GUILT OF WAR"

In a midnight session, lasting only an hour, the conference acceded to the demands of the German group and adopted a delicately worded resolution.

It was carefully explained that the vote was a personal one by the delegates and did not bind their national alliances to that view. Principal figures in the controversy were the French and German delegations, at opposite views. The final vote was 201 to 2, with six refraining from voting.

After sessions today in which the conference was addressed by Bishop William Fraser McDowell of Washington, D. C., and Dr. John R. Mott, president of the world's alliance, the conference was adjourned.

Tomorrow, the national council of the Y. M. C. A. of the United States goes into a session that promises to exceed that of the present conference in general interest.

Nancy Carroll, M. Marsh Here on Way to New York

Nancy Carroll, screen actress, and Marion Marsh, John Barrymore's new leading lady, arrived in Chicago aboar dthe Chief of the Santa Fé railroad yesterday. They paused long enough to attempt a sister act as drum majors for the St. Mary's Training school band, which was just about to leave the Dearborn street station for a picnic when the actresses arrived from Hollywood. Both were en route to New York, Miss Carroll to rejoin her newly acquired husband, Bolton Mallory, and Miss Marsh to attend to some business matters in connection with her next picture, "The Mad Genius," in which she appears opposite John Barrymore.

Roof Gardens Planned for $250,000,000 Radio City

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The architects of Radio City have drafted plans for elaborate roof gardens on the new group of skyscrapers which John D. Rockefeller Jr. is to build at a cost of about $250,000,000 on three blocks between 5th and 6th avenues, 48th and 51st streets. The plans have been developed sufficiently to afford a clear idea of how such a conception would change the skyline of mid-Manhattan. The precise type of roof garden for the Radio City skyscraper has not been decided upon definitely.

Hospital Asks Volunteers in Hay Fever War

Wants to Make Tests of Pollen Free Air.

Free board and lodging is offered to hay fever sufferers in Cook county by the Illinois Research hospital in an endeavor to find some method of relief. There experiments are to be conducted from Aug. 15 to Oct. 1. The patients are to sleep in a ward where all pollen has been filtered from the air. In return they will be under observation.

It has been a theory that if pollen was filtered out of one's sleeping quarters the patient could carry on through the next day with a reasonable degree of comfort. The hospital authorities propose to test this.

An eight bed ward has been arranged with a fan and the equipment for filtering the air until it is free from pollen. Eight patients will be installed at a time. Each will remain four days to a week for purely observation purposes. The staff will keep records of the speed with which the symptoms disappear in each case, and how long it will be after the patients are free from pollen before the symptoms recur.

No medicine will be given. Nor will patients be confined to the ward for the full duration of the experiment. They will be permitted to go and come, to attend a ball game in the afternoon, or go to a theater in the evening. No salary is offered, and no other recompense, except the free food and lodging.

Men and women are to be housed on alternate weeks in the ward. Those desiring to participate are asked to report at the hospital, 1817 West Polk street, for assignments. Headquarters will be at room 309 of the Illinois Research laboratory, and the time for registering between 10 and 12 o'clock in the morning. It is estimated that approximately 30,000 in Cook county are hay fever sufferers.

JOHN REISENWEBER, FAMED CAFE OWNER, POLITICIAN, TOO, DIES

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—John Reisenweber, one of the big-timers of the old school of Broadway restaurant men that included such nationally known figures as Rector, Mouqin, Martin, Healy and Shanley, died at his home in Woodmere, L. I., today following a paralytic stroke suffered about seven weeks ago. He was in his 80 year.

Mr. Reisenweber was long prominent in Republican politics state and national. In the late eighties, he became the Republican leader in the nineteenth assembly district, and as such the political opponent of John F. Curry, who is now head of Tammany Hall.

Mr. Reisenweber was born in Brooklyn Oct. 19, 1851. When he was at an early age his father, John Nicholas Reisenweber, moved his family to what is now Columbus circle and there established in 1853 the little "half way" house which was one day to become the largest restaurant in the world. Young Reisenweber took over the management of this restaurant. At that time the establishment was surrounded by miles of farm land and its patronage consisted of travelers who drove up in mail coaches. With the arrival of the bicycling days the restaurant grew. Reisenweber's drew its patronage from all parts of the city and in time it became nationally known.

Mr. Reisenweber was the pioneer of the present cabaret form of restaurant. His establishment was the first to initiate dancing for its patrons. With its increasing popularity, the establishment grew in size until it occupied half a block on 8th avenue and extended for hundreds of feet along 58th street. It housed a dozen dining rooms, employed more than 1,000 people, could seat 5,000 diners at one time, and was the scene of many noted banquets. When prohibition came Reisenweber's liquidated and ceased its operations.

Mr. Reisenweber and his wife, whom he married Dec. 18, 1871, were entertained at the White House by President Harding on the occasion of the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary ten years ago. Mrs. Reisenweber died in September, 1926.

Mr. Reisenweber was one of the oldest living members of the Masonic fraternity. He had been a member of Charity lodge, 727, F. & A. M., since 1876. He served as master of that lodge in 1879 and 1880, and later became its senior life member.

Meat Experts Upset Fetishes of Old Cooks

"Don't Boil or Baste," Convene Here Today.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Experts on meat from Washington and twenty-six state agricultural colleges will open a four day conference at the Congress hotel today.

Latest scientific information on meat cookery and meat animal breeding will be discussed by professors, biochemists and women authorities on home economics, as the seventh year of national coöperative meat investigations is reviewed.

"These investigations," explained E. W. Sheets, secretary of the conference, who represents the federal department of agriculture, "have been delving into all phases of the subject of meat, with special emphasis on cooking. They have developed into the greatest coöperative research project ever conducted by such agencies and are revealing new facts which are proving of unusual interest."

The work already done, according to Dean W. C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota Agricultural college, chairman of the conference, was upset such time honored ideas of meat cookery, such as the practice of boiling. Experts now find it advisable to simmer meats instead of boiling them.

"Another thing we have found," added Miss Lucy M. Alexander, an expert of the federal government, "is that basting, which has been the usual practice in cooking roasts, is a waste of time. This should be good news to housewives who never relished the idea of standing at a hot stove with a ladle in such weather as this."

In the cooking phases of the national study, thousands of pieces of meat have been cooked in experimental ovens, later to be tasted by a group of experts and the methods compared. The studies have included surveys of the best feeding and breeding practices to obtain tender beef, pork or lamb cuts.

Among those attending the conference are: Prof. Sleeter Bull, University of Illinois; Dr. Paul E. Howe, federal biochemist, Washington, D. C.; Prof. H. J. Gramlich and Miss Matilde Peters, University of Nebraska; Prof. M. D. Helser and Dr. P. Mabel Nelson, Iowa State college; Miss Alice Child, University of Minnesota; Dr. C. Robert Moulton, Institute of American Meat Packers; Miss Jessie Cline, University of Missouri, and Miss Ines S. Willson, National Livestock and Meat board, Chicago.

Five Chicago Girls to Wear 1812 Garb at Fort Dearborn

Five young women, dressed in the costumes which the pioneer Chicago women wore when they left Fort Dearborn on Aug. 15, 1812, before many were killed by the Indians later on that day, will be escorted to the facsimile of the old fort on Saturday for Chicago's observance of th 119th anniversary of that disaster.

The leader of the quintet, bearing the title of Miss Fort Dearborn, will be chosen Thursday evening at the Trianon ballroom from a hundred survivors of preliminary contests. Runners-up in the competition will be her attendants.

The five girls will be escorted to the new fort, erected on the lake front for the World's Fair celebration, by a motorcade and drum and bugle escort. Fair authorities are seeking an ox team to head the procession from the loop.

Sally's White Sox Party Requires Letters from the Young Fans

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I know that every boy and girl in the city must have been delighted to read in yesterday's TRIBUNE that we are going to see a real major league baseball game for our next party. Mr. Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox ball club, has invited 100 of you to visit the south side park on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 20, to see a thrilling game between the Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics.

The fact that the easterners are the world's champion team should make the occasion of our visit even more exciting, and those of you who like good baseball will have an opportunity of seeing it as it's played by the best. There's such an array of satellites among Connie Mack's boys it's difficult to tell which of them is the most important—Jimmie Foxx, first baseman, or George Earnshaw, who does most of the pitching on the Athletics' team, or Mickey Cochrane, the catcher. At any rate, they're all good, and if you win an invitation to this party you shall see them in action on Aug. 20.

There are so many things to write about—your favorite players, what you like about a major league game, which team you think will be the winner. O, there are any number of such points which will help to make your letter interesting!

It's important, too, that in addition to writing a good letter, you follow the rules. Don't forget to tell me your name, address, and age. Write your own letter and do not ask for an invitation for any one else. Mail it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal. Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Knute Rockne left Hollywood for South Bend today, with formal compliments addressed to the Notre Dame athletes and Universal City film workers and cast, whose efforts she aided in making the motion picture, "Spirit of Notre Dame." She took Billy Rockne, 15 years old, home with her. The fifteen Notre Dame gridders of former years who are playing themselves in the film story stayed on, as they have a lot of football playing to do in front of the camera before the last shots are "in the can" on the story which Russell Mack is directing.

Unofficially, it was stated here Mrs. Rockne received a first check of $12,500, and will receive another check of the same amount after the picture is finished and ready for release. She also will receive a percentage of the profits from exhibition.

Paramount rates its "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck Finn" pictures so highly that it has signed Junior Durkin's guardians to a contract for the 16 year old to play Huck in two more pictures, one titled "Tom Sawyer, Detective." Junior Durkin has been an actor since his third birthday, but only the last two years in pictures.

2,000 Children Fed in School Food Campaign

Contributors to Fund Are Praised by Supt. Bogan.

With summer school ending Aug. 21 and recreation centers closing Aug. 14, school officials yesterday pronounced the campaign to provide food for impoverished and undernourished school children "a great success and a humanitarian aid whose benefits will be felt for the rest of the lives of some two thousand unfortunate children."

At the beginning of the summer period Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan stated that about $2,000 additional would be needed to avoid the tragedy of hunger coming to the school children. An appeal was published in THE TRIBUNE asking the public to aid in this work with small individual donations.

Enough money has now been donated to finish the summer program. Approximately $2,200 had been contributed Saturday night. A few of the donations were for large amounts, but most of them were for small sums. Of interest to the educators was the fact that many of the donations were homes which often felt dire need. Their donations were for $1 and $2 and often meant a great sacrifice to people who preferred to experience need themselves rather than permit a child to go hungry.

Through the purchasing power of the home economics department under the direction of Miss Frances L. Swain the free lunches were provided at an average cost of 5 cents each. Approximately 50,000 luncheons were provided. The menu was varied as often as was economically possible.

Hundreds of letters from the children, thanking their benefactors, were received by Miss Swain. All of them expressed the desire to aid others when they grow up.

"Before I received the food tickets I was 17 pounds underweight," one 8 year old girl wrote, "and now I have gained 2 pounds in two weeks. When I become large enough to take care of myself and go out into the world to earn my living, I am going to try to help as many poor children who are underweight as I can. I will always think of you and the people who helped you in the work."

$25—Charles Ringer.
$6—C. L. M., Grace S. Klein, Pauline Rubens, Delano school room 302, W. E. D. Young.
$2.25—Mrs. A. Curry.
1—Margaret Parsons, Bell Gurko.

"The board of education, the city and the school children owe a vote of thanks to those who aided us so nobly," Mr. Bogan said. "To thank them all personally would be an impossibility but I can thank them together. The citizens are justly proud of the schools and the schools are equally proud and thankful that they have the support of public minded men and women in the worthwhile work carried on during tne summer."

Chicago Crowds Go to Circus, Forgetting Cares for a Day

If anything in the nature of a depression still is lurking around Chicago, no trace of it was discernible yesterday in Grant park. There the tent tops of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus billowed above the usual strange and thrilling sights and feats of the sawdust rings. Automobiles were parked many deep, hub to hub, in the open stretches adjoining the circus lot, and thousands jammed and pushed their way into the main entrance during the afternoon and evening to witness "the big show."

While the sideshows and concessions did a rushing business, the spectators under the big top were watching enraptured as all the old and various new stunts succeeded each other in the panorama of the arena. Undoubtedly the hit of the day was the novel, spectacular act introduced by Mario Orland and Julia Mara, in which the slim and wiry German girl with black bobbed hair dives from a platform near the tent top, on the back of Orland, into a narrow chute below. Orland lands and coasts down the chute on his chest, to the accompaniment of excited squeals and yells.

Alfredo Cordono, husband of the late Lillian Leitzel, the aerial artist who was killed last season in Copenhagen, is one of the stars with the circus here. He and his wife planned to retire in another year, but he recently announced he would continue his trapeze work, in which he holds the record for somersaulting in the air and hurtling back to his swing.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Miss Beth Mench, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Mench of Beaver Dam, Wis., was a trained nurse, a graduate of Presbyterian hospital, and not a nursemaid, as was stated erroneously following her death Saturday of injuries received while diving at an Evanston beach. The correction was requested by her brothers, Eugene Jr., Alexander and John.

In the report of an accident last Friday it was stated erroneously that Charles Jewell, 4 years old, 6910 North Washtenaw avenue, had been killed by a milk wagon. The boy who was killed was Glenwood A. Jewell. Charles is an older brother.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

Slender Throat Line Gives That Desired Youthful Impression

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Talking about a woman of the so-called "uncertain age," which in our language means along about the time when gratitude is earned if birthdays are remembered with flowers and NOT with candles—some one said: "She'll never be anything else but young looking with a throat line like that."

The woman has one of those enviably slender throats upon which a head can rest only with distinction. Upon which a chic coiffure is always possible, no matter which way the hair is turned.

But that kind of neck is something you're born with. Something to thank your parents for. With all our reducing knowledge we can't convert a natural round stubby throat into a swan dream. Outside of taking off unnatural fat rolls, which are more often attached to the chin than elsewhere, the neck proper has to remain in silhouette pretty much as nature made it, except for certain artifices of hair arrangement, collar line choice and head wearing intelligence bound to create the illusion of slenderer neckline if cleverly adopted. Of these latter, however, there is much to be said for the good work they do accomplish in the way of greater neck beauty.

But it was something else about necks we had in mind to talk today. Why is it that women who are reasonably persistent in the care of their faces just leave off their youth drive down where the throat begins? You see countless numbers of women whose faces bear every mark of studied and consistent rejuvenating effort, with necks that just aren't consistently well looked after. With the consequence, there are deep set circular lines the throat around, or perhaps criss-cross ones under the chin line. Anyway, the throat is wrinkled; the skin looks dry, yellowish, unpowdered, etc. That throat skin responds just as happily to preservative care as the skin on the face. Why not include it in the facial cleansing for its massaging benefit? Why not give it a nightly treatment with skin food from throat base to chin line? Why not call the daily massage area from throat base to forehead, or vice versa. Anyway, bring that neck up into the well groomed picture your face is striving to present.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

K. L.: TWO TOOTH BRUSHES for alternate use are a necessity, not a luxury. A tooth brush should be washed thoroughly to remove all particles of food and then allowed to dry before it is used again. My booklet on teeth may be had for a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

American Women Are Best Mothers, Pals, Sweethearts in One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How many of you women check up on the three rôles—mother, pal, and sweetheart?

The question is suggested after reading an article in an English paper by Alec Waugh, British traveler and author, who believes that there are few women cut after the three-in-one pattern. And he's looked them over from Piccadilly to Papeete and almost every other place on the globe, studying the species femme for what she is.

It's a big job for a woman, Mr. Waugh admits at the start—being a mother, pal, and sweetheart.

Many women excel in one count, Mr. Waugh finds. Others manage to serve well in two respects—but there are few who are the complete and perfect answer to the married man's prayer. That is, to the American man's prayer. Other men and other races may not ask so much of their women. The woman of the south seas, for instance, isn't feverishly concerned with the task of being a pal and sweetheart in order to hold her husband. She has no highly developed instinct of possession, the world traveler-author tells us. Therefore, she is not jealous but expects to be one of many.

In other places, we're told, there's not much impetus for women to attempt to qualify as pals and sweethearts; for she may be expected to be the beast of burden. In Europe and America life centers around the woman—consequently in these countries it is of greater concern that she be all things—three of them anyway—to her man.

The English women and English men are on a basis rather like that of brother and sister, this countryman of their tells us. They make terribly good friends, but it rarely occurs to them to fall in love with each other.

I'll wager you will find more of the three-in-one representatives right here in our country than anywhere else on the face of the globe, since here's where the men let them be it.

Crochet Lace Returns to the Fashion Fold

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — How many years has it been since Irish crochet lace was fashion's darling? The post-war generation cannot answer, but they will be able to collect memories of a second Irish lace epoch in styles if Paris has anything to say about it. This sturdy, hand made lace is coming back into style. Irish crochet lace blouses are tenderly displayed in the haughtiest of the Rue de la Paix couture houses, and Worth, the grandest of them all, is showing dresses of this lace.

The dress shown in our sketch is a Worth frock made entirely of white Irish lace, crocheted into the latest silhouette of Paris styles, with short sleeves and draped cowl neck. The waistline is marked by a twisted belt of black satin with a tailored bow at the back. It is worn over a straight slip of black satin, and girls, the slip-on gloves are also black satin, hand stitched in white.

With this frock, at a recent garden party, was worn the Suzanne Talbot hat shown, the hat of the hour in Paris. It is made of a black straw that is coarse in weave, but as supple as satin, and it is shaped like a shallow riding derby. Across the front Talbot places a pair of mercury wings. The effect is unutterably charming.

TWIN CITIES OLDEST NATIVE CELEBRATES HIS 80TH BIRTHDAY

Menasha, Wis., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Henry Sheerin, oldest native of the twin cities of Neenah and Menasha, celebrated his eightieth birthday today. Sheerin, a harness maker by trade, refused to abandon his profession with the advent of the automobile and his work, carried on now on a restricted basis, is still regarded as the best of its kind in the valley.

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and death of her grandfather, has a struggle to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation. The estate adjoins the Winsteads adjoins Oakleigh. Henry Winstead holds the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, loves Sally, but Sally is in love with Lowndes Jennings, who jilts Sally for the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, knowing he knows she doesn't love him. Sally becomes Sam's wife in name only and restores Oakleigh back to her as a wedding present. Sam goes abroad and tells Sally he gives her her freedom. After Sam leaves, Sally discovers that Henry Winstead has taken advantage of her grandfather, as she believed, but had tried to save him.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

LEARNING THE BUSINESS.

They paced sedately up and down the garden paths together. Sally was still agitated, and Henry talked, or was silent, companionably. After a while he thought that she would care to hear—he began to talk about the thing ever nearest his heart: his son. How had she ever thought this old man dry, sinister, a mere money grubber? She wondered. She liked to hear him talk of Sam. She wanted to hear his talk of Sam. She found herself listening avidly—even asking questions.

Before she went to her room for the night she slipped into Sam's room for a moment's silent communion with Katje's picture. "I know now why you loved so much for Henry, Sam's mother," she told the picture. "I'm going to care a great deal for your Henry, too!"

But although she had gained a tender and understanding companionship, she and her new found father were much together, there was so little for her to do, the house was so competently run by the trained servants, that the days went slowly. They were empty and purposeless to her. Restlessness, a painful sense of inutility, oppressed her. She couldn't seem to shake it off.

The cabin near Oakleigh gates had been closed since before her marriage; although she had no wish to open the closed windows, she sighed. Moses cared now for the flowers before it that a young man in khaki had had trouble to attract the passing eye, he had told her. O, that her days were as purposeful now as they had been then! She had discovered in herself an ability for business. In that little shop she had been so alert, there had been so many real things to do! And time hung so heavily on her hands now—she had too much time to think. Sam had chosen his own work, had thrown himself into it with a sort of radiant vigor, a splendid zest. Sam hadn't been at all sorry for her because she had had to work. He had praised her because she could do it so well. She stopped short, struck by a sudden thought.

The next morning Mr. Manager Joe Dixon was visited in his private office by a purposeful Mrs. Sam Winstead, very trim, very pretty, very businesslike. He shook hands with her heartily. Why hadn't she been to see him personally? What's that? Restless? She? What about?

"That's what I've come to see you about."

"Eh? Why, what can I do about it?" asked Joe doubtfully.

"Maybe you can cure it. By giving me a job," said Sally. "Please, don't laugh. I'm in dead earnest, in dreadful earnest, Joe. I want you to find me some sort of a job."

"I'm going to care a great deal for your Henry, too."

"Joe wants me to find her something to do," Joe Dixon was telling his wife about Sally's demand that night.

"Find it for her, then," said Helen placidly.

They discussed the question at length. Plainly, something was wrong, though they couldn't guess what.

"Well, maybe I could make her a sort of private secretary," Joe lamented, with a promise to a persistent suggestion from Helen, "though I don't need and don't want one. I'm afraid she'll be more of a bother than a help to me."

"Make her your private secretary, Joe," advised Helen. "I don't think she'll prove a bother—I really think she'll prove a help."

"I ought to charge it up against Sam, that's what I should do," said Joe gruffly. "What am I to tell him, anyhow?"

"I don't see that you need tell him anything. I, personally, protest against your telling Sam anything about it."

He stared at her, too surprised to speak.

"Making Sally your private secretary won't hurt the business any," Helen said emphatically. "Anyhow, he isn't here, and what he doesn't know can't hurt him," she finished.

It was a growing business, and she had her hands full from the start, and Joe Dixon didn't spare her. He himself worked like a mule and he kept a keen eye on all his employés to the grindstone. His people earned their salaries. The extent of the business, its efficiency under its trained men, astonished Sally. But then, she reflected, Sam wouldn't engage in anything that wasn't efficient and successful.

Henry Winstead was astonished when she told him of her decision. He protested against it. But when Sally explained that she couldn't be satisfied unless there was, that she hadn't enough to do—so why shouldn't she be allowed to satisfy herself in her own way? He looked at her a long time in silence, and finally agreed to let her do as she pleased.

"You know, father, I got a good taste of work when I ran that little shop of mine. Sam told me I had an aptitude for business, and really I do think I have. It spoiled me—for other things. I can't just play about, you see, and know I can't. Probably I'd have liked it well enough if I hadn't been used to learn the other thing. Anyhow, now it would bore me to distraction to have to play around and be idle—and do don't look so doubtful, because I have plenty of time to go about with you on Sundays and holidays. And we can dine and breakfast together, as usual."

As Helen Dixon had predicted, Sally proved a help to Joe. She was quite intelligent, she was on her mettle. Her days no longer hung fife. She had work which occupied her hands and exercised her mind.

"She's all right," Joe reported to Helen, relievedly. "And she seems satisfied. She's learning the business."

She was. She began to ride over the estate, the extent of which surprised her. At night, now, she was studying. Cows, chickens, silos, brooder, feeds were no longer mere words to the earnest young woman—they were living things, working actualities. Joe Dixon delighted to teach so willing and intelligent a pupil. She was able now to take the reception of visitors off his tired shoulders.

A Scotch gardener, with a corps of assistants, was in charge of the garden and the greenhouses flourished under his care. One day he came to ask the services from Joe, who happened to be out at the moment, leaving Sally in charge. Sam's hobby had been roses, she remembered.

Joe McFarland was altogether interested in his work and in nothing else. He lived, ate, slept, dreamed roses. He was willingly articulate only when he could talk roses with intelligent listeners, and here was an intelligent one. Would Mr. McFarland let her come to his greenhouses, Sally wondered? Mr. McFarland said he'd be delighted to have the bonny young leddy.

"I'm going to learn something about roses from Mr. McFarland," she explained to Joe. "We'll have to arrange our office hours, Joe."

She had proved herself an efficient worker. Now she wanted to learn something! McFarland was going to be her instructor! O, well! Sam had a knack for roses himself. Of a sudden, Joe whistled.

Although she was less restless because her days were now crammed with work, she was still troubled, uneasy, anxious. What was she going to do? How was this thing to end? She didn't know. She couldn't tell. There was no word of Sam's return. He was waiting for her to act—and she did nothing. She made no move. How could she, when Henry Winstead loved and trusted her? She could not bring herself to say to him: "Good-by—I am going to leave you, Mr. Winstead!" How could she leave him, to whom she was so dear, who was so dear to her? Sam hadn't counted on that! He had counted rather on Sally Rutherford's dislike of Henry Winstead.

But Sally Winstead knew Henry now. Gradually that shy, quiet, kindly man had taken grandpapa's place. She was no longer alone, no longer disliked and friendless. She had a father who was profoundly interested in all that concerned her, who was tenderness itself. With what affection he called her "daughter"! What step could she take, what could she do, that would not hurt him? If she left Winsteads, if she proceeded against Sam as he then expected her to do—it would break Henry's heart.

Lowndes Jennings still ran his brokerage business in the city, where he and his young wife now resided. Mrs. Reinert had taken up her quarters in a hotel there, and she and her daughter entertained lavishly. Sally and Lowndes had once or twice attended their receptions, and once, Mr. Reinert had come down suddenly, Sally and her father-in-law had been his dinner guests. The Jennings were not present that night, greatly to her relief. They had been quite lively, for him, and Mrs. Reinert had chattered to her heart's content. Mr. Reinert had talked roses with Sally, while his wife brought her guns to bear upon Henry.

"I really like Reinert," Henry said afterward. "But that woman's chatter gives me a headache, and they want us for a large party soon, she told me. Daughter, I don't believe I can stand it!"

"I'll send regrets, then, father," she said.

But Lowndes, who had hoped to see Sally one of the guests, was bitterly disappointed. He dared not show his disappointment, but he was consumed with eagerness to see her. He could not accept her word that she no longer cared for him. Once he had had to appear in a most unlovely light to her. It rankled—but fate had been too strong for him, he couldn't help himself. It was that he had been the prime cause of her marriage to Winstead and that thought ate into his mind like corroding acid. She felt that she must be true to Winstead, but it was not possible that she could love Winstead. Only he possessed her heart was still irrevocably his, that she still loved him even as he loved her! Somehow, after that, things must come right. Anyhow, they would know that they loved each other!

Desire Church Pews.

We have a small mission church which needs pews badly. Our congregation is growing, but lack of employment prevents spending money for equipment for our building. If there is another church which has some pews to discard we should be grateful to get them. MRS. A. B."

More prosperous churches may be able to come to the rescue of this struggling congregation with the pews which are so greatly needed. If your church is investing in new ones I know of no better way to dispose of the old ones.

Croquet Golf Tourney May Be Abandoned

BY THALIA

It looks very much as though there might not be any annual croquet golf tournament in the Berkshires this summer. For several Augusts the Kimball Salisburys have invited a group of the more avid croquet golfers to Pittsfield for a house party and several concentrated sessions of the game, but the prospects for this year's tourney are not so good. The Darrow Fultons, who will be in Saratoga for the races, and Dr. O. E. Van Alyea are going to visit the Salisburys this week, but the Charles Wimans are in California, Farley Hopkins is in Arizona, the Val Bartletts aren't able to go, and so it is with most of the crowd that usually make up the party.

"Kim" Salisbury, you know, is called the "father of croquet golf," because it was his invention to play golf with croquet mallets, and he invaigled some of the other Saddle and Cyclers to get interested in the game.

It's well known in the Berkshire district because the annual tournament—played on two successive days, one in Pittsfield and the next in Lenox—always attracts a lot of attention, but the game is not generally known or played. In spite of its being his game, Mr. Salisbury hadn't ever won any of the tournaments until a couple of months ago when some of the players were guests of the Wimans down at Moline. Darrow Fulton usually beats.

Frances Richardson Makes Plans for Her Wedding Aug. 29.

With 'most everybody scattered all over the map, it's pretty hard to make definite plans in summertime for a wedding, but Miss Frances Richardson, daughter of the Ralph R. Richardsons, who is to be married to Mick Crawford Aug. 29 at the Trinity church in Wheaton, has got the wedding party all lined up. The program of prenuptial parties is rapidly being arranged. Miss Richardson's sister, Mrs. Frederick Spencer, will of course, be her matron of honor, and the bridesmaids include Mrs. Press Hodgkins, Mrs. Louis Sudler, Mrs. Niblack Thorne, Miss Sally Ross of Madison, N. J., and Miss Harriet Crawford, sister of the groom-to-be. John Lewis Cochran is to be Mr. Crawford's best man, and the ushers will be William S. Covington, Carl Stibolt, Wheeler McDougall, Henry Faurot Jr., Stephenson Jennings, Paul Boston, Murray Peabody Brush Jr., Robert M. Curtis, Frederick Spencer, and John Richardson. Miss Richardson wanted Mrs. Templeton Brown [Jessie Hosmer] and Miss Louise Brewer to be in the wedding party too, but it's probable that they won't be able to get here. Mrs. Hodgkins and Mrs. Sudler are to give a dinner party in Lake Forest the Saturday before the wedding, and Mrs. Thomas Miller is to give a Sunday luncheon in Wheaton the following day. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson are to give the bridal dinner at the Chicago Golf club on the eve of the wedding. The reception following the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock will be at the Richardsons' Twin Oaks farms. After a wedding trip to the Canadian Rockies, Mr. Crawford and his bride are to reside at 1566 North Dearborn parkway.

The Charles W. McNears have the most attractive new Hawaiian hors d'oeuvre room out at their summer place at Exmoor. It's a cozy place just off the garage, reached by a flagged path from the house. Mrs. McNear got most of its adornments when she was in Honolulu in the spring, and as she thinks up new ideas, she can write to her daughter, Mrs. Warren Towle, to fill any commissions to complete the Hawaiian atmosphere. Bright orange painted walls and real Hawaiian tapa cloth, which is sort of crinkly batik fibre material, are gay and artistic, and the high square windows are curtained with grass hula skirts with orange tiebacks. Small tables are set under artificial palms, and there are Aloha Oe posters on the walls. The light fixtures are to be scooped-out cocoanuts. Mr. McNear, who has been ill ever since they got home in June as a result of being tipped out of an outrigger, is at home after a long stay in the hospital and is getting better right along.

Chloe Watson's Debut Set for Sept. 11 in Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson will introduce their daughter, Miss Chloe Watson, to their friends at a garden tea on Sept. 11 at their residence in Winnetka. The debutante is a graduate of Miss Hall's school.

Mrs. John Buckingham is back in her Winnetka house after three months' travel in Europe. Her son-in-law and daughter, the Parker Blairs, are with her for a few days before Mrs. Blair goes to the north woods to join her children. The Blairs have rented their house on Blackthorn road in Winnetka for 6 weeks.

The marriage of Miss Rosemary Harden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walker Harden of New York, formerly of Chicago, to Albert Parker, son of Charles Cullem Parker of Los Angeles, Cal., is to take place today at the Wilderness at Scarborough-on-Hudson, the Hardens' summer place. After a wedding trip to Europe, Mr. Parker and his bride are to reside in Pasadena.

Personals—Mrs. William E. Casselberry gets back this week from a visit with the Joseph E. Otises at Bar Harbor. . . . The Edwin C. Welches are having a greenhouse built, and the Benjamin Bryans are having a swimming pool put in. . . . Miss Mary Nixon of Florence, Italy, who has been visiting the Charles Pillsburys at Lake Minnetonka, Minn., has returned to Lake Geneva to be with the Martin Ryersons for the remainder of the month. . . . The George M. Silverthornes Jr. were sojourners recently at the Wequetonsing hotel at "Weekwee." . . . Mr. and Mrs. William L. Underwood of Highland Park have returned from a stay in Estes Park, Colo.

Play Is Essential to Child's Growth and Development

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Summer for the children seems like a succession of glorious play days to us grownups who look on. Play days—carefree, irresponsible days, full of joy of living. Idle days they seem, too, to many a hard working grown person.

Now there are several ways in which you can look at play.

You can think of it as pure fun—sheer happiness which all children are entitled to. Play when you're young—work when you're an adult, may be your idea of the way things should go.

Or you can think of play as a useless occupation which may be sandwiched in as a rest from more important things—from homework, from duties, from a day closely scheduled with cultural study.

Or you can think of it as a need of childhood—a need as great as food and drink and sleep. You can think of it as an enrichment of a child's early life. If you think in this last way you are thinking of play as it really is.

Play is part of a child's growth. It is essential to a child's development—to his all around development, which as we know is many sided. Play is necessary to his muscular development, to the development of his senses, to his mental development, to his social development, to his character development.

Does this seem like a large order to charge up against a light sounding thing like play? It really isn't. And if you look into it you'll see that it isn't.

You'll realize how closely play is tied up with childhood if for a moment you imagine children without play.

Long ago in Holland we used to walk every day through a little town near the Zuyder Zee. The little girls clad in long full black dresses with funny little old-ladyish looking black straw hats were always standing around knitting. Never did we see them playing.

Brief reading on the nature of play and practical suggestions on play material will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelop.

Food Talk.

Did you know that a useful little tuber residing in your cellar, the potato, has a pedigree? Though, unlike the records of some of our ancestors, the lineage of the potato does not date from the arrival of the Pilgrim fathers on the good Mayflower. When America was discovered by Columbus, the potato plant was being grown in all the temperate parts of this continent. The cultivation extended from New Granada to Chile, with the exception of Mexico, where they were unknown.

Approximately one hundred years later potato tubers were brought from North Carolina and Virginia to the British Isles by the colonists of Sir Walter Raleigh returning to Ireland. There, on Sir Walter's estate near Cork, potatoes were, for the first time, extensively cultivated. Quite a reversal in the order of pedigrees, isn't it?

Several years ago, so a famous descendant of the de Medici nobility tells me, potatoes as a table food in Italy were not recognized. The Italians looked upon this vegetable as something with which to fatten their pigs. At the present time, however, potatoes are more welcome, and appear frequently on the daily menus.

I'm afraid many of us are in the habit of taking this tubular vegetable too much for granted. It is so easy to scrub and peel a few potatoes, dump them into boiling water and consider that item of the forthcoming meal properly looked after. It is a pity, for no other vegetable so lends itself to a variety of attractive preparations.

Escalloped potatoes correctly made are especially nice served with meats, such as chops and steaks—in other words, meats which demand no heavy gravy. They are best baked in a casserole, and should arrive on the table with a crisp top butter crust. Start them in a strictly cold oven and bake slowly. If you are able to give them a time allowance of an hour and a half you will be rewarded by mealy, firm, and moist potatoes with an inviting brown butter top. Never stir them, for stirring makes a messy dish of potatoes. And, if you want to prevent a scorched tongue at dinner time, remove the casserole from your oven five or ten minutes before serving.

An excellent thing to remember about escalloped potatoes is the fact that they are a foundation for a tasty luncheon dish of left-overs. The last chop or two sitting on the platter in the ice box may be added to the remaining potatoes, with a little milk, and warmed slowly in the oven. Shred the chop, but don't mix it too vigorously with the potatoes. The latter can be warmed, also, without the meat, but with milk and a cooked vegetable or two that you may have on hand. Season with your best chef-like touch, and you know how good that is!

ESCALLOPED POTATOES.

7 medium sized potatoes
3 tbsp. flour [generous]
3 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. salt
2 cups milk
Pepper to taste

Peel the raw potatoes and slice in one-eighth inch slices. Place these in layers in a casserole or baking dish. Sprinkle each layer evenly with flour, salt, and shredded butter. On the top layer omit the flour, covering only with butter. Cover all the potatoes well with the milk. Season with pepper. Bake slowly for an hour.

Yield: Six servings.

Racing Turtles Raise Cash for Free Ice Fund

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Not all the race crowds go to Hawthorne or Arlington or Lincoln Fields. Some of them, the other day, found quite thrilling the races at McHenry, where three turtles competed for charity.

The charity was THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. The turtles were owned and trained by Billy and Bobby Chapman and Edward Jr. and Russell Neff of Chicago, members of a group of boys and girls known as the Beta Gamma Juniors.

There was a real race track and soft drinks for sale and when the race enthusiasts had departed the management found that $5 had been collected for the ice fund. And in the words of the quartet of trainers, "we had a swell time doing it."

The turtle race wasn't the only gay event of the last week. Out in Wilmette a carnival held sway over the neighborhood of 214 Fourteenth street. The visitors got their money's worth and the free ice fund got the proceeds of $1.35. The carnival was given by Virginia McCollum, Marcia Berndt and Gene Ann Edwards.

While children were coming to the front with benefits in behalf of the poor, folks down in the congested districts were suffering from the heat, longing for relief from the prolonged period of humid weather. Many of them thought they would be quite content if the ice man could stop at their door and leave a nice chunk of ice, so that the baby wouldn't cry so much.

One of the contributors realizing this sent $1 with the message: "The enclosed might help a little. I am a widow alone in the world and I wish I might do more for the many babies who must suffer for the need of ice. God bless you in the good service you are doing for the needy."

An extremely hot summer, hotter than in several years, old timers say, will mean like as not that it will be October before cool weather will be in sight. A hot September will mean a drain on the free ice fund. The fund, now scarcely more than $2,200, cannot begin to take care of the bill. Can you help, reader, ever so little?

CUBS WIN, 1-0; BUSH HOLDS CARDS TO ONE HIT

COFFMAN STOPS HOSE WITH ONE HIT IN SECOND

It's Tough Luck for Bob Weiland.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mighty handsome baseball entertainment was furnished to 22,000 spectators at Comiskey Park yesterday, the occasion being a double header between the White Sox and the St. Louis Browns. The fruits of the day were split, the Sox winning the first contest, 4 to 2, behind Pat Caraway, and the Browns taking the second, 1 to 0, mostly because Dick Coffman, winner of only two games this season before yesterday, pitched a one hit masterpiece.

DICK COFFMAN.

Although the day's proceedings will not be swept by the Sox, the two games brought great cheer to the south side partisans, for Caraway really was himself for the first time in months in that first game. Ugly in the second game Bob Weiland, just returned from much work in Buffalo, revealed that he is a greatly improved performer and could be able to relieve the distress that has existed in the Sox pitching department during recent weeks. He struck out seven batsmen and issued only one as his greatest display of improved skill. It was his misfortune, of course, that he should lose Coffman on the greatest day of Dick's career.

Only Five Hits Off Caraway.

Caraway's conduct in the first game was almost as inspired as Coffman's in the second. Pat didn't walk or hit a batsman and of the five hits he allowed, only two were outfield safeties, one of the two coming with two out in the ninth. No earned runs were made off Caraway, the pair the Browns got being due to Johnny Kerr's muff of a double play ball with two out in the fourth.

Weiland was touched for nine hits, but he was there with a strikeout whenever the going got tough—except on the one occasion when the Browns made the only run of the game. In the sixth Schulte beat out a hit to deep short and moved to second on Melillo's sacrifice. Goose Goslin failed to relieve the strain momentarily, but Kress drove Schulte home with the tucker.

Kerr Gets Only Hit.

The lone hit off Coffman was touched by Kerr with two out in the fifth. It was a single that Coffman might have knocked down with a little luck.

The Sox will enjoy a day off today in preparation for the arrival of the Washington Senators tomorrow.

The Sox didn't lose much time in getting production under way. They made two runs in the first inning after starting as if they planned to make a million. Blue launched things with a single and then Sullivan walked. Reynolds singled to left, scoring Blue and putting Sullivan on third. Fonseca singled to left center, scoring Sullivan and putting Reynolds on third, but Lew was sunk at second trying to stretch his knock to a double. Fothergill grounded to Levey and Reynolds was run down between third and home. Round Robby reached first on second. Levey made one of his perfect throws from the left field corner to get Kerr.

In the second the Sox put over what proved to be the winning run. Cissell singled to center and went to third on Grube's single to the same spot. Caraway fanned; then Blue flied to Melillo. Cissell scored, but Ferrell was out in time to double Grube going into second.

In the fourth the Browns got their only unearned runs. Goslin beat out a bunt with one down and Kress

No question about this. Goose Goslin of the Browns crosses first base after his bunt in the fourth inning of the first game. Lu Blue is reaching for the throw. Note the ball in the air. Goslin went on to second when Kerr fumbled Sullivan's throw on Kress' grounder and scored with Kress on Ferrell's double for the Browns' only runs of the game.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Donie Bush's worries about White Sox pitchers are as good as over. That is, if he cares to follow the suggestion of Paul Katzmark. Mr. Katzmark, who read the remarks of J. L. S. concerning the situation at Comiskey park in this column last Friday, submits the following:

"No one can deny that Frasier, Thomas, Caraway, and Faber have more variety of stuff than any pitching staff in the major leagues. If I were Bush, I would pitch Thomas, Frasier, and Caraway three innings each the first day. On the second day give Caraway a rest and start Faber, followed by Thomas and Frasier. On the third day start Caraway, followed by Faber and Thomas, give Frasier a rest, and so on.

"In this manner there would be coupled Thomas's speed, Frasier's back breaking drop, Caraway's left handed throws, and Faber's spit ball, all molded into one pitcher. Of course, one of these would be missing on the day when he was taking a rest, but what more could you want? Another thing, Jolley could be used as a relief hurler for an inning or so until it was the next fellow's turn to pitch.

"I wish to say, however, that I never managed a ball club nor raxxed a manager by second guessing. No doubt Bush is doing the best he can, but here is a suggestion he is free to use, and who can tell but what it would enable the club to finish in the first division, where it would get a split of the world series money."

While Ladies' day attendance at Wrigley field may serve to refute the statement, all Chicago's women baseball fans are not pulling for the Cubs. A Sox fannette, who signs herself "Sharkey," has this to say:

"If you want to get a line on the real worth of the Sox, look up the standing of the club in May when they had Jolley, McKain, Lyons, and Appling in the lineup. You will find they were in second place. If they keep Donie Bush as manager in 1932 they will finish in the first division.

"As for the Cubs—phooey. Everyone is razzing Wilson now and he has been benched half of the time. That's Cub sportsmanship for you. Now with the Sox Reynolds also is in a slump but you don't see Donie benching him or the fans razzing him for that. Sox fans are loyal."

And this from M. F. M.:

"I can't say like J. L. S. that my memory goes back to the organization of the American league, but as long as I can recall I always have heard Sox fans say that if the office would keep the books and let the manager run the personnel of the club, the Sox would be a better team. When Bush was signed as manager there was fair indication that this was going to happen, but the case of shipping Lyons back to the team in Detroit last week would indicate that the old urge of the bookkeeper to run the team has returned.

"The White Sox had, in my opinion, more players laying down on the job than any club in the league. Then a trade is made like the one of Falk for a third string catcher. Falk plays a great game for Cleveland and the third string catcher goes the way of all of his kind—back to the minors.

"This holds true for a number of other Sox players who were traded and it hardly can be blamed on the managers as the Sox have had so many that even though four out of five haven't been able to get along, there have been enough "fifth" ones.

"So I suppose in line with the policy of the club Bush will go and if Lyons does not convince himself his arm is O. K. he will be traded for a broken bat."

Peter J. Spohn of Ohio, Ill., who says he has been a Sox fan since the world series of 1906, sizes up the south side situation like this:

"The old Hitless Wonders somehow struck my boyish imagination years ago and I have been a Sox fan ever since. In fact, I lose $2 nearly every year betting that the club will finish fifth or better.

"Honest, Arch, I would rather see the Sox lose than see the Cubs win.

DEMPSEY PUNCH GAINS HIM TITLE IN RECORD TIME

Willard Battle Decided in First Fifty Seconds.

(This is the last of a series of articles in which Mr. Woodruff has reviewed the outstanding sports events of the century.)

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Although lasting three rounds officially, the Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard bout at Toledo on July 4, 1919, was really decided more quickly than any other title contest in heavyweight history. Just fifty seconds after the opening gong, the Manassa Mauler hooked a left to his taller and heavier opponent's chin and the fight was over so far as Willard was concerned.

That hook, landed from a radius of not more than eight inches but delivered with the power of Dempsey's remarkable forearms, spilled the Kansan on the canvas and rendered futile Willard's attack, if he had an attack. Six times in that opening session Willard was upset for a flight to the floor.

At the end of the period Jess was seated in a neutral corner with a hand on the ropes, unable to rise but wearing the sickly, sheepish grin so often seen on faces of confused and helpless boxers. Those who attended the second Tunney-Dempsey affair at Soldiers' field probably recall a similar expression on Tunney's face while he was collecting his senses during the "long count."

Dempsey Leaves Ring.

In the confusion, Dempsey and most of those present thought the battle had ended in a knockout and Jack and his seconds left the ring but were hastily recalled when Timekeeper Warren Barbour announced the round had ended while Willard was still on the floor but before Referee Ollie Pecord's count of ten.

Several news associations with staff representatives at the ringside sent out flashes "Dempsey wins in first." Newspaper offices throughout the country had presses waiting and extras ready for the "flash," papers to be rushed by wagons and trucks to all parts of their respective cities. Several had extras on the streets before the correction came.

Ray Pearson and I were among those covering for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Because we were writing the news features, we were seated next to our telegrapher with a direct wire into the Chicago office. With the experience born of many odd fight situations, we chose to await official announcement, involving only a few seconds delay. Over the direct wire came the frenzied message from Chicago, "Dempsey wins. What's the matter? Why don't you confirm?" By that time we were able to flash "Fight not over," and then explain the circumstances.

It Was Over for Willard.

But as stated, the fight was over for Willard. He struggled through the second round, and at one time it almost looked as if Dempsey was tiring himself in making a punching bag of his bulkier rival. Toward the end of the second round, the eager Dempsey slowed just a little, perhaps to rest from the fast pace.

In the third period, however, it was just too bad for Jess. He took terrific punishment and was a sad looking object at the close with his face puffed, one eye practically closed by bruises and the other swelling rapidly. Just before the bell for the fourth round a towel sailed into the center of the ring from Willard's corner, indicating that the helpless Kansan would take no more pommeling. Dempsey was champion.

On this issue as well as on the first round, there was subsequent questioning of the timing, but, of course, the official decision prevailed, and so far as I could see there was no reason to doubt it. These questions, you see, involved awards of many pools which had been made on the number of rounds the bout would last. It was two days before the

Lincoln Park Oarsmen 2d in Detroit Meet

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Picking up points in a late rush, crews of the Detroit Boat club captured first honors in the central states regatta here today with 165 points. Brilliant work by a school boy eight from the Lincoln Park Boat club, Chicago, pulled that squad into second place with 76 points, one ahead of the South Side Boat club, Quincy, Ill.

Detroit failed to win a first until 13 of the 19 events of the two day program were completed. It won all the remaining events except a singles which went to Bobby Pearce of the Leander Rowing club, Hamilton, Ont.

Chicago Boys Nosed Out.

The bitterest fight of the day and the only protest came in the 13th event, an intermediate eight oared battle which did not score points. The school boy team from Lincoln Park led to the last quarter, rowing a long steady stroke of exceptional power. Detroit's intermediate crew challenged 100 yards from the finish and lifted its boat across the finish line a length ahead of the Chicagoans. Lincoln's protest was that they were not ready when the gun was fired, but it was not allowed.

The Lincoln Park crew then decided to enter the senior eight and the Detroit juniors did likewise. Detroit's No. 1 crew was the class of this field, but Lincoln Park and the Detroit No. 2 team put up a great battle for second place. Detroit No. 2 again made its challenge at the finish, but it lacked a few feet of being good, the youngsters from Chicago getting the judges' nod for second place.

Lincoln Park Juniors Win.

Lincoln Park won the junior event with 55 points. Detroit picked up 105 points in the senior events today to win by a large margin. Pearce made a show of his field in the single sculls, leading by four lengths, pulled up.

Quincy gained most of its points in barge events and won the junior four oared event yesterday.

MICHIGAN GAME INJURY FATAL TO OHIO STATE BACK

Cleveland, O., Aug. 9.—(AP)—David E. Chizek, 20, varsity quarter back of the Ohio State football team, died at his home here today of injuries received in a football game last fall.

Chizek, conceded to be one of the greatest athletes ever developed in Cleveland, apparently was on the road to recovery until last Saturday, when he returned to his bed. Physicians said his death was due to tubercular meningitis.

Chizek was injured in the Ohio State-Michigan game last November. A bruise on his back became infected and for five months he was confined to his bed in University hospital, Columbus. He was brought to hospitals here for treatment and two months ago he was convalescing and apparently recovering.

U. S. SWIM TEAM BREAKS OLYMPIC MARK AT TOKIO

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The American relay team lowered the Olympic record for the 800 meter swim by 19 seconds tonight in the closing event of the three day Japanese national swimming championships.

The American team, composed of John Howland, Manuella and Maiola Kalili and James Gilhula, negotiated the distance in 9 minutes 17 seconds. The Olympic record, set at Amsterdam in 1928, is 9:36 1-5.

Japan won the meet with 40 points. The United States team scored 22.

BLANCHARD, RACE OFFICIAL, DIES OF A HEART ATTACK

Arthur Blanchard, 38 years old, paddock judge at Chicago district horse race tracks for the last seven years, died suddenly of a heart attack in his apartment at 1250 Stone street yesterday morning.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Blanchard. The funeral will be held tomorrow at New Orleans.

BARTON CROWDS HERO BENCH BY HITTING HOMER

Fluke Single Spoils No Hit Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mon., Aug. 9.—One doubtful hit off the pitching of Guy Bush and a home run by Vin Barton. That's the complete story of a 1 to 0 victory the Cubs scored over the champion Cardinals today before 25,000, who were booing Bush at the start but cheering him lustily toward the finish when the home town batters were falling with monotonous regularity before his assorted offerings.

GUY BUSH.

The hit that kept Bush from the mythical hall of fame never will be a hit in his own ledger or those of his mates. It was an ordinary bounder to short by Watkins in the first inning. English came in to get it, but it dropped from his hands. Buan promptly picked the man off base and then went on about his business, thinking all the time that his record was clean. You could tell by the cautious way in which he worked that he was reaching for something he thought would be there at the finish. It wasn't.

Scorer Irks Cubs.

When the last Cardinal pop-up had been recorded, Bush's mates swarmed around him to offer congratulations. The hilarity was at its height when somebody passed out the word that Watkins' first inning grounder hadn't been deemed an error by the scorer. The Cubs immediately forgot their celebration. They turned as one toward the press box, plowed their noses and with their free hands made motions indicating that they thought official scorers should be put in the same class with umpires. Even the spectators booed when they learned that they hadn't witnessed a hitless achievement.

As for Bush's performance, whether it was really hitless or not hitless, it at least proved the Mississippi gentleman is a man of his word. This morning he publicly declared to his mates that he had more determination than all of them put together and that he, if called on in the afternoon, would "give those Cardinals the whipping of their lives." How well he kept his word is attested by the fact that if he himself hadn't had a fielding brainstorm in the second inning not a Cardinal would have reached second base. He walked three, but they didn't go any place.

Seven Cards Get on Base.

All told, seven Cardinals survived long enough to become base runners. Watkins was the first. Bush's two errors and a pass in the second put three of them in this select class. Hafey walked in the fourth to die stealing and Gelbert walked in the fifth to be mopped up in a double play. In the four innings after this, it was just a case of one-two-three, barring the seventh when, with two out, Bell made a low throw to Grimm on Martin's bounder. The next batter popped out and it wasn't long after this before Bush had safely recorded his eleventh victory of the season.

The Cubs themselves were no demons with their bats. The total of their attack was four hits. Three of these were off Paul Derringer, the sensational rookie who owns 13 victories and who would have dearly loved to have grabbed No. 14 today to reward West Frankfort and Benton, Ill., delegations which came over to present him with a portable radio and a set of highly polished golf clubs. Derringer didn't finish because a pinch hitter was used in the eighth on the chance that a new face might break down Bush's consistency. Johnson finished and the fourth hit was off his delivery.

Bush off to Pittsburgh.

The Cubs hurried away from here at 6 o'clock so as to be on time for

WISCONSIN'S FOX RIVER A THROUGH ROUTE FOR CANOE

Has Locks Where Illinois Stream Has Dams.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, Wis., Aug. 9.—Winding and twisting its way through many miles of marshes, this historic old Wisconsin water highway, the Fox river, has many a story to tell the canoeist or outboard motor boat fan who is out to mix water travel with Indian and pioneer history.

There is an abundance of both up here. Taking its name from the Fox Indians who once dominated this important route from the great lakes to the Mississippi, the Fox also has a story to tell about Uncle Sam, because the government has spent several fortunes in dredging and doctoring this stream upon the assumption that it was going to be an important artery for water travel in the middle west.

As early as 1875 locks were installed and the river bed straightened and dredged and since then many a dollar has been poured into this water route, although for years there has been no use of the stream by freight and passenger boats. Decadent, almost deserted by all kinds of boats except a few pleasure craft, some of its locks badly in need of repair, this upper Fox is a costly relic of pioneer days when rivers were the main routes of travel up here.

Lock Tenders Still on Duty.

Although some of the old timers on the stream state that there hasn't been a big boat on the Fox above the White river lock for more than 20 years, the government still maintains the illusion that this is a navigable stream and lock tenders in the pay of Uncle Sam are on duty, waiting for the big boats that never come and can't come until more dredging is done.

Only small pleasure craft can get by the sand bars in the stream which we traveled over this morning. After spending thousands of dollars year after year keeping this faded old water route dredged out, Uncle Sam apparently has stopped putting his money into this project.

So today this lonesome old river, which is trying hard to justify its former high ranking position in American history, is a sort of paradox. It is classed as a navigable stream, but it isn't in this section. Not for large commercial craft. Residents along the Fox river of Illinois may well cast longing eyes toward the equipment on this river which, if on the Illinois stream, would be of benefit to thousands of recreationists. The Illinois Fox has no locks to speed the water traveler on his way and help him around dams.

Trip Begins Near Portage.

In looking over the Fox, we started in yesterday down near its source which is not far from the town of Portage. Just outside of Portage, we saw the canal dug by the government to link the Wisconsin and the Fox river. Even as early as 1887 a canoeist passing through the canal recorded how battered and worn out this channel was, and he indicated that water navigation on the Fox was over. Railroads then were taking the freight from this water route upon which the government had spent big sums.

Now the canoeist fisherman, outboard motorist or small power boat owner has this revamped but lonesome river all to himself. This morning when we were on the water between Princeton and Berlin, a distance of about 18 miles, we didn't see a single boat.

For the canoeist or outboard motor boat enthusiasts who want to put in near Portage and travel down this historic waterway to Lake Winnebago we offer this tip. Unlike the Fox river of Illinois, where on our trip a few days ago we found a river used by thousands of recreationists, but blocked by 13 dams in a course of about 107 miles, this Fox river up here has locks and keepers galore. There are eight between the canal at Portage and Butte Des Morts, a distance of around 95 miles.

No Charge at Locks.

The lock tenders will put you through their locks without charge, so it's a soft life, this cruising here, when compared to the Illinois Fox. But don't forget to bring along some kind of a noisy horn, squawker or bugle to arouse the lock tenders. When you get about a half mile from them, blow hard. Life is so quiet, so undisturbed by boats on this stream that the keepers are apt to be some distance from the river and occupied with other work.

But as you wait, you may listen hard and hear the ghosts of the early fur traders and explorers such as Marquette, Joliet and Allouez go past you and from the distance may come the echoes of Indian drums of tribes long since passed from this lonely river.

JONES AND GOFF MEET TODAY FOR U. S. NET TITLE

Dr. M. Goff of West Virginia will meet Wilfred Jones of Boston this afternoon in the final match for the United States open tennis singles championship at Washington park. Dr. Goff entered the finals by defeating Wilbur Clark in the semi-finals yesterday, while Jones won from Douglas Turner, University of Illinois, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, 9-11, 6-3.

Douglas, paired with Richard Hudlin, defeated Wilfred Jones and Perfecto, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, for the men's doubles championship. Mrs. Dorothy Ewell, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Agnes Lawson, Chicago, in the women's singles final, 6-3, 6-4. The women's doubles crown was won by Mrs. Lawson and Miss Lulu Porter, who defeated Mrs. Ewell and Mrs. C. O. Seames, 7-5, 8-6.

East St. Louis Pair to Play for Herrin Tennis Title

Herrin, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Mac Smith, East St. Louis, reached the finals of the Southern Illinois tennis tourney here today when he defeated his doubles partner, Leslie Wilbanks, also of East St. Louis, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Pete Shukest, East St. Louis, became the other finalist by beating Walter Hobermehl, Herrin, 6-0, 6-1.

SMITTY—EVERYTHING UNDER CONTROL

Puzzle: Pick Best Eastern 2 Year Old

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The 2 year old situation still is as much of a mystery as it was the day the eastern racing season opened last spring. The victory of Morfair in the United States hotel stakes yesterday makes the selection of an outstanding 2 year old more distant than ever.

Ten of the stake winners which have won one day and lost the next when given the worst of the weights or tried over a different distance are Osculator, Universe, Fall Apple, Portam, Espinaca, Pair by Pair, Makalu, Economic, Irene's Bob, and Morfair. Each has many admirers and each is a good juvenile, but none stands out.

Five Supposed Stars.

The racing since Thursday also has seen in action five 2 year olds which were supposed to be of championship caliber. They are Semaphore, The Bull, Jack B., Sweeping Light, and Larranaga. Of these five, only Sweeping Light and Larranaga were winners and the latter was forced to the limit to beat a colt like Mexico.

Much is expected of such as Senado, Byzantine, Black Jacket, Boatswain, Robinson Crusoe, Cito, Mad Frump, and Brocado, but these have to prove by performance what their owners and trainers think of them.

We'll Know More Saturday.

Byzantine, Cito, Boatswain and Robinson Crusoe have yet to be seen under silks, but next Saturday there will be a better line on the juvenile situation, as the Saratoga special is down for decision.

Between now and Saturday the following stakes will be renewed: The Seneca claiming stakes; the Saratoga sales stakes; the Saranac handicap; the Schuylerville, and the Alabama.

N. B. A. VOTES ON MILWAUKEE PLAN FOR RING MEET

Member commissions of the National Boxing association have been asked to vote on a proposal to hold a middleweight elimination tournament at Milwaukee under the direction of the Wisconsin State Athletic association.

Ralph A. Wettstein, chairman of the Wisconsin commission, has requested approval of such a tournament to locate a successor to Mickey Walker, and Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., has asked for a vote.

Thomas E. Donohue, chairman of the championship committee of the N. B. A., has compiled a list of 20 leading middleweights, who have been invited to participate in the elimination. They are Ignacio Ara, Spain; Dave Shade, California; Harry Smith, New York; Roy Williams, Chicago; Ben Jeby, New York; Vince Dundee, Baltimore; Marcel Thil, France; Pete Suskey, Scranton, Pa.; Ham Jenkins, Colorado; Gorilla Jones, Akron, O.; Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man.; Chick Devlin, California; Jack McVey, New York; Young Terry, New Jersey; Tait Littman, Cudahy, Wis.; Len Harvey, Great Britain; Tiger Thomas, Leiperville, Pa.; Clyde Chastain, Texas; Tommy Freeman, Cleveland, and Frankie O'Brien, New York.

EVANS, M'DONALD WIN BEST BALL EXHIBITION, 1 UP

Chick Evans and Bob McDonald defeated Frank Walsh and Al Bluhm, 1 up, in an exhibition best ball foursome match at Big Oaks yesterday. Evans and McDonald had a lead of one hole at the turn, but on the 11th Bluhm ran in a long putt to win the hole and square the match and on the 16th Walsh sunk a birdie to go 1 up.

All were on the short 17th off the tee, but Evans, 20 feet away, and McDonald, 18 feet away, both sank their putts for birdies and again squared the match. At the 18th Bluhm and McDonald got into traps, while Evans and Walsh were on in 2. Evans got down in 2, but Walsh needed 3 and so did Bluhm.

The best ball card:

Evans and MacDonald—
Out	354	344	435	—35
Walsh and Bluhm—
Out	454	443	435	—36
Evans and MacDonald—
In	444	445	534	—36—71
Walsh and Bluhm—In	434	454	435	—36—72

Big Oaks has a par of 35—37—72 and only Evans shot par. He had 36—36—72. Walsh scored 36—37—73; MacDonald, 35—39—74, and Bluhm, playing his home course, had 38—40—78.

ONWENTSIA FOUR WINS, 12-7, OVER FORT SHERIDAN

Perry, British Net Star, Wins First Match at Rye

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Frederick J. Perry, British star, opened his American tennis invasion with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Arthur C. Gwynne Jr. of New York in the second round of the eastern turf court championships here today.

The women's singles lost its outstanding competitor when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of San Francisco defaulted.

Heat Blamed for Favorites' Failure to Win

BY FRENCH LANE.

Dr. J. M. Kaiser, the Hawthorne paddock veterinarian, has a new explanation for the defeat of 35 favorites in the 45 races run during the first week of Hawthorne's summer season.

He blames the weather.

"Intense heat with the humidity that prevailed at Hawthorne throughout the first six days of racing had a more disastrous effect on the horses that were running than it did on the spectators who were trying to pick the winners," Dr. Kaiser said yesterday.

"Three times during the week I had occasion to visit the track at around midnight. The horses were not sleeping nor were they resting. They were perspiring and trying to keep as cool as possible. It was the same on any race course in the world where similar humid climatic conditions prevailed.

Go for Night Airing.

"Many trainers suffering from the heat along with their horses led their charges out of their stalls at all hours of the night in an effort to make them more comfortable. At 1 o'clock one morning more than 200 horses were being led up and down the paths along the back stretch, where they were getting some relief from the hot weather.

"The good horses as well as the bad ones were affected by the unusual hot spell. No doubt Sun Beau didn't get his proper rest before his important engagement in the Hawthorne handicap. Probably a lot of the other horses which were figured to win but didn't came out for their races tired and not in condition to turn in their best efforts.

"Let the weather cool off a little and there will be as many favorites winning at Hawthorne as at any other track in the country," Dr. Kaiser concluded.

The Hawthorne management will stage its most prized stake this week when the Illinois Owners handicap carrying $10,000 in added money will be run on Saturday afternoon. The $5,000 added Fort Dearborn handicap, an event which will engage all the best 3 year olds in the west, also will be run on the same afternoon.

Inaugurated Last Year.

The Illinois Owners handicap was put on the Hawthorne program last year because President John Schank and his associates in the Hawthorne organization believed it would add much local interest to Chicago racing. Nearly every owner in Illinois nominated horses for the handicap.

With Valenciennes from the John Hertz stable and Galahad from the Phil Reuter stable probably unable to fill the engagement, the race will likely draw to the post Burning Up, Chief John, Calf Roper, Knight Commander, My Dandy, Brown Wisdom, Suitor, His Last, Spanish Play, Who Win, Sweet Scent, Karl Eitel, Panchio, Mike Hall, Martie Flynn, Ironsides, Paul Bunyan, Minotaur, High Foot and Dowagiac.

The Berwyn purse at a mile and a sixteenth is the feature at Hawthorne today. It engages Morsel and Ironsides, scratched out of Saturday's Hawthorne handicap, along with Kinscen, a new arrival from Latonia, and Chief John and Who Win, which will be warming up for Saturday's renewal of the Illinois Owners handicap.

TILDEN TO PLAY KOZELUH TWICE HERE THIS WEEK

Bill Tilden and his professional tennis troupe will play on the Northwestern university courts Friday and Saturday. It will be their second Chicago visit within two weeks, having played last at Onwentsia where Karel Kozeluh defeated Tilden.

Big Bill and Kozeluh, who have been competing in a series of matches throughout the country this summer, will meet on both days. Three other professional stars will play. They are Emmet Pare, of Chicago, Robert Sellers, former Pacific coast amateur champion, and Albert Burke, French professional champion.

Burke and Pare will open Friday's program with a singles match which will be followed by the Tilden-Kozeluh match. In the doubles Tilden and Sellers will oppose Kozeluh and Burke. On Saturday Burke and Sellers will play a singles match in addition to the clash between Tilden and Kozeluh. The program will wind up with a double match between Tilden and Pare vs. Kozeluh and Burke.

Santa Paula Beats Eastern Four, 13 to 12

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The Santa Paula four of Buenos Aires served notice on the eastern polo world today that it carries a real threat to our open championship. Riding in its first real test against Thomas Hitchcock Jr. and Earle A. S. Hopping, two internationalists, and Averell Harriman and John Hay Whitney, the South Americans came with a rush to pass the Americans in the last chukker and win, 13 to 12.

In the first three chukkers the American side rolled up a lead of 9 to 1. Then in the fourth chukker the visitors began going. They scored five times and pulled up to a score of 9 to 6 at the intermission.

In the fifth chukker it appeared that the Argentine attack had been stopped, for little Earle Hopping, who played international polo nearly all the way today, started things by turning back a hit-in and then, after Gazotto had scored on a fine run, Hitchcock added another after the bell had rung. This left the score 11 to 7, and, right at the start of the sixth Harriman added another with a beautifully angled poke from close to the posts. But that was all of the American scoring.

And I am not knocking the Cubs either. They are a great team and Chicago is big enough for two good clubs and is going to have them. Donie Bush knows his stuff and is getting together a bunch of real players.

"I believe that with one more good pitcher and a hard hitting second baseman the Sox will stack up with the best. I think every one will agree when I say that with Jolley, Reynolds, Lyons, and Thomas in the lineup all year, the Sox would be in second or third place.

"I have read rumors that Bush will not be manager next year. We fans who have been loyal to the Sox for years when they were at the bottom ask Mr. Comiskey to be loyal to us now. We want Donie Bush for next year."

NEWTON-GAVUZZI TEAM VICTOR IN 500 MILE RUN

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Arthur Newton of South Africa, and Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, England, won the 500 mile run from Montreal to Quebec and return although they finished no better than fifth in the final lap today.

The two veterans won $3,000 first prize money. They piled up a big lead early in the race and coasted to victory.

MALLOY TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT AT WHITE CITY

Battaglia Meets Morse in Windup.

Tonight's Card

Frankie Battaglia vs. Johnny Morse, eight rounds.
Clyde Chastain vs. Al Stillman, eight rounds.
Johnny Burns vs. Gary Leach, eight rounds.
Walter Madey vs. Biff Bennett, 6vo rounds.
Dick Sisk vs. Johnny Rich, 6vo rounds.
Marion Matuszack vs. Billy Gale, 6vo rounds.

Mique Malloy's middleweight tournament for the state championship gets under way tonight at White City with a six bout card.

Frankie Battaglia, crack Italian Canadian middleweight, fights Johnny Morse of Cuba, in the eight round windup. Frankie knocked out Pete La Crosse last Monday. He has knockout victories over Ray Tramble and Joe Sharkey, and has defeated Haakon Hansen and My Sullivan. He has been nominated for the N. B. A.'s world's championship tourney to select a successor to Mickey Walker.

Clyde Chastain, Texas Adonis who recently defeated Jerry Crano, meets Al Stillman of St. Louis, Mo. Chastain, who resembles Gene Tunney, has fought Harry Ebbets, Jackie Fields and other topnotchers. He has lost but three bouts in three years. Stillman, a noted puncher, has whipped King Levinsky and Ted Ross, both of whom he had on the floor several times. They are matched for eight rounds.

Walter Madey, south side heavyweight, and Biff Bennett of Fort Sheridan meet in a five round preliminary. Dick Sisk, the Brighton Park welterweight, tackles Johnny Rich in another five rounder. Sisk has scored 31 consecutive victories. Marion Matuszack, south side Bohemian heavyweight, who knocked out Buck Everett in a punch last week, meets Billy Gale of Logan Square in the five round opener.

BRAVES CAPTURE DOUBLE HEADER FROM PHILLIES

Brandt Wins Opener, 5-4; Sherdel Second, 6-3.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Braves took both ends of a double-header from the Phillies today, 5 to 4 and 6 to 3, Ed Brandt winning his fourteenth of the season in the opener and Willis Sherdel holding the Phils to seven hits in the final.

The visitors acquired an early lead in the first game, but Ray Benge was unable to hold it. Wally Berger hit his fifteenth home run in the sixth with one man on base.

In the second game Sherdel kept the Phillies' seven hits scattered and contributed to his victory by driving in two runs. Score:

MOON MULLINS—A CLOSE SHAVE

Simmons Hits 2 Homers as A's Win, 5 to 3

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Connie Mack fooled the fans by starting young Roy Mahaffey against the Yankees today, but before the battle was over he had to call on Lefty Grove to protect the Athletics' lead and give the champions a 5 to 3 victory. Simmons's two home runs gave the Macks their margin of victory.

The Yanks won the series, however, two games to one, and that came close to pleasing the crowd of 50,000 that gave the last clash the aspect of a little world's series.

In the third inning Simmons clouted a home run with a man on base. He hit another homer in the seventh, completing the downfall of George Pipgras and bringing his total for the season to 19. Score:

FRANK STEEL SCORES 99 IN CASTING TRIAL

Frank Steel of the Lincoln Park Casting club scored 99 points, 1 less than the United States record, to win the wet fly event yesterday in the Illinois Casting club's trial tournament for the national meet, which will open Aug. 21 at Washington park. Howard Chatt was second with 98, and Alex Olson of the Los Angeles, Cal., Casting club third with 97.

Steel, competing in the dry fly unknown distance test, tied with Eddie Davis, a clubmate, both scoring 96 points. Bob Clarkson, Chicago Fly Casting club, and De Garmo, Illinois Casting club, tied for third place with 94.

Benton Piles Up 9 to 3 Score on Royalton Stars

Benton, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The Benton Coca Colas today defeated the Royalton Stars, 9 to 3.

WHEN JACK GAINED HIS CROWN

final official verdict that the knockout would be credited for the third reund instead of the fourth. The question here was whether the towel was tossed before or after the bell for the fourth round. Few knew because either the bell went wrong or was too low toned to hear.

Jack in Perfect Condition.

In looking back at this battle and subsequent bouts, I do not believe Jack Dempsey ever before or afterward was in the perfect physical condition he was that July 4 under the boiling sun at Toledo. He had trained outdoors with plenty of swimming in his early routine. When he entered the ring, he was bronzed like an Indian, a perfect picture with his muscles symmetrical and rounded rather than bulging like those of strong men or weight lifters. Except for his unshaven face and characteristic scowl, he was a pretty sight.

Willard, who entered the arena in a blue bath robe, looked in good condition except a little positive in weight around the mid-section. He smiled good naturedly to the crowd but seemed a bit nervous. His 240 pounds of avoirdupois against Dempsey's 195, his height of 6 feet 6 inches against Dempsey's 6 feet 1½ inches and his reach of 83 inches against Dempsey's 78 gave him all the natural advantages. It looked like a formidable task for the challenger until that first left hook.

Willard "Ring Rusty."

Betting on this affair veered around even money with the west inclined to Manassa Jack and Wall street to Willard on account of Wall street's habit of following a champion. A smart shopper in prices might have hedged. It was expected Dempsey actually would be favorite on the day of the battle but a flow of eastern money appeared at the last so evens generally could be secured.

This speculative attitude—a champion usually is a strong favorite and Willard had so many physical advantages—was largely because Willard had not engaged in other than exhibition bouts for about three years while Dempsey had been active with a formidable list of knockouts, many of them, however, against second raters. It was feared the champion might be what is known as "ring rusty" and he was. According to pugilistic maxim, "ring rustiness" cannot be worn off by sparring partners but must be worn off in actual combat.

Willard Guaranteed $100,000.

There were many interesting incidents in preliminary arrangements for this affair. Tex Rickard, who had a far western reputation for daring ring promotions, was head of the syndicate backing the bout, anxious to make an eastern reputation. He had difficulty in signing Willard, already well fixed. Jess wished to share in the promotional profits. He finally was induced to sign, but before he placed his name on the dotted line, it was necessary to raise his guarantee to $100,000, of which $30,000 was in Liberty bonds. Dempsey, welcoming a crack at the title, accepted an offer of $27,500.

To hold the bout in Toledo without interference also required considerable advance work. Merchants and business men wanted the fight and, as so often happens in such cases, the rest was comparatively easy. The affair was billed for twelve rounds to a decision, with Toledo city charities receiving 7 per cent of the gross receipts after taxes.

Ballyhoo Too Strong.

Originally the promoters hoped to reap a handsome harvest and so did townspeople. I always thought the promoters made a mistake in their advance publicity. The ballyhoo was too strong. Probably to stimulate advance sales of tickets, which were priced from $10 to a top of $60, stories were broadcast of the heavy advance sales. As a result many persons feared they would not secure good locations and stayed away. The mistake was discovered too late.

On the day of the battle there were only 19,650 cash customers with large patches of vacant seats in that vast arena, which required 2,000,000 feet of lumber in construction and cost $150,000 to build. Toledo attendance, in particular, was disappointing, perhaps owing to the high prices. Total receipts were $452,522, from which was deducted $41,789.94 as various amusement taxes. Toledo charities received slightly less than $30,000.

Temperature at Ring 110.

Concessionaires, who had expected to reap a rich harvest fared badly. A peanut vender bought $900 worth of the product and sold $70 worth. Food venders did equally poorly. On account of the heat, soft drinks sold fairly well but the surplus of product destroyed the profits. One chap, who rented a big building in the city for a dormitory and installed cots for the expected throngs, lost $4,100 on that enterprise alone.

I cannot end this story of the battle of Maumee Bay without telling of the heat down in that arena of fresh pine boards. Because it was a long program of bouts preceding the main bout, we went out early to see that our telegraph connections were all right and that our press reservations were as allotted, always a wise precaution at a big prize fight. Fastened to the side of the ring where we sat was a thermometer. It registered 110. The telegrapher assigned to Pearson and me collapsed during the sending of the preliminary bouts and we had to have a relief operator.

It Was Boxing's Big Thrill.

Alternating in sending the preliminaries, we wandered out for brief respites in the shade under the higher seats on the outer edges of the arena. There we moistened handkerchiefs to place under our caps, readjusted our green sun visors, and returned to the ringside.

After the fight was over, we filed our stories direct from the arena to our home office over the special wire to avoid all chance of getting caught in the deluge of press matter at the downtown telegraph office.

I have seen many more, even many better, fights, but I don't think I ever saw one which gave me a greater thrill or a boxer in more perfect condition than was Jack Dempsey that day.

Barton's fifth homer of his brief career as a major leaguer came at the start of the second inning. He banged it onto the roof of the right field pavilion. This was only a part of the disturbance the Cubs kicked up for Derringer at this time. Dan Taylor followed with a pass and Grimm struck out. Hartnett bounced a single into center and Taylor dashed to third. Bell blasted the rally by grounding to Adams for a double play.

Bush worked himself into such a panic stricken state in the home second that both Root and Malone were rushed to the bull pen to prepare themselves for a relief call. The first thing Bush did was to drop a throw from Grimm on Bottomley's grounder. Bush then pegged wild to English, trying to force Bottomley on Hafey's tap. He stopped the uprising in a hurry. Martin flied to Cuyler and Bottomley went to third. Bottomley was caught at the plate on J. Wilson's bounder to Bell. Gelbert walked, and the affair closed with Derringer rolling to English for a forceout.

Derringer Breezes Along.

After the double play in the second, Derringer began to show that he really deserved that radio set and the golf clubs. He hit Cuyler in the ribs to start the fourth and Ki was picked off trying to steal. Then nobody reached base again until the eighth when Grimm led off with a single to center. He went to second on Hartnett's sacrifice bunt and the prospects of another run faded completely when both Bell and Bush succumbed to Derringer's strikeout ball.

Two were out in the ninth before the Cubs attained the distinction of owning four hits. After Blair and English had flied to center, the latter on a rakish liner, Cuyler sent one of Johnson's fooiers through short for a single, but Barton fanned.

grounded to Sullivan, a set up for a double play. But Kerr dropped Sullivan's throw and Goslin was safe at second and Kress on first. Ferrell followed with one of the two clean hits off Caraway, a double to right, which scored Goslin and Kress. Storti grounded to Sullivan, who tagged Ferrell. Burns flied to Fothergill.

After the Ferrell hit not a Brownie reached first base until there were two out in the ninth, when Kress knocked the second outfield hit off Caraway, a single to left.

The Sox made their fourth and final run in the sixth. Reynolds was safe on Levey's error and went to second while Fonseca was beating out an infield roller. The pair moved forward on Fothergill's sacrifice. Kerr grounded to Melillo, and for the second time in the game Reynolds was run down between third and home. Fonseca scored on Cissell's single to deep short.

Little Activity on Bases.

In the first five innings of the second game four Brownies reached first and none second and in the same span two Sox reached first and one second.

For the Browns Goslin singled with two out in the first inning, Burns beat out an infield single with one out in the second, Coffman walked to start the third and Kress beat out an infield single with one out in the fourth. No one reached first in the fifth—Bengough flied to Reynolds while Levey and Coffman fanned.

For the Sox Sullivan was the first to reach first. He got there with one out in the fourth on Levey's fumble, but forthwith fell asleep on the base line and was doubled off first on Reynolds' pop fly to Melillo. Kerr singled with two out in the fifth and stole second to become the first player in the game to reach second, but Cissell fouled to Burns.

Kress' Hit Scores Schulte.

The Browns got a run in the sixth. Schulte beat out a bit to short and went to second on Melillo's sacrifice. Goslin became Welland's sixth strikeout victim and it appeared that the Sox would get out of the woods. But Kress cracked a single to center and Schulte scored. Kress took second on the throw in and he was safe at third and Storti was safe at first when Cissell fumbled Storti's grounder. Burns forced Storti, Blue to Cissell.

The Sox got two men on with one out in their end of the sixth, but could develop no power whatsoever. Tate walked on four pitches and went to second while Melillo was throwing out Welland. Blue was hit by a pitched ball, then Sullivan fouled to Bengough and Reynolds popped to Melillo.

300 IN FOREST PRESERVE SWIM AT MAPLE LAKE

More than 300 entries have been received for the children's water sports meet to be held at Maple lake in the Palos section of the forest preserves next Sunday. One thousand are expected.

There will be four principal events with four classes of boys and girls divided according to ages. Gold medals will be presented to the champions by President Emmett Wheelan of the forest preserve commissioners. There will be silver and bronze medals for runnersup and buttons with a forest preserve emblem as a consolation to all swimmers who finish in their events.

Chicago is in the lead with the number of entries, with Berwyn second and Cicero third. Entries will close at noon Saturday.

The events will include a 100 yard free style swimming race and a 100 yard breast stroke race. There also will be a boat race and competition in fancy diving. The four classes follow: 13 and 14 years, class A; 15 and 16 years, class B; 17 and 18 years, class C, and 19 years and over, class D.

MILLS DEFEAT ALL-STARS, 4-2; THEN LOSE, 4-0

Paddock Allows Only Seven Hits.

Forrest Paddock hurled the Mills of the Chicago Semi-pro league to a 4 to 2 victory over the Colored All-Stars, but the Mills dropped the second contest of the double header, 4 to 0, Harney allowing only six hits.

Paddock yielded seven hits in the first game. The All-Stars took the lead by scoring in the first, but the Mills pounded Jones for four runs in the sixth. Scores:

P. T. DODGE, 80, DEVELOPER OF LINOTYPE, DIES

Served as Mergenthaler President for Years.

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Philip Teil Dodge, who was president of the Mergenthaler Linotype company for 37 years and also president and chairman of the board of directors of the International Paper company for eleven years, died today at his summer home at Rye, N. Y. He was 80 years old and had been suffering from from at attack of bronchial pneumonia."

Mr. Dodge is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lilias Sutherland Dodge, and a son and daughter by a previous marriage. They are Norman Dodge, who succeeded his father as president of the linotype company four years ago, and Mrs. Thomas C. Musgrave, whose husband is a colonel in the United States army, now stationed at the war college in Washington, D. C.

Began Career as Patent Lawyer.

Through his interest in mechanics and his ability for organization, Mr. Dodge largely was responsible for the perfection and industrial development of the modern linotyping machine, used for mechanical typesetting in the production of newspapers and other publications. He had begun his career as a patent lawyer in Washington, D. C., and in 1891 he became president of the Mergenthaler Linotype company at a time when it was heavily in debt.

Mr. Dodge previously had experimented with more than 100 inventions of his own creation. Through his activities as a patent lawyer he had talked through the first telephone, and had ridden on one of the first bicycles which he had brought from Europe in 1880.

As patent attorney for the Remington Arms company, he filed papers for the development of the typewriter. The papers, written on the new invention, were returned by the patent office to comply with rules that all applications be in handwriting, he afterwards recalled.

Displace Hand Type Setting.

Upon assuming his position with the linotype company, Mr. Dodge combined several of the features of the typewriter with the then existing type setting machine with the result that the linotype machine soon was developed to the point where it successfully could displace type setting by hand.

The new invention was met with considerable opposition on the ground that it would displace printers from their jobs. Later in his career, however, Mr. Dodge pointed out that far more men were employed as linotype operators than ever had been employed to set type by hand. In 1923, he was instrumental in perfecting a machine for printing the Chinese language by reducing about 40,000 Chinese ideograms to some forty printed symbols.

With his wide interest in the basic publishing industries, Mr. Dodge was made president of the International Paper company in 1914. He later became chairman of the board of the company, but resigned from active duty in 1926 to devote his time to other interests.

Mr. Dodge was born in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, July 11, 1851.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Letter

FIGHT HOME FUEL ECONOMY THAT IS SMOKING UP CITY

Cheap Coal and Trash Cause Complaints.

Householders who are trying to economize on fuel bills were warned yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, against burning cheap coal or trash in such a way as to violate the ordinance prohibiting the emission of dense or noxious smoke from chimneys.

"We are receiving an unusually large number of complaints about the burning of poor coal, papers, and refuse," said Mr. Chambers. "In one case we found a man burning old automobile tires to heat water. The neighbors took offense and we stopped it. Many people are burning debris which should be sent to incinerators."

Work Increased During July.

During July the smoke abatement department received 401 complaints and effected 476 abatements, as compared to 306 complaints and 237 abatements in June.

Despite the extra complaints from residential districts caused by cheap fuel, smoke conditions over the city as a whole are better than any previous summer, according to Mr. Chambers. The abatement campaign of the last few years has decreased smoking stacks in industrial plants, he said.

The smoke abatement department, Mr. Chambers said, is handling its work with a curtailed force which has been hard hit by the city hall economy campaign. Whereas three years ago the department had fifteen engineers and fifteen observers, its staff now consists of nine engineers, seven of them doing field work, and no observers.

21 Per Cent Saving in 7 Months.

Out of this year's appropriation of $65,000 the department saved 21 per cent of the money which was to have been spent up to Aug. 1, or 12 per cent of the total appropriation for the year.

Mr. Chambers pointed out that while government costs have tripled since 1910, the city's expenditures for smoke abatement are about the same. In 1910 the appropriation was $48,571 for thirty-four employes.

"We are doing everything possible to coöperate in the economy campaign and at the same time make progress in our work," said Mr. Chambers. "But we surely hope that the department will be strengthened again as soon as funds are available."

GIRL, 9, DROWNED IN LAKE.

Albion, Mich., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Delores, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fierke, was drowned in the waters of Duck Lake near here today. Her mother was saved from a similar fate by Glenn Guarnieri, who rescued the frantic parent as she attempted to save her child.

YOUTH WHO KILLED GIRL WHILE PLAYING 'GUILLOTINE,' HELD

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A game of "guillotine" at a gay birthday party of young people early today had a tragic sequel in Magistrate's court with 21 year old Harold Finn held on a technical charge of manslaughter for the death of Alfshild Iverson, also 21.

Ten couples gathered at the home of Astride Larson in Sheepshead Bay to attend a party in honor of her 20th birthday. Some danced, others played usual party games.

Then some one found an ax. The game of "guillotine" was suggested. Miss Iverson bent her head in the manner of Marie Antoinette. Finn played the executioner.

He swung the ax. The handle came off. The head of the ax struck Miss Iverson at the base of the skull. Physicians pronounced her dead at a nearby hospital.

OHIO PROFESSOR'S OUSTER ASSAILED BY U. S. SAVANTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dismissal of Prof. Herbert A. Miller from the faculty of Ohio State university last May was assailed today as unjust by a committee of teachers which investigated the incident.

The committee of the American Association of University Professors said the attitude of the Ohio State board of trustees was a "grave violation of every essential safeguard in preserving freedom of speech and the security of the American professor's tenure of position."

Dr. Miller, well known sociologist, was dismissed after charges of radicalism on social and racial questions. Included were allegations that he had incited the "Hindus to civil disobedience."

The committee said it had exonerated Dr. Miller of all charges made by the trustees.

The complete report of the committee, composed of Profs. A. B. Coble, University of Illinois; A. O. Craven, University of Chicago; J. W. Martin, University of Kentucky, and A. J. Todd, Northwestern university, will be published soon by the association.

4 KILLED, 1 HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO IN INDIANA

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Four young persons were killed and a fifth was probably fatally injured late today when their automobile was struck by an eastbound limited car on the T. H., I. & E. traction line five miles east of the city.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Dr. Joseph J. M'Grory

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at Maternity B. V. M. church, North and Monticello avenues, for Dr. Joseph J. McGrory, 59 years old, 5921 Grand avenue, who died on Saturday after a week's illness. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Dr. McGrory, a former staff president of St. Anne's hospital, was born in Bryant, Ia., near Clinton. He came to Chicago as a boy, and was graduated from Loyola university and the University of Illinois. For the last thirty-six years he practiced on the northwest side. Surviving Dr. McGrory are two brothers, John of Le Mars, Ia., and P. H. of Bryant.

C.N. Gorham, 64, Insurance Man, Is Dead at Rockford

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Charles N. Gorham, widely known in middle west insurance circles, died early today after a two weeks' attack of heart disease. He was 64 years old. Gorham was western manager for the American Insurance company of Newark, and was the organizer and first head of the Farm association, a group of stock farm writing companies of the west. He was also a member of the executive committee of the Western Underwriters' association.

Circus-Going Physician Finds His Auto in Lake

While Dr. Herman L. Kamin of 3939 Roosevelt road was enjoying himself at the circus in Grant park last night his automobile, parked at the foot of 8th street, was jolted into the lake. Unable to find his machine, the doctor was about to report it stolen. He was called back by Miss B. Fischman of 2650 Evergreen avenue, whose car occupied the space his machine had occupied. She had noticed the top of his automobile in the water.

Frank J. English, Printer, Dies from Heart Attack

Frank J. English, a linotype operator employed by THE TRIBUNE for the last 13 years, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of a heart attack in his home at 527 Lombard avenue, Oak Park. He was 51 years old. He was a member of Chicago Typographical union No. 16, and is survived by his widow and three children, Mrs. Bert Dun, Lucille and James English. He was a brother of School Trustee John English.

AGED PEDESTRIAN KILLED BY AUTO; 2 OTHER DEATHS

Joseph Wedekumis, 73 years old, 1230 Park avenue, North Chicago, was killed last night when he was struck by the automobile of Harry Nichols, a sailor at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, in Sheridan road, North Chicago. Wedekumis was carrying a sack of potatoes on his shoulder at the time, and evidently failed to see Nichols' machine. Nichols was not held.

Deaths in hospitals of two automobile victims yesterday raised the 1931 motor death toll in Cook county to 685. The victims:

Josephine Schultz, 3 years old, 3042 Keeley street. Died at St. Paul's hospital of injuries received Thursday when she was struck by a truck driven by John White, 719 North Spaulding avenue.

Christopher Knobloch, 54 years old, 5045 South Carpenter street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received July 30. Max Izenstein, 1232 South Springfield avenue, whose car struck Knobloch at 51st and Morgan streets, was charged with reckless driving.

Policemen Dominic Versetto and William Kaplinski, of the Hudson avenue station, were severely injured last night when their "flivver" collided with another car at Clybourn avenue and Larrabee street, while they were responding to a radio report of a burglary.

An unidentified man about 35 years old was struck by an automobile and probably fatally injured last night at 7th street and Michigan avenue. At St. Luke's hospital physicians said he is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. George F. Locke, 733 North Kedvale avenue, driver of the car, said the man crossed the street against the lights and that because of the slippery pavement he was unable to stop his car in time to prevent the accident. He was not held.

Eight members of two families were injured early yesterday when their car overturned near Eau Claire, Wis., while they were driving to St. Paul. They are Mr. and Mrs. Godlieb Krause, 5080 Strong street, and their two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Elfenhute, 5034 Strong street, and their two children. Krause, who was driving and went to sleep, suffered a broken leg.

GANDHI BREAKS DOWN DEBATING TRIP TO LONDON

BOMBAY, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi drew tears from the eyes of his large audience of Indian people as he delivered a moving speech concerning his indecision about going to London for the round table conference. At one point the mahatma himself broke down. His first decision not to participate in the second conference unless the communal problem in India was settled was unkindly interpreted, he said, by the American and British press "as a means for backing out of the Delhi pact."

"By the terms of that pact," Gandhi said, "I gave my solemn word I would go to London, but it is necessary that there should be a certain atmosphere for my going. First, I must be assured that the Indian peasants will not suffer in my absence at the hands of the government. Secondly, I want to feel certain that the government will carry out all the terms of the Delhi truce, and thirdly, I would like to feel that there will be peace among the various racial communities while I am absent.

"The highest government officials assured me the Delhi truce will be loyally fulfilled, but we must have concrete acts in that direction, not mere words."

Dr. W. B. Carson, 86, World Famous Surgeon, Is Dead

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Norman Bruce Carson, 86, internationally known surgeon, and professor emeritus of surgery in Washington university medical school, died today after an illness of six months. When he retired from active practice in 1920, Dr. Carson had been engaged in his profession here for 49 years. He was physician to many distinguished persons, including Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant. He was a pioneer in brain surgery and in the surgery of the spinal column.

BUCKLEY BANK BANDIT ON TRIAL TODAY AS KILLER

Watseka, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A special jury will be impaneled here tomorrow to try the last of the three bandits who held up the Buckley State bank on July 16 and shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Henry Ennen. The trio was captured by a posse of farmers immediately after the robbery, and Joseph Jazorak, 36, a shell shocked war veteran, confessed to the killing.

His two confederates, Pierce Lanigan and Robert Felder, subsequently pleaded guilty to the robbery and were sentenced by Circuit Judge Frank L. Hooper on July 30 to from one year to life in the penitentiary at Joliet. Jazorak's plea for leniency, according to his attorney, Barratt O'Hara of Chicago, will be that Deputy Sheriff Ennen wounded him, refused to accept his surrender, and was about to shoot again before Jazorak fired. Jazorak has admitted participation in robberies of post-offices at Sycamore, Ill.; Barnesville, Ga.; Garden City, N. Y.; Paxton, Ill., and Lombard, Ill., within the last nine months, according to police.

GERMANY BARES FINANCIAL WOES TO BASEL BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Aug. 9.—The only business conducted by the Albert Henry Wiggin bankers' committee, in session here to study Germany financial needs, today was during the brief morning session, when Carl Melchior, Hamburg banker, gave a preliminary outline of his country's financial condition. Herr Melchior spent the whole afternoon and evening tabulating figures and compiling data in French and in English for presentation to the committee tomorrow. Actual deliberations and "cross-examination" of Herr Melchior will not start until Wednesday.

State Takes Over Omaha Bank; Deposits $2,700,000

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Decision to close the State Bank of Omaha tomorrow was made late tonight, and it was placed in the hands of the state department of trade and commerce, Halbert L. Schantz, president of the bank, announced late tonight.

The bank has deposits of $2,700,000, Schantz said. He said that the depositors would be paid in full.

The bank has 3 per cent of the total deposits in all Omaha banks. A steady decrease of deposits was blamed by Schantz for the closing.

Indiana Trust Company Shuts.

La Grange, Ind., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The La Grange County Trust company of this city has been placed in the hands of the state banking department, it was announced today. The capital and surplus of the bank is $125,000 and deposits $400,000.

PIPE THEIR BOOZE TO VIRGIN ISLES; IMBIBE AT HOSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—How the Virgin Islanders quench their thirst by imbibing alcoholic beverages transported from a neighboring British island by means of a submarine pipe, is related by a roving correspondent in a dispatch published in a local newspaper this morning. This correspondent states that the islands of Tortila, British, and St. Thomas are connected by a submarine pipe, to which a hose is attached.

"A thirsty resident of St. Thomas," states the dispatch, "simply signals across the three-quarters of a mile that separates the two islands, for as many minutes as he desires the spigot to be turned on at the other end. He attaches his face to the hose and drinks what is commonly known as 'tortila rainwater.'

"The agent on the Virgin island side collects at the rate of 2 shillings for each 30 seconds. After the first second a strange dizziness occurs, lockjaw develops, and it is difficult to let go."

According to the correspondent, the Virgin Islanders purchase alcoholic beverages of various kinds from the adjoining French, British and Dutch islands as well as Haiti, Santo Domingo and Jamaica. One prohibition agent is assigned to the islands.

$2,500,000 PRISON HOSPITAL TO BE BUILT BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The federal prison bureau today announced the approval of plans for the proposed $2,500,000 federal prison hospital at Springfield, Mo., described as being without counterpart elsewhere in the world.

The actual start of construction was forecast for the coming fall, with proposals for bids being put out in about six weeks.

"It will serve as a medical center for the federal penal system," the prison bureau said, "and will care not only for the insane and psychopathic prisoners but also for those suffering from tubercular and other chronic diseases."

The first prisoners to be transferred to the proposed 850 bed hospital, it was said, will be the insane group now being cared for in the government hospital here, together with the insane and tubercular convicts now lodged "in the greatly overcrowded federal penitentiaries."

DETROIT BLAST INJURING SIX IS BLAMED ON GAS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—(AP)—An explosion which wrecked three houses on the east side and injured six persons last night was attributed by police today to a gas leak in one of the houses.

Police said today they had accounted for all of the persons known to have been in the danger area and had abandoned their search for bodies.

The most seriously injured are: Patrolman George Earl, 30, who was between two of the houses when the explosion occurred, and Mrs. Gustave Burssens, who, with her husband and their 6 year old son, live in one of the wrecked houses. Patrolman Earl's condition is serious.

Earl with Patrolman Arthur Hartsig, 25, had been sent to the vicinity to investigate the odor of gas.

GRAIN MARKETS SEEN AS HEADED FOR FAIRER DAYS

Leadership Arises on Buying Side.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Indications are more favorable for better grain markets than at any time in months. Leadership is coming in on the buying side, as there appears to be nothing on the selling side except possibly a few cents profit, while prospects all favor holders.

This does not mean, operators say, that there is to be a big bull market, but that the outlook is better. Prices in all grains have declined to the lowest level in years. Wheat in Chicago has dropped several cents lower than the extreme level of 1894, which was below the 50c mark.

Lowest prices in years were made in wheat the world over during the last week, and it is the impression of those who have been persistently bearish for one to two years that prices should work higher. They do not look for a big advance unless something drastically bullish develops to change the financial and industrial situations in a way that will restore confidence.

Fresh statistics of supplies, with changes in North America equal to about 15 per cent of European import requirements, the shortest spring wheat crop in the Canadian and American northwest in years, in this country it is the smallest since 1894, and all world conditions including trade, have been paraded before the public for months, and prices on all grains and agricultural products as well as of the many other commodities have dropped to unknown levels.

Indications are for a better export demand, Canada having sold several million bushels during the week, which was not large, but showed an increase over recent periods. There will have to be a readjustment of rates between Chicago and Liverpool before foreign business can be expected, so December wheat in Liverpool is over Chicago, with shipping charges between the two markets of 9½d or more.

Movement Past Its Peak.

Reassuring conditions favoring higher prices for wheat, Clement, Curtis & Co. say the winter wheat crop has passed its peak movement. The spring wheat movement will be sparing, owing to the small crop and the poor future of the western Canadian crop, and the movement of the southern hemisphere crop will not begin until January and cannot be large even should yields be good, owing to the drastic reduction in acreage. Europe has probably raised average crops this year, but went into the new crop season with reserves of old grain at a minimum.

Wheat at lowest levels in Chicago last week was down to 47¾c for September; December, 51¾c, and 56¾c for May, with the close on September 47⅝@47¾c; December, 52⅛@52⅝c; May, 57⅛@57¾c, prices being 1⅞@2⅝c for the week. The break in cotton in the last hour on Saturday started a selling movement and a sharp decline. Prices for the week follow:

	September.	December.	May.
Mon.	49¾@50⅝	54 @54¾	59 @59½
Tues.	49@49¾	53¼@53⅞	58 @58¾

Corn Report Due Today.

Speculations are that estimates on the corn crop to be given out by the government today will be lower than that of a month ago. Average of the three private reports was 2,880,000,000 bu, compared with 3,006,000,000 bu in July, and a government return of 2,900,000,000 last month. Last year's crop, the lowest since 1901 aggregated 2,594,000,000 bu.

Deterioration from drought and heat has cut down the crop in a number of the most important sections, not leaving ample production for all requirements.

British crop reports in corn so far have had only a temporary influence on prices, as lowest levels of the season were made on the deferred deliveries at the close with December 49½c and May 43⅝c; September finished 47⅝@50c and March, 41⅞c. Net losses were 3⅝@4⅞c. Prices follow:

	September.	December.	May.
Mon.	50@ 54½	43¾-44	47⅝- 48⅛
Tues.	51½	42¾-43¾	47⅜- 48
Wed.	50@ 51½	41¼-42⅝	45⅝- 47⅛
Thurs.	49@ 51½	40⅜-42	44⅜- 46¼
Fri.	48@ 52½	40¼-41⅜	44⅜- 46¼

1927	1.73 -1.02¾	69⅝-69¾	73¼-1.02¾

Smallest Out Crop in Years.

All indications are that this years' oat crop will be the smallest in years. Nat C. Murray issued the lowest estimate, 1,127,000,000 bu, with B. W. Snow, 1,194,000,000 bu. Average of the private reports is 1,207,000,000 bu, or almost 200,000,000 bu short of July and compared with 1,358,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Hot weather at the critical period hurt the crop so that numerous reports say oats are either being cut for feed or being burned. Samples of oats testing as low as 15 lbs to the measured bushel was a feature.

A good speculative trade was on throughout the week with hedging pressure a feature. At the close September oats were 21⅝@21⅞c; December, 23⅛c; March, 25⅛c, and May, 26½c, all months selling at the lowest prices in the closing days. Net

Check Shows Gains Made by Soviet Trade

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Istanbul provides a yardstick for measuring the accomplishments of Soviet Russia under the five year plan, which reaches its half-way mark this summer.

An accurate day by day check of soviet exports via the Black sea through the Bosphorus—Russia's chief maritime outlet—has been kept for two and a half years. The figures show millions of tons of shipping, steaming faster and faster down the straits to the outside world.

From the inception of the five year plan through June, 1931, Soviet exports shipped through the Bosphorus totaled 21,629,716 long tons.

Increase is Rapid.

The rate of increase is striking. In 1928, total Black sea exports were 3,788,269 tons; in 1929, first year of the five year plan, exports increased 2,248,460 tons over those of 1928; and in 1930 they increased 4,436,096 tons over those of 1929.

For the first six months of 1931, exports increased 20 per cent over those of the first six months of 1930. Total Black sea exports of 1930, amounting to 10,472,525 tons, constitute an increase of almost 175 per cent over exports of 1928, the year prior to the application of the five year plan.

The first drop came in June, 1931, when only 671,477 tons slipped down the Bosphorus, the smallest volume since January, 1930.

Form Bulk of Exports.

Cereals, petroleum products, and minerals constituted 95.77 per cent of the exports from Soviet Black Sea ports during 1930. Cereals alone amounted during that year to 4,025,904 tons, this single item being greater than Russia's total Black sea exports during 1928.

Petroleum products passing through the Turkish straits in 1930 amounted to 2,868,930 tons, and mineral products to 2,135,102 tons, of which 1,325,520 tons were coal and 796,959 tons manganese. Alone among all other items, this last marked a decrease compared with 1929, during which year 996,820 tons of manganese were exported.

Of the ten million odd tons of Soviet exports passing through here in 1930, 415,768 tons were exported direct to the United States. Coal and manganese ore were the chief exports to the States, with wood, bones and rags as minor items. One striking shipment was 6,000 tons of Soviet gasoline sent to Baltimore.

Municipal Bond Offerings This Week Gain Sharply

New York, Aug. 9.—New bond offerings scheduled by 61 municipalities this week total $63,469,324, as compared with $10,958,736 last week, the Bond Buyer reports. The sharp increase is due to the offerings of $21,000,000 notes by the Boston metropolitan transit district Monday, $3,000,000 notes by the city of Philadelphia on Monday, and $30,000,000 in bonds by Detroit on Thursday. The weekly average of new offerings for the year to date now stands at $38,619,461.

The entire floor has been remodeled.

FEDERAL TRADE BODY LAYS DOWN NEW OIL RULES

Seeks to End Unfair Competition.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Five major restrictions upon the petroleum industry were laid down today by the federal trade commission to prevent unfair competition by methods held to be violations of the law.

A number of other regulatory recommendations from within the ranks of the industry were accepted by the commission and promulgated in the new code of trade practices, revised following a conference with representatives of the industry at St. Louis in February, 1929.

Discontinuance of loaning or leasing filling station equipment to retail dealers by distributors "at the earliest possible moment, consistent with existing conditions," was ordered by the commission, which considered this practice "unsound and uneconomic."

May Handle Other Supplies.

"Until such time as this condition can be brought about," the rules said, "equipment may be loaned or leased for the exclusive storage and handling of the products" of distributors, but "the borrower shall not be prohibited from handling in other equipment the products of another supplier."

Maliciously inducing or attempting to induce breach of existing contracts between competitors and their customers by any false or deceptive means, or interfering with contractual duties, was held by the commission to be an unfair trade practice in violation of the law.

In the same category was placed selling of goods below cost "with the intent of injuring a competitor and where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition or [illegible] to create a monopoly or to ur[illegible]ably restrain trade."

Prizes Are Prohibited.

"Lotteries, prizes, wheels of fortune, or other games of chance," the commission said, "shall not be used in connection with the sales of gasoline or motor oils.

"No company shall paint over any sign or colors of another company until it has communicated with the company whose signs or colors are involved, inquiring whether or not the latter company has any written contract which would be violated by the proposed painting."

The trade practice rules adopted by the industry would prohibit supplying equipment to airports at less than cost and all refiners, distributors, jobbers and wholesalers would be required to post at each point from which they make delivery specific prices of their products. They would be prohibited from deviating from these prices by any secret rebates, unusual credits or similar plans.

U. S. Invites Tenders on $60,000,000 91 Day Bills

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Mills today invited tenders for $60,000,000 on 91 day treasury bills which will be sold to the highest bidder on Aug. 13. The bills will be dated Aug. 17 and will mature on Nov. 16, when they will be redeemed at face value. The money received will be used to retire $50,000,000 in treasury bills which mature on Aug. 17.

MIDDLE WEST'S GROSS EARNINGS UP; NET IS DOWN

Gross earnings of subsidiaries of Middle West Utilities company for twelve months ending June 30, 1931, were $183,391,397, an increase of 4.6 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago. Net for retirement and stocks of the Middle West Utilities company was $32,742,891, compared with $33,645,505, the decrease being due to greater fixed charges on Middle West Utilities company's notes issued during the last year.

Subsidiaries' gross earnings in the second quarter of 1931 were $44,264,832, compared with $44,344,259 in the second quarter of 1930. Net for retirement and stocks of Middle West Utilities company [after increased fixed charges as referred to above] was $6,744,467, compared with $7,371,601.

Forecasts Big Purchases by Air Transport Lines

Weakness in Rail Issues Dominates Bond Market

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Recurrent weakness in rail issues was the outstanding development of the bond market last week.

The downward movement was almost uninterrupted and a large number of issues of various investment ratings reached new low levels for the year. The average price for ten leading rail loans ended the week at 96, which represents a net decline of 2 2-10 points for that period and the most important factor in the loss of 1 point in the average for thirty leading issues which closed at 93.5.

Nothing of a generally bearish nature for the railroads developed, but the plight of the carriers on the whole is known not to be encouraging, a viewpoint reflected in the atcion of rail stocks.

Turnover Is Small.

Another evidence of lack of buying interest in bonds appeared in the limited turnover in most groups. The total sales on the New York Stock exchange on Saturday established the lowest aggregate turnover for a short session since Aug. 2, 1930, at $3,555,000. Trading on the other days broke no records, but the market as a whole was never really active.

Foreign obligations provided many of the largest losses. Hungarian loans scored some of the sharp declines and Latin-American issues experienced a good many also. German bonds moved back and forth to close with irregular changes. The 5½s and 7s of the national government were firm most of the time. The lack of further complicating results following the reopening of German banks on Wednesday contributed some confidence to the situation.

Industrial bonds were alternately steady and irregularly lower. Many of the more representative issues ended the week with moderate losses. Public utility loans were quiet most of the time at steady prices.

New Issues Dwindle.

Further evidence that the long awaited upturn in the bond market has not arrived yet appeared in the flotation of only $3,750,000 in bonds during the week. Of this small total more than half consisted of municipal obligations. Such demand as exists for bonds is concentrated still on the strictly high grade issues. Even among the hard pressed rails, bonds of this description resisted the downward trend pretty well.

Scheduled sales of municipal issues for this week show a large increase over last week but this is but another evidence of the demand for gilt edge obligations. Moreover, many of them have the advantage of tax exemptions, which is an important consideration for both large private and corporate investors.

PRESSED STEEL CAR TO REBUILD ITS PLANT HERE

Pressed Steel Car company of Pittsburgh, manufacturers of railroad cars, has awarded the contract for the design and construction of a new Chicago plant to the Austin company. The contracts includes six buildings to be erected at 126th and Brandon streets in Chicago, replacing the former plant of the company destroyed by fire.

All buildings will be one story steel and brick construction, the largest being 90 feet wide and 360 feet long. A total of 280 tons of structural steel will be required, and the Chicago office of the Austin company, which has the supervision of the job, expects to have all work completed in September. The project represents an investment of $60,000.

Construction work representing an investment of more than $500,000 has been placed with the Austin company, engineers and builders of Cleveland, within the last two weeks, W. J. Austin, president, says.

DIVIDEND RATES CHIEF CONCERN OF WALL STREET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Lacking more definite indications of what the autumn has in store for domestic business, which appears to be the major consideration of the moment, Wall street had few developments last week to dwell upon aside from Europe's difficulties, discussion of which has grown rather stale.

The complete absence of any positive opinion as to the financial outlook was reflected in the low ebb to which business receded on the stock exchange. Total transactions for the week barely equaled the volume of one brisk day in the period when an excited speculative public was shaping the course of security prices.

Dividend uncertainties engaged the attention of the financial community to an increasing extent as might have been expected following the United States Steel corporation's action the week before in readjusting its payment on common stock. If the occasional nervous declines on the stock exchange reflected the apprehensions commonly supposed, Wall street had something of a "dividend scare."

Cite Basis for Fears.

The prevalent uneasiness with respect to the safety of dividend rates was based, apparently, upon the belief that, since the country's largest industrial company had adopted a retrenchment policy as applied to shareholders; other enterprises would be influenced to adopt a similar course, whether warranted or not. Speculators for the decline did not hesitate to capitalize these fears; indeed, there is a suspicion that they may have given rise to some of the more unreasonable rumors.

There may be grounds for presuming that the dividends on common stocks which have enjoyed a high investment rating in the past will be reduced, simply because the Steel corporation found it necessary, as a matter of business prudence, to cut its rate, but it is extremely doubtful.

ALTON'S PATH IS SMOOTHER UNDER B. & O. CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—The election of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, to the presidency of the Alton railroad, which bought the property of the old Chicago and Alton railroad under foreclosure, marks the end of a series of stirring financial events in which that property has been involved since 1899.

As a result of the B. & O. acquisition, the Alton property, which for years staggered under an unwieldly load of capital, finds itself operating under a balanced financial structure directed by a management selected from the B. & O. organization.

In 1899 the Chicago and Alton was one of the standard dividend payers. According to some critics its property had not been sufficiently maintained and allowance for improvements, said to be necessary, should have been made to give a true picture of the railroad. How the Alton ended its rôle as an unostentatiously operated railway and began a more checkered career is related in George Kennan's biography of the late Mr. Harriman.

Cites Harriman Operations.

"Becoming satisfied that the road could be bought for less than its potential value," related Mr. Kennan, "Mr. Harriman invited Jacob H. Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., James Stillman, president of the National City bank, and George Gould, to join him in making the purchase on the terms suggested and in providing the necessary funds for betterments and additional equipment as well as for the refunding or retirement of the company's maturing bonds.

"This syndicate was ultimately made to include Morris K. Jessup, John A. Stewart, ex-assistant treasurer of the United States; John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust company, as well as some of the leading financial houses and institutions of the country.

"In 1899 the syndicate bought 218,000 Alton shares, or 97 per cent of its capital stock, for $38,815,000 in cash. The new management then transferred $12,444,000, which the old management had taken out of current income and invested, to surplus. Of this addition to surplus, they distributed $6,669,000 as a 30 per cent dividend on the stock they bought, thus cutting its cost by that amount.

Authorizes Sale of Bonds.

Following this adjustment of accounts, the new management authorized the sale of $31,988,000 par value of 3 per cent bonds to stockholders at 85.

The profits to the syndicate from sale of the Alton securities in their hands as a result of these and other transactions was estimated by Prof. W. Z. Ripley at $23,600,000. Mr. Kennan estimated that if the securities were sold at the average prices between 1901 and 1907 the profit was $7,624,000.

Subsequently, it was pointed out by Prof. Ripley, the capitalization of the road was "expanded from $33,951,000 to more than $114,000,000 within seven years." At the same time, however, the new management made additions to the road's equipment and property.

"The control of the road was wrested from him [Harriman] by the Rock Island," relates Mr. Kennan, "while he was in Europe in 1903, and he severed his relations with it altogether when the Rock Island transferred its holdings to the Toledo, St. Louis & Western in 1907."

Takes Bonds in Exchange.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway took in exchange for the Alton stock four per cent collateral trust bonds of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, which latter road is now part of the Nickel Plate. In 1921, the Rock Island owned $5,447,000 of these bonds out of about $11,000,000 outstanding. In 1914 receivers were appointed for the Toledo road and the validity of the bonds was attacked by a committee of its stockholders, who also asserted a claim against the Rock Island for alleged loss to the Toledo road through the 1907 transaction.

After litigation, a compromise was reached.

Total capitalization of the old Chicago and Alton railroad was about $129,000,000, with some $88,200,000 obligations requiring annual interest charges of about $3,368,000. By contrast the Alton company, formed as successor by the B. & O., has a capitalization of about $75,000,000. The new capitalization includes $25,000,000 of fully paid capital stock, $45,350,000 of the bonds authorized in 1899, $3,895,000 of equipment obligations outstanding and $1,500,000 receiver's notes. Annual interest charges on the new capitalization will be about $1,580,000.

Shrewd Investors BUY in times like these

Low bond prices and liberal yields are characteristic of the times. Wise investors are taking advantage of such opportunities. Those who wait may have to pay more and receive less return on their money.

Associated Gas and Electric Company Debenture Bonds now yielding over 6%, have outstanding investment merit as proved by a comparison with similar bonds of 15 other leading utility companies. This comparison is based on tests used by expert investors in evaluating bonds.

American Gas and Electric.

Will you please give me some information about American Gas and Electric company?—L. F. K.

American Gas and Electric company controls a group of subsidiaries supplying electric power and light to 1,092 communities with a population of 2,775,000 in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan.

Consolidated operating revenues for 1930 were $68,600,967, against $68,021,531 for 1929. Net income for 1930 was $19,238,012, which was 9.02 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to $4.38 per common share. For 1929 net income was $20,897,609, which was 9.86 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to $5.98 per common share on a smaller capitalization. Net income for 1928 was $18,135,061 and for 1927, $14,829,811.

For the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, balance available for common dividends was approximately $16,025,000, or $4.10 per common share.

On June 30, 1931, consolidated current assets were in excess of $40,000,000, and current liabilities were slightly more than $14,000,000.

The common is on an annual dividend basis of $1 per share in cash and 4 per cent in common stock. An extra stock dividend of 20 per cent was paid Jan. 2, 1931.

Mayfair Hotel.

I hold a $500 bond on the Mayfair hotel, St. Louis. I have received information that the bonds are in default. Will you please give me some information on them?—H. A. N.

The underwriters of Mayfair hotel, St. Louis, Mo., first mortgage serial 6½s due July 1, 1927 to 1941, have furnished us with the following report dated June 26, 1931:

"The original amount of this issue was $1,600,000. The amount of bonds outstanding and entitled to first mortgage priority under the trust indenture is $1,430,000.

"For the year ended Dec. 31, 1930, net earnings, after operating expenses and taxes, available for mortgage requirements, according to the report furnished by the mortgagor, amounted to $131,985.61. Interest requirements for the period were $96,466.51 and amortization was $52,500.

"During the last six months the income from the property has been sufficient to provide for the interest coupons falling due July 1, 1931, but not for the principal amount of bonds maturing on the same date. . . ."

A committee for the protection of the bondholders has been organized.

A report covering bondholders' protective committees in general is being mailed to you.

I. C. C. Authorizes Plan for New Houston Line

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Harris County-Houston Ship Channel Navigation district to construct about 2¼ miles of line connecting the North Side Belt railway and the Houston North Shore railway at Houston, Tex. Seven railroads operating in the district were authorized to run trains over the new line. The lines to be connected serve the Houston ship channel in delivering freight to docks.

OUTPUT OF STEEL DECLINES AGAIN AFTER INCREASE

Little Demand for Copper Despite Low Prices.

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The slight improvement in steel production in the previous week was not maintained and steel production again receded to about 30 per cent of capacity, with most lines quiet.

While a moderate demand for structural steel continues, curtailment of the automobile industry to about half of capacity, and little or no call for rails, sheets and tubular goods accounts for the dullness. The trade is looking for some betterment in buying of agricultural implements during the rest of the year. With earnings of some of the larger companies making a poor showing, producers are firm in price ideas, which hold steady and unchanged. Pig iron production has declined to the lowest point since 1921, with demand restricted to a hand-to-mouth basis.

Copper Demand Lags.

Copper was dull and despite recessions to record low prices there was no improvement in demand. Large producers reduced quotations to 7⅝c for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley, while metal was available at further concessions of ¼ of a cent through custom smelters. Consumers are well supplied, however, and are not inclined to anticipate further needs pending improvement in general business conditions.

Tin fluctuated irregularly in a quiet market until the close of the week when strength of London was reflected here and on renewed consumer buying prices advanced rather sharply.

Buy Moderate Lots.

Lead continues unchanged, with consumers buying moderate lots for immediate shipment. Although producers are willing to sell somewhat further ahead at current levels, the tone is generally steady.

Zinc held unchanged and although demand continued restricted, there was no pressure to sell.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Frank W. Marzluff, until recently secretary and investment officer of the North American Life Insurance company of Chicago, and Thomas S. McCabe, formerly house attorney for George M. Forman & Co., have associated themselves in the general practice of law with offices at 11 South La Salle street.

Byron G. Webster, formerly associated with Harris, Upham & Co. here as resident manager, has joined Shields & Co. Mr. Webster, prior to becoming associated with Harris, Upham & Co., was connected with Harris, Winthrop & Co. in the Minneapolis and St. Paul offices as manager.

J. F. Owens, president, Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, announces the appointment of Robert C. Coffy as manager of the eastern division of the company with headquarters in Muskogee, and the election of W. S. Van Sickel to succeed Mr. Coffy as vice president and general manager of the Mississippi Valley Power company and president of the Fort [illegible] Traction company.

J. E. Sullivan, well known Chicago banker, today becomes president and a member of the board of directors of the Cook County Trust company, 69 West Washington street. Mr. Sullivan entered the banking business in the old Hibernian Bank in 1900, was a state bank examiner from 1909 to 1919, when he went with the Harriman Brothers Banking company. He served successively as credit manager, assistant cashier, second vice president and senior vice president of the Foreman banks.

Average Yield on 323 Common Stocks 8.16 P[illegible]

The average yield on 323 [illegible] cash dividend paying common [illegible] listed on the New York stock exchange rose from 7.63 per cent to 8.16 per cent during July as a result of declining prices, Moody's states. The yield of 8.16 per cent as of July 31 compares with the peak of 8.18 per cent recorded at the beginning of June.

IN SELECTING a city in which to locate your business as well as a place to live, you should look for more than materials, markets, transportation and labor.

The diversity and concentration of industry in the Philadelphia area are the best evidence that the community affords these essentials.

But Philadelphia also is rich in cultural advantages. Schools, colleges, libraries, museums, art galleries, churches, amusements, sports, parks and resorts, all these Philadelphia has in abundance. Her residential sections are famed for their beauty and convenience to the city's center. Comfortable homes are available within a great range of prices.

Send for "The Real Philadelphia," a booklet you will enjoy reading. We will also be glad to send you any of the following booklets showing the advantages that Philadelphia offers your business: "Labor," "Power," "Transportation," and "Distribution Efficiency Applied to Plant Location." DIVIDEND RATES CHIEF CONCERN OF WALL STREET

Leaders Govern Actions to Own Situations.

It may be assumed, will be governed by their own earnings. This was demonstrated last week when the General Motors corporation, in which many stockholders of the Steel corporation are interested, maintained its regular rate, having earned its dividend requirements with a margin to spare. The American Telephone & Telegraph company, which also has shown earnings sufficient to cover dividend disbursements at the present rate and which numbers among its stockholders some of the most important interests in the U. S. Steel corporation, proposes to order the usual quarterly payment when its directors meet later in the month, according to apparently authoritative intimations last week.

Less Dominant Influence.

European news exercised a less dominant influence on the markets last week although developments abroad continued to demand the close attention of Wall Street. With the reopening of the German banks for restricted business, so far as international transfers are concerned, conditions in Germany approached normal. The more difficult and important problem of handling Germany's short-term foreign obligations is in process of being solved with considerable prospect, presumably, of success. New York bankers last week conveyed a statement of their attitude on the subject to the Reichsbank. It now remains to reconcile this with the attitude of London and continental bankers and to devise effective measures for putting whatever plan results into operation.

It is recognized that the German crisis is likely to be with us in more or less acute form for some time to come, in the view of most important bankers, until such time as a cure for the fundamental ills of German economy can be worked out through readjustment of reparations [which means necessarily of war debts also] and the creation of substantial long-term credits. In the meantime, it is evident, every effort is being made to devise temporary methods of relief.

Weakness of Sterling.

A more immediate and, it is to be hoped, transitory, problem is the unexpectable weakness of sterling exchange in the London market. In spite of the sweeping measures taken to protect the exchange by the action in the Bank of England rate now 2½ per cent to 4½ per cent and the creation of the $250,000,000 credit by the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, sterling broke last week to a level at which free world money markets could now obtain gold from London.

This development would have been less disturbing if it could have been entered as a mere temporary reflection of the other European financial troubles, but the persistent weakness of sterling has been a source of concern since long before the German crisis became acute. Whether because, as London seems to presume, of the presence in London of unwieldy French balances makes the exchange vulnerable, or because of more deep-seated causes, sterling has been subject to sudden sinking spells for the last two years or more.

The action of New York banks in voluntarily refraining from taking gold from London when the exchange value such transfers profitable is much to be commended. It cannot be concluded, however, that this action is in contradiction to the established theory of the gold standard, which looks to the free movement of gold to correct inequalities of exchange.

WILL START SOON ON $19,000,000 RAIL BRIDGE IN SOUTH

New Orleans, Aug. 9.—[U. P.]—Approval of contracts between the state, Public Belt railroad and the Southern Pacific railroad, insuring the construction of the $19,000,000 Public Belt bridge across the Marsh river here, has been announced here by Gov. Huey P. Long. The contracts will be signed next week and work on the bridge will start as soon as possible after bids are opened and building contracts awarded, about September 15, the governor said. Actual work will be started within 60 days, he said.

Sixteen Killed in Berlin Riots After Reds and Hitlerites Lose—Suicide Pact Wipes Out Kin of Dead Actor

WHERE BERLIN RIOTING, THAT COST LIVES OF 16 PERSONS, STARTED. The home of the late Karl Liebknecht, which now houses the communist newspaper, the Red Flag, in front of which gathered communists who fired on police. Four police and twelve communists were killed. Meanwhile the combination of communists and Hitlerites met defeat at polls.
